Arizona Boundary Pact To Be Signed Tuesday

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — An agreement redefining the boundary line between California and Arizona which climaxes 10 years of negotiations will be signed by Boundary Commissions of both states in a ceremony Tuesday in Gov. Edmund G. Brown's office.

The boundary actually is new only in the sense it seeks to compensate for meandering of the Colorado River which made obsolete the long-standing stream dividing line between Arizona and California. Gov. Paul Fannin will head an Arizona delegation for the ceremony.

Although final action still awaits approval by the two state legislatures and the U.S. Congress, the agreement is expected to solve many problems besetting state and local officials for years.

When the problem reached a critical point in 1953, California and Arizona established parallel Colorado River Boundary Commissions. Their job was to locate a common boundary of Nevada to the international border.

Many private property owners had been uncertain as to which state they legally resided. In some cases, property has been taxed by a county on the opposite side of the river.

A law enforcement presented many difficulties, with jurisdictional questions arising daily.

The attorneys general of both states, Robert Pickrell of Arizona and Stanley Mosk of California, as well as legislative leaders, will attend the signing of the compact.

Brown has expressed support of legislation before the senate and assembly on the compact adoption.

Morse Raps Journalism

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said Friday American journalism "has failed in its responsibilities" to report events truthfully and the public knows it.

"The people of the country know that American journalism, by and large, has failed in its responsibilities under the First Amendment (freedom of speech) to tell the truth," Morse told the Senate.

His remarks on the Senate floor were sparked by an editorial in the Washington Evening Star about Morse entitled: "Our Verbose Correspondent."

Morse said that the American press has, with "some notable exceptions, succumbed to the powerful interests which own American journalism."

"Let me say," he added, "that I happen to be one politician who for 18 years in the Senate has not hesitated to 'take on' the press, because I do not recognize the members of the press as particularly superior men." He said journalists don't read enough to keep themselves informed because they are so engrossed in reading only what they write.

Cagey Play Makes Bid

By OSWALD JACOBY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It is standard practice in expert circles to play the jump raise of an overcall as strong, but not forcing. Thus, I was under no obligation to go to four spades after my partner jumped to three, but I hate to stop one trick below game so I pulled myself together, worked out my alibi in case the game did not make, and bid it.

West opened the four of clubs. East rose with the king and I had to make an immediate decision. If that four of clubs was a singleton it would be up to me to grab the trick, draw trumps, and take the diamond finesse. If it worked I would make an over-trick, if it failed I would still make my contract.

Suppose that the lead had been third or fourth best. Then if I took the first club and the diamond finesse lost, East would be able to put his partner in to lead through dummy's king of hearts.

I couldn't afford that. East needed both the ace of hearts and a king of diamonds for his opening bid, therefore my problem was to decide if the lead were a singleton or not.

There was no sure thing, but it seemed unlikely to find a seven-one split in clubs. I let the king hold the trick.

From then on everything was hunky-dory. I won the club return; drew trumps, finessed the diamond unsuccessfully, but was able to discard a heart on dummy's fourth diamond to make my contract.

Scots Guard Quits Post

LONDON (UPI)—Fed up with too much spit and polish discipline, 25 members of the elite Scots Guards—one of the regiments which looks after the queen—walked off in a huff Friday.

It was a strike to raise the eyebrows of every lover of royal tradition and to make uncounted thousands of legendary Col. Blimps turn in their graves.

Britons took it with a mixture of astonishment, indignation—and some carefully controlled mirth.

The men went AWOL shortly before some of them were due to stand guard at Windsor Castle, where the changing of the guard provides Britons and tourists with one of its old country's most famous sights.

Fourteen of the guards were rounded up Saturday after a London-wide search. Then others began trickling in.

One of the returnees, 18-year-old Hugh Smith, told reporters, "We will repeat all our complaints when asked. This walkout had been brewing for a long time. We were just fed up with poor grub and with all the heckling. The CSM (company sergeant major) has been too tough. Soldiers won't stand for that sort of thing."

Mansfield Sees Danger From Syria

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday the latest Syrian political upheaval only underscores a need for a constructive, non-partisan approach to Cuba and other U.S. foreign policy problems.

The Montana Democrat told a reporter the Middle East situation, including the takeover in Syria by pro-Nasser forces, has "all the elements of combustion that could flame into a world conflagration."

He said there also are such other trouble areas as Berlin, South Viet Nam, Formosa, Korea, and Africa besides the Cuban crisis, to burden President Kennedy.

The President, he said, "has an awful lot on his mind. We must find some suitable meeting point where we can subordinate politics and political motives and look to the common good."

In another development, presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger told newsmen the White House is not getting into daily arguments with Republicans who are criticizing the administration about Cuba.

