Costs More For Females In Industry

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An industrialist told a House labor subcommittee Monday that it costs his firm an extra 30 cents an hour to employ a woman. He said that amounted to an extra outlay of $4.8 million last year.

W. Boyd Owen, vice president for personnel of the Owens-Illinois Glass Co., appeared in opposition to legislation that would require employers in interstate commerce to equalize pay rates of men and women doing work of equal character and skill.

Owen said if Congress did pass an equal pay bill, it should take into account higher employment costs for women. "Our employment costs are substantially higher in employing females than in employing males," Owen said in his prepared testimony. "Among the factors to which such increased costs are attributable (are) greater absenteeism, greater labor turnover, higher cost of lunch and rest periods, higher cost of health and welfare benefits, higher cost of special facilities."

Owen said costs to provide and maintain lounge, washroom and toilet facilities "... including the costs of extra matron service and of providing special supplies" came to $139,325 a year.

Bust Hand Bid Shown

By OSWALD JACOBY
 Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In the original form of Stayman, responder showed a spade, heart or diamond bust by bidding two of his suit to an opening no-trump while jumps to three were always forcing bids. He would show a club bust by first responding with two clubs and then rebidding to three clubs.

The first change was to use two clubs followed by three clubs as a bad hand. Then it appeared good policy to use the three-diamond jump as a bad hand also.

South certainly doesn't want to let his partner play one no-trump and if he merely bids two diamonds West won't be shut out. Even a three-diamond bid might not shut out West, but this one did.

South played three diamonds and made it since he had to lose only one trick in each suit. East and West can make three hearts so this three diamond bid worked well for South.

When do you use a bust two-diamond response instead of three diamonds? When you don't feel like risking a three diamond bid. Thus, when I play straight Stayman my immediate responses of two diamonds, hearts and spades and three clubs and diamonds are all bad hands.
