Burglars Get $2,500 In Fort Klamath Act

Burglars broke into the room of C. A. Coleman at the Fort Klamath Hotel, Fort Klamath, early Friday morning and escaped with a desk containing money and property valued at approximately $2,500, the sheriff's office disclosed Monday.

Stolen was a coin collection including 32 $2 bills, a solid gold tie clasp and chain valued at $500, a pair of black onyx cuff links with diamond insets valued from $700 to $1,000, and about $1,200 in coins and currency, according to sheriff's deputy Lou Bogart.

Coleman, owner and operator of the hotel, told the sheriff that he had shown his coin collection and other items to three people before he departed from the hotel for Klamath Falls, about 1 a.m. Friday. He returned two hours later and discovered the door to his room had been broken open and the desk and its contents stolen.

Sheriff's deputies, acting on the assumption that the desk was looted and discarded, searched the Fort Klamath area for the missing desk but were unable to find it.

Evidence indicates that the burglars broke the door by running at it and smashing it with their shoulders. Coleman's room is located adjacent to the bar, closed at the time of the burglary, on the first floor of the hotel. No other quarters are situated on that floor.

A woman who resides on the second floor of the hotel reported hearing the motor of an automobile outside of her window about 2:30 a.m. Friday. The sheriff's office is continuing its investigation.

City Police Investigate Weekend Theft Series

Klamath Falls police are investigating five weekend thefts including the theft of a car, and the fourth theft of beer from a Klamath Falls distributing company truck.

A 1948 blue Oldsmobile owned by Roger Wermer, Box 4308, Klamath Falls, was reported stolen by Clyde England of Clyde's, 3300 S. Eighth Street and Klamath Avenue.

The vehicle apparently was stolen Friday night from a parking lot on Market Street. It has the Oregon license plate number 6P-9286.

A patrol car on a routine check early Saturday morning noticed that a padlock had been broken off a distributing company beer truck again.

This is the fourth such occurrence in as many weeks. It was not immediately known how much was missing from the truck.

Henry Lew, owner of Wong's Cafe, 421 Main Street, reported $150 stolen from a locked desk drawer in the cafe between 3:30 and 10 a.m. Sunday.

Lew said the screws were removed from the lock on the drawer and the thief apparently knew where the money would be.

The owner said he thought someone had been stealing from his cafe quite regularly.

The screws on the lock were well worn, he said, as if someone had opened the drawer the same way on other occasions.

Federal Agents Slap Gamblers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Internal Revenue Service agents swooped down on gambling operations in 32 cities Thursday night, arresting 131 persons who failed to produce federal gambling stamps.

The agents, striking simultaneously at 149 bookmaking and numbers parlors, seized 11 automobiles, 37 slot and pinball machines, and confiscated $25,000 in cash.

Raiders were conducted in cities in 19 states—New York, Tennessee, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Kansas, Missouri, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Michigan, Illinois, South Dakota, Kentucky, Ohio, Louisiana, Texas, Utah, and California.

An IRS spokesman said it was part of the agency's "systematic, periodic raids." The last one came in December.

Atlas Missile Test Explodes

The debris landed on land, "within the compound," and no one was injured, an Air Force spokesman said.

Cause of the explosion was not known.

Various versions of the Atlas have been fired from this West Coast base in tests down the Pacific missile range. Atlas ICBMs have been located here since the noisy giant was declared operational.

BRIDGE GOING UP — Construction workers today began driving concrete pilings which will support a bridge that will carry vehicular traffic proceeding between Washburn Way and Alameda Avenue. Work on the new bridge, being constructed by the Inter-City Construction Co. of Eugene at a cost of $29,504, was started last Wednesday when the firm began hauling in materials for the job. Above, workmen begin moving a part of the crane into place before fitting it to the crane housing. The crane is in operation on Washburn Way, across from Alameda Avenue, located on the other side of the canal.

Two Convicted Slayers Transferred To Salem

Two Klamath Falls men convicted by Klamath County juries of two unrelated slayings were transferred from the county jail to the Oregon State Penitentiary by Sheriff Murray "Red" Britton last Saturday.

The slayers are Herbert Floyd Mitchell, 41, condemned for a first degree murder of Dmitre Dan Yerkovich in a local theatre last Sept. 28, and Jerry Richard Haines, 24, sentenced to serve a term not to exceed 10 years for the involuntary manslaughter of his wife, Christine, at the victim's home, 3863 Clinton Avenue, Dec. 17.

Haines, as Mitchell, had been on trial for first degree murder but the jury sitting in judgment of the case decided in favor of the manslaughter verdict. The defendant had been accused of slaying his pregnant wife with a bullet fired from a .22 caliber pistol. A jury of seven women and five men deliberated more than five hours before voting 10-2 that the shooting was accidental.

Mitchell, a party in a triangle involving his ex-wife, Rosalie, and Yerkovich, was convicted of the murder charge by a six-woman, six-man jury New Year's Eve and received the death sentence from Judge David R. Vandenberg 10 days later.

