Lover Of Color Raps Drab, Lifeless Suits

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Men make unkind remarks about what we women wear. I'd like to express my views on men's fashions. The thing men call a suit is the most unimaginative, the dullest get-up ever stitched together.

Why must men's suits be so drab? Why always a lifeless grey or a muddy brown? The greys are not even true greys. And the blacks are not true blacks.

Men should rebel against drab colors which have been foisted on them by convention - bound manufacturers. Let them demand electric blue, shocking pink and emerald green. And why not an occasional floral pattern to liven up a dreary day?

Don't say it can't be done. Ann. All it takes is a ball of fire like you to get behind the idea. Will you join me in this great crusade to revolutionize the men's clothing industry?

LOVER OF COLOR
Dear Lover: Sorry, but you'll have to revolutionize the men's clothing industry without this "ball of fire." I haven't the faintest interest in seeing men in shocking pink or electric blue suits.

In the kingdom of our feathered friends the male has the colorful plumage to attract the female. The human male does just fine in his muddy browns and charcoal greys.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been going with a 33-year-old bachelor for almost four years. Sam's family likes me, religion is no problem, and he is well-set financially. But he is extremely reticent about taking the big step.

Sam wants a home and family and so do I. Last night he told me the stumbling block to our marriage is my "past."

He has heard gossip about me and insists that before we marry I tell him everything so he'll know what he must face in regard to my reputation.

I have no desire to talk about my mistakes, much less talk about them. I also fail to see how this knowledge will make him feel better, as he insists. I believe he should accept me as I am and take into account the fact that I have been a faithful sweetheart for over four years. He claims I owe it to him to make a full confession and "clear the air."

My future depends on your answer.—SLEEPLESS NIGHTS
Dear Sleepless: If the air isn't clear by now you can be sure "a full confession," complete with the names and numbers of all the players, will not help.

Sam wants: (a) An escape hatch—"Sorry, but it's all too so-rid, my dear, I don't think I could ever trust you now." Or (b) a nice fat club to hit you over the head with later.

A man of integrity would not be interested in playing Truth or Consequences.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell me if I am right or wrong to ask my husband to do this simple thing.

Milton is a truck driver. I know he can take a coffee break any time he wants to. He leaves the house every morning at 6:30 a.m. By the time 8 o'clock comes around he is ready for a cup of coffee.

I want Milton to come by the house and take our 8-year-old daughter to school. She is susceptible to colds and is now recovering from the mumps.

He says he can't do it because it may interfere with his job. I believe he is just making up excuses because he doesn't want to be bothered.

Milton thinks you are a smart woman. Maybe he will listen to you. Please print your advice so he can see it.—TROUBLED

Dear Troubled: The advice is for you, not Milton. Your husband isn't driving that truck for kicks, lady. It's his job and it's your bread and butter. It isn't fair to him—or to his employer—to try to saddle him with family assignments during his working day.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Check Charge Faces Woman

Inella Hooper, 36, Ashland, was arraigned in district court Wednesday on charges of obtaining property by false pretenses and has been bound over to the grand jury, according to the Klamath County Sheriff's Office.

The defendant is accused of writing a fictitious check in the amount of $20 to the Low Cost Market. She was arrested in Jackson County and held by Medford police for Klamath County sheriff's deputies.

Deputies Del Summers and Betty Crank explained for Medford early Wednesday to take the defendant into custody. They returned with the woman later the same morning, after which she was arraigned in district court.

Class Plans For Reunion On June 22

The class of 1948, Klamath Union High School, plans a 15-year reunion on June 22 and hopes to have as many as possible of the class membership attend.

Letters have been written to a number of the former students, others have been contacted by telephone but addresses or telephone numbers of many are not known. Anyone having any information on the following former students is asked to call Donna Young, TU 4-7423 or Lorie Carter TU 2-6163:

Police Hold Tule Youth

The city police are holding an 18-year-old rural Tulelake youth for an alleged criminal assault on a 15-year-old girl near Merrill on Dec. 20, 1962.

Oregon State Police apprehended William Lee Guthrie, Route 2, Box J-9, Tulelake, in Malin at 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Guthrie, a private in the Army, now stationed at Fort Ord, couldn't be located after the alleged assault and state police said they received information he had been shipped out of the country.

The state police said they received a tip last night that Guthrie was back in Oregon.

The youth was scheduled to be arraigned in district court Thursday on criminal assault charges.

Farmer Of Year Honors

BONANZA — Art Monroe, selected farmer of the year for 1962, will be an honored guest at the 21st annual meeting of the Langell Valley Soil Conservation District on Friday, March 15, in the Langell Valley Community Hall. He will be introduced by Louis Randall, who previously held the title.

The meeting will open with a 6 p.m. potluck supper. Coffee and rolls will be furnished, and women are requested to bring hot dishes, salads and desserts.

During the business session, which is scheduled at 7 p.m., one supervisor will be elected. Ross Ragland, representing the Inter-Community Hospital board, will be the principle speaker for the evening.

Mrs. J. E. Baldock will be hostess to the children in the Rifle Club Hall, where LaVern Haskins will show movies to the young people while the business meeting is in progress.

Music-Lover Vies For Indian Queen

By RUTH KING

In those days when the tribes lived off the land and understood what the West Wind was saying and could translate the little rippling sound of a small stream over the stones into a lullaby, there was little other music in the world except bird songs, the whispering of field mice in the tall grasses or the sound of a fawn nuzzling its mother.

These things perhaps have been passed down to a granddaughter, Linda Castellanos, from an Ancient One, because Linda loves music, particularly records.

Linda, who is shy, is a sophomore in Chilquien High School and is proud of her Klamath Indian and Spanish ancestry. She lives with Mr. and Mrs. Sid Bergdorf, has three sisters and two brothers who live elsewhere.

She is a member of the Girls Pep Club, scarcely misses a game of football or basketball and likes history.

Linda was born in Klamath Falls on July 2, 1946. She will compete for queen of the 1963 All-American Indian National Basketball Tournament at Chilquien in late March.
