Fabric News

Fabric is fashion, more importantly than ever, in this season of simple silhouettes and pretty femininity.

The airy effervescence of open weaves and surface textures spreads its influence everywhere. Mohairs and mohair blends, lacy wools and feathery fabrics of all sorts loom up importantly.

In counterpoint is a crisp look, of which linens and linen effects are the leading spring exponent. Silk shares this interest, not only in linen types but in a variety of rustic weaves.

Ottomans and other ribbed-surface fabrics have the crisp touch of fashion, as do many firm-finished wools and blends.

Spreading from sportswear into dressier areas are work denims and denim copies.

Knits—cottons, wools, miracles, blends—continue as perhaps the single most substantial influence in current fashion, given an impetus by—or giving an impetus to—the easy, effortless styles that are classic and newsworthy.

QUESTION: A neighbor's oil furnace blew up and saturated their home and furniture with soot and smoke. I understand this damage is covered by the ordinary fire insurance policy and would like to learn if this is correct.

ANSWER: This damage is actually covered by what we call an extended coverage endorsement to a regular fire policy. This coverage is written as a routine matter by most insurance agents these days but you'd better consult a good insurance agent if you're not sure your own fire policy has it.