He was asked for comment on a pledge by House Republican whip Leslie C. Arends, Ill., to keep hitting at the issue.

"Our position is very clear," Salinger said. "We're not going to get into these daily arguments."

Mansfield went on the Senate floor Friday to lash at Kennedy's Republican critics on Cuba. He accused them of "panic politics" and of "proving over the dead" with the reshaping of the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion.

In his sternly-worded attack, he said the Republicans who tried to make it appear that the Kennedy administration had tried to suppress news that four Alabama fliers had died in the invasion were guilty of "irresponsible politics."

He termed raking over of the incident a "cruel thing to do" to the fliers' families and a "reckless thing to do to foreign policy."

He said "no national purpose" was served by partisan discussion of the Cuban crisis.

Although some of his remarks appeared to be aimed at Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen, Mansfield Saturday exonerated the Illinois Republican of irresponsibility.

Cuba Fence Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., Saturday recommended a full armed blockade of Cuba if other efforts to get Soviet troops out of the island do not work.

An actual invasion, he said, should be "the last recourse" and should be considered only in light of soviet threats of nuclear attack.

Engle, in an interview filmed for broadcast over California stations, said diplomatic efforts should be made first to force the troop removal. If that proves unsuccessful, he added, the nations of the Western Hemisphere should join in a boycott of Cuba.

"If that doesn't work... then we put on a blockade—a full blockade—in which case we throw an armed corridor around Cuba and make the operation so expensive that Mr. Khrushchev would rather give it up than pay the price," Engle said.

An invasion, he said, would require the use of many American divisions and result in loss of American lives.

"And, finally," he said, "we can't ignore the threat made by the chief of defense of Russia that if we invade Cuba they will launch a nuclear attack against the United States."

"I'm not saying that we ought to be bluffing out by what Mr. Khrushchev or his defense chief say, but I am saying that we have to consider all that."

Engle said the final decision on invasion should be left to the President.

Buenos Aires, Argentina, is second only to New York City in the extent of its foreign trade.

Jackson Explains Gift

MEDFORD (UPI)—The irrevocable bequest to Willamette University of 32 per cent ownership of the Rogue Valley Country Club by Glenn L. Jackson of Medford, announced this week, applies to stock owned by the golf holding company, Jackson explained today in response to queries.

It is 32 per cent of that stock, plus 100 per cent ownership of the recently added nine holes in the 27-hole golf course that Jackson is leaving to the university.

The clubhouse and its facilities, including dining room and bar, are being purchased under an existing contract by the golf club, which is composed of social and playing members of the Rogue Valley Country Club. When this contract is completed, the building and its facilities will be operated separately from the land.

The land, which will be under control of the university, will provide it with perpetual income since members using the course will pay rent for the privilege.

Jackson has held the stock since 1930. He obtained it during the depression when he reorganized and developed the present Rogue Valley Country Club.

Medical Society Favors County's Salk Polio Immunization Program

The subject of a mass immunization clinic using oral polio vaccine was discussed recently at a meeting of the Klamath County Medical Society, but the group decided against such a program since the State Board of Health does not recommend the use of Type III oral polio vaccine because of the possibility of complications.

The group agreed that Salk vaccine immunization is very valuable and urge that children from three months of age and up should be vaccinated and given this protection. It was urged that all parents take their children to their family physician for immunization before the polio season.

The county health department has a clinic each Monday from 3 to 4:30 p.m. at which time polio immunization as well as diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and smallpox vaccinations are available.

It is recommended by the health department that all children receive a booster for polio every two years. They should also receive immunization against the above mentioned diseases not only through public school age, but also through high school and college.

Dr. Kerron also warned that people intending to spend any time in the eastern part of the county or state should be vaccinated against Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever, Colorado Tick Fever is more prevalent in the eastern area, but vaccine for it is not available.

The time to get protection against these tick diseases is now, since April and May are the most dangerous months.

Dr. Kerron also indicated that the flu bug has spread as far as Montana and Arizona now and residents should be vaccinated as soon as possible. Kerron recommended that older people especially should get the protection.

MIAMI (UPI) — A Pan American Airways four-engine jet is scheduled to ferry 15,000 pounds of medicines to Cuba today and is expected to return here with about 100 Cuban-Americans seeking asylum.

The Red Cross chartered DC6B will carry the supplies as part of the $3 million in ransom promised Fidel Castro in return for the release of 1,113 Bay of Pigs prisoners at Christmas time.

The survey doesn't indicate how many pre-school children and babies have been vaccinated.

"Any time that 80 per cent of the young population of a community is immunized the community is considered by health authorities to be protected from a severe epidemic," Dr. Kerron said.