The Supreme Court will review the transcript of the Mitchell case, as it does in all cases where the death sentence is imposed.

The date for Mitchell's execution has not been set.

Sheriff Britton transferred the prisoners to the state prison by commercial airlines Saturday morning and returned to Klamath Falls later the same day.

Play's Author, Composer Visit Here As Benefit Production Nears Date

By MRS. ROBERT DE ROSIER

The author and composer of the musical, "Eliza and the Lumberjack," being produced as a benefit for the Klamath Playhouse, April 4 and 5 at the O.T.I. Little Theatre, were in Klamath Falls this week to supervise production, according to Ellen Miller, director of the presentation.

The musical resulted from a meeting between Patricia Campbell, author of the novel "Eliza," and Helen Davis, composer of the play form. Both women are Washington state residents, with Mrs. Campbell making her home in Port Ludlow and Mrs. Davis residing in South Bend.

They met in 1947 at a writers' conference which Mrs. Davis was attending and at which Mrs. Campbell was lecturing.

Mrs. Davis received permission to compose the song, "Eliza," based on the novel's heroine. This work led to the composition of the production which will be seen here.

Both women have been interested in preserving the logging folklore and the Indian life of the northwest. According to Mrs. Davis, the Library of Congress has on record only one authentic song of the state of Washington. She believes that "Eliza and the Lumberjack," which has been produced some twenty times during the past sixteen years, has a future because so little has been written that deals with the life of the logger.

Commented Mrs. Davis, "I am happy to see adults doing this, because their maturity gives it a real place in the community."

"This is as it should be," she continued.

The musical college group which has performed the musical lacks not only the maturity to handle the work, but also creates a false situation in that the college group is not truly a part of the community. A show such as "Eliza" finds its worth in bringing to adults the too-often forgotten lore which is a part of our heritage, Mrs. Davis explained.

A trained musician, Mrs. Davis is the composer of three other full length shows, including the "Dedication Pageant" for Fort Columbia, a national shrine near Astoria, "Eliza," however, is her first composition done in musical play form.

She is the composer of the official state song of Washington, "Eliza," which has been orchestrated by Stuart Churchill of the Fred Waring group, and Bert Christensen from Central Washington College. The song has been done in many arrangements, including scores for symphonies and bands.

"The songs in 'Eliza,'" said Mrs. Davis, "are rather fragments or adaptations and extensions of melody from available Washington folklore and history."

For example, the song, "Blue Columbine," a nostalgic number sung by Eliza, is based on the old time Washington custom of neighbors exchanging the seeds of the blue columbine, a flower which was brought west in many cases

Two Long-Sought Fugitives Captured By State Police

Two fugitives sought by the FBI and police in various western states were apprehended by the Oregon State Police early Sunday night and are being held in the city jail, state police reported Monday.

In custody awaiting release to the FBI are Donald James Schnepf, 37, and Iris Jane Schnepf, 28, sought by police of numerous western states on charges of writing fictitious checks.

Schnepf was apprehended while driving his automobile between Klamath Falls and Merrill about 6:30 p.m. Sunday, when a state police officer noted that the license of the fugitive's vehicle was posted on the "wanted list." He was alone at the time of his arrest. Subsequent investigation by Schnepf.

State police indicated that Mrs. Schnepf was residing in Tulelake. Later that evening, state police located the woman in Tulelake and went with sheriff's deputies of Siskiyou County to apprehend her. She waived extradition and returned with Oregon police to Klamath Falls, where she was lodged in the city jail along with

The Belgian-born sculptor saw during World War I as a child the horrors and atrocities which the Germans committed in her native Belgium. Escaping their clutches when they sought to capture her as a collaborator of Edith Cavell, she came to this country and proceeded to arouse America to a realization of what war meant.

An American citizen since 1922 and the wife of a former officer in the United States Army, she is a famous sculptor, a well-known author and a brilliant lecturer. She is a graduate of the Yale School of Fine Arts, and has had the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters conferred upon her by Temple University.

From a life crowded with exciting experiences, an outstanding record of achievement in the arts, an intimate association with the great in the world of art, literature and diplomacy, Madame Silvercruys has developed a philosophy of life and living which has comforted and inspired hundreds who have heard her speak.

Trailer Rig Hits Canal

A teamster fell asleep while operating a highway tractor and trailer on Highway 97, near Worden, about 3 p.m. Sunday, and the rig tumbled off the road into six feet of water in a nearby canal, state police have reported.

The driver, Richard Woodward Jr., 29, of Seattle, and his passenger, Roy Scholl, 45, of Albany, left the vehicle after it plunged into the canal and returned safely to shore. Neither was injured, state police said.

Woodward was northbound with two trucks on the trailer when the accident occurred.

Local towing firms were still attempting to remove the truck and loaded trailer from the canal early Monday morning, state police reported.
