Bridge Tilt Real Fight

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
In spite of his bidding South was an expert card player. Unfortunately, he was also a hand hng. Otherwise, he would have let his partner wrap up three no-trump.
I cashed my king and ace of hearts. My partner had opened the three, dropped the deuce on the second lead and I knew he was ready to ruff.
It was also apparent that unless my partner held the king of clubs declarer would have the rest of the tricks, but if my partner held that card declarer would have to guess between a club and a diamond finesse.
South and West knew all about suit preference signals so I could play the ten of hearts to ask for a diamond return or the five to ask for a club return.
I decided that South was in a mood to play me for a double cross so I carefully placed the ten of hearts on the table. My partner ruffed and led back a diamond as I had asked.
South glared at me for a while and finally remarked, "That was too obvious. You can't have the king of diamonds." Then he played the jack from dummy and another game contract had hit the dust.

State Totals Wildfowl Kill

PORTLAND (UPI) — The State Game Commission said today almost 926,000 upland game birds of all species and around 408,500 waterfowl were taken last fall by Oregon hunters.
The figures were based on a random survey conducted among hunters.
The commission said both figures were below those of 1961.

In The Legislature

By GEORGE C. FLITCRAFT
As we approach the third month of the 32nd session of the Oregon Legislature, there is some indication now as to the direction to be taken by the House Taxation Committee.
It is pretty well established that Oregon taxpayers will lose their major "deduction." This is the $430,000,000 in income taxes paid to the federal government. According to the experts in the State Tax Commission this is the logical first step to be taken if income taxes are to be increased.
As long as this deduction exists in our state law, the Tax Commission cannot predict with any degree of certainty how much revenue any state tax measure will produce for the simple reason that they have no control over the actions of the congress. If congress raises federal income taxes, Oregon's state income tax revenue decreases since the taxpayers have a larger deduction. Conversely, if federal income taxes are decreased, then Oregon income taxes increase automatically.
The elimination, then, of this deduction would seem to provide a means of increasing the accuracy of the estimates of how much money a given tax measure will produce.
Proponents of this change point out that although the elimination of this deduction will increase the amount of taxes that each of us will have to pay to the state, the effect on many taxpayers will be modified by the fact that our federal income taxes will be reduced—as long as the congress permits us to include state income taxes paid in our list of itemized deductions.
Opponents, if there are any, have not expressed themselves.
A bill (H.B. 1076) to require certain employers to report and pay withholdings monthly is also expected to get favorable action in the House Taxation Committee. This is frequently called a "one-shot" measure as it puts about $7½ million in the 1963-65 biennium that would otherwise not be available until the succeeding biennium.
The cigarette tax proposal also appears to be headed for the house floor and is expected to pass. However, proponents of the measure are not sure that it will get through the senate.
The measure which would dou-

3.6 Billion Fatalities Predicted In Next War

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — A U. S. science leader said today that man will run the risk of killing 3.6 billion people in a single conflict within the next 100 years unless he changes his warring ways.
The figure is close to the present world population. The statistical office of U. N. on July 1, 1961, estimated world population at 3,060,000,000.
Dr. I. A. Getting, president of Aerospace Corp., said in an address prepared for a group of the nation's top scientists and technicians that "both the intensity and magnitude of conflicts are rising."
Getting cited charts of the "terrible carnage" of past wars which in this century alone, have killed 42.5 million people.
"Thus," he said, "we are led to predict that by the first half of the next Century mankind, if it follows the precedent of past years, would experience one war that would account for some 3.6 billion deaths."
EXPANDING CADETS
OLD SAYBROOK, Conn. (UPI) — The Junior Naval Cadets of America Tuesday appealed for old Navy uniforms for the crew of its ship, the Fulton.
The uniforms were needed "to help meet the needs of the expanding ship and rapidly expanding cadets," it said.

Clay Report Raps U.S. Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A presidential commission headed by Gen. Lucius Clay has drafted a report sharply critical of some U.S. foreign aid policies, informed sources said today.
The report is scheduled to be laid before President Kennedy when he returns from Costa Rica Wednesday and probably will be made public later in the week.
It has already stirred some controversy among administration officials, some of whom appear under the impression it is against foreign aid.
"It is the kind of report that may be read by some as an attack on the aid program, and by others as a strong defense of it," one official said.
The report is said to recommend no immediate major reduction in the $4.9 billion foreign aid bill pending before Congress. But it is understood to challenge certain aid programs and in general to call for distribution of U.S. assistance on more "hard headed" economic and military grounds.
But Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., chairman of the House foreign aid appropriations subcommittee, said the report would be "meaningless" unless it recommended an over-all cut exceeding the average reduction usually made by Congress. This would be about $850 million. However, last year's slash was a deeper: $1 billion.
Passman noted that Kennedy got only $3.9 billion of the $4.9 billion he requested in 1962.
