Ike Derides Democrat Insistence On Being First To Land On Moon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower called Friday for sharp slashes in President Kennedy's record budget, including cutbacks in defense and a slow-down in the race to land men on the moon.

Democrats shot back with a demand for a "bill of particulars." They wondered aloud whether Eisenhower and other Republicans calling for big space savings are prepared to see Russia's flag planted on the moon first.

Eisenhower, in a letter to Republican congressional leaders, urged Congress to deny more than $13 billion of Kennedy's request for $108 billion in new appropriations. Kennedy proposes to actually spend $98.8 billion in the new fiscal year starting July 1. The rest would be spent in later years.

Eisenhower attacked unspecified "new spending programs" proposed by Kennedy at a time of record deficit and a planned tax cut, and said drastic reductions were possible without harming essential government functions.

Critical of Moon Race
He said, for example, that "I have never believed that a spectacular dash to the moon, vastly deepening our national debt, is worth the added tax burden it will eventually impose upon our citizens."

Speaker John W. McCormack termed the Eisenhower statement "one of great generalization." He said "we cannot compromise with strength. The nation's defense effort must come first, for we live in perilous times."

"We all remember the first Russian Sputnik, and how high Republicans said it was nothing but a stunt. It took us some years to recover in part our prestige throughout the world. What will be the situation if the Russians get to the moon first?"

But Eisenhower said sharp budget cuts were "a necessary accompaniment to a cut in taxes" and that Congress would be guilty of "fiscal recklessness, if it failed to make the reductions. He added:

"If this (the proposed budget reduction) does not come to pass, then we will face the unhappy prospect of reducing spending, reducing taxes and looking after our children tomorrow all at the same time."

Bill Speedup Plan Abandoned
SALEM (UPI) — Plans to speed processing of bills in the House through use of a consent calendar for uncontested measures have been abandoned.

House Speaker Clarence Burton said Rep. Jake Bennett, D-Portland, had objected to the procedure. Burton had estimated the procedure could have cut a week off the legislative session.

Under the proposal, uncontested bills would have been given group approval, thus eliminating the requirement for a separate reading, discussion and roll call of each measure.

The plan required unanimous approval of House members.

8 Negroes Given Jail For Protest

GREENWOOD, Miss. (UPI) — Eight of 11 Negroes arrested Wednesday during a protest march over vote registration were sentenced Friday to four months in jail and fined $200 on disturbing the peace charges.

The eight were returned to their jail cells singing "Everybody Wants Freedom" after the sentencing in Greenwood City Court.

A Negro attorney representing the eight indicated they would not post appeal bonds to be freed.

The sentences were handed down a few hours after 39 more Negroes were twice dispersed, once at a roadblock, as they sought to register to vote in this racially tense city.

Police arrested Donald Harris, 22, New York City, at the roadblock and charged him with disturbing the peace and refusing to obey an officer's command to take one of two routes the Negroes were told to follow to the courthouse to register.

Thursday night, the Rev. James Bevel, state field secretary for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said, "We're trying to get the federal government to protect us from the mob."

A group of 50 Negroes formed ranks in front of the Leflore County Courthouse Thursday after registering but police, aided by a German shepherd dog, scattered them before they had marched a block. A Negro minister claimed he was hit by the dog.

The incident followed a similar march Wednesday in which 11 Negro "ringleaders" were arrested on charges of disturbing the peace. Six of the group were convicted Thursday, charged against two were dismissed, and one demonstrator was found innocent. The remaining two were to be tried Friday and the convicted demonstrators sentenced.

Bevel said there was to be a voter registration meeting at 8:30 a.m. EST, Friday at the Providence Baptist Church with the purpose of "getting as many people as possible to try to register to vote." Such meetings have led to the downtown marches of the past few days.

James Farmer of New York, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), told a meeting of around 400 Negroes Thursday night that "if our parents had been willing to go to jail when we were young, we wouldn't have had to do it now."

He said he would ask CORE's national action council to send a group of workers called the "Freedom Task Force" to Leflore County.

Bali's Volcano Still Breathes Fire 12 Days After Big Eruption

By R. E. STANNARD

TUBAN AIRPORT, Bali (UPI) — Bali's Gunung Agung Volcano was still breathing fire Friday, 12 days after its eruption that killed at least 1,600 persons, injured thousands more and left 70,000 homeless.

Skirting the smoldering slopes of the sacred volcano in a light plane, we saw dense black ash-laden columns of smoke billowing skyward from the truncated peak once famous for its classic conic profile.

Rivers of lava were draining northward toward the sea while streams of volcanic mud oozed southward past destroyed villages and towns.

Survivors in areas isolated from the rest of the island by the lava and mud spewed out by the long-dormant volcano March 17 ran from the few homes still standing to stare at our circling plane. But few waved.

Along the northern coast, we saw a police boat carrying refugees from the cut off towns of Amed and Tjuluk to the relief center set up at Tianjar.

Thousands of acres of rich farmland were destroyed. Slate grey ash darkened the fields and coated palms in areas untouched by lava or mud. The western slopes on the lee side of the volcano were dead brown or black, without a sign of vegetation.

A massive relief-and-rescue operation already was underway. Indonesian air force planes and helicopters were loaded with rice and other supplies to be air dropped to marooned villagers. Helicopters also were assigned to bring out seriously injured persons.

Teachers Of Retarded Children Hold Meeting

The first state in-service conference for teachers of educable mentally retarded children will be held in Salem April 5-6, under the sponsorship of the State Department of Education.

Three teachers from the Mills Elementary School plan to attend the meeting. The teachers are Mrs. Dorothea Buck, Mrs. Barbara Boone and Mrs. Dorothy Collman.

The program is especially designed to give special class teachers new insight and increased strength in curriculum development for the mentally retarded, according to Dr. Glen A. Purdom Jr., supervisor of the mentally retarded program in the State Department of Education.

Participants in the program will see primary, intermediate, junior high school, and high school age children in a classroom setting, and have an opportunity to observe structure and careful planning in the program for the educable mentally retarded.

The conference will begin Friday evening at the Keg and Platter restaurant. Main speaker at the 6:45 p.m. dinner session will be Dr. G. Orville Johnson, professor of special education at Syracuse University.

The conference will continue Saturday at Bush School at 14th and Mission streets. From 8:45 a.m. to 3 p.m. special education teachers from the Salem Public Schools will present teaching demonstrations designed for the mentally retarded children from primary grades through high school.

Sweets Speed Tooth Decay

PORTLAND—According to Dr. Bhim S. Savara, head of the Child Study Clinic at the University of Oregon Dental School, the findings of a recent study by Dr. Rosario Yap, who is a graduate assistant working under his direction, have been misinterpreted to imply that sweets do not cause tooth decay.

Doctor Yap's findings were given nationwide press coverage following the presentation at the recent meeting of the International Association for Dental Research in Pittsburgh, Penn. Well-documented studies in this country and abroad show conclusively that the uncontrolled consumption of sweets increases tooth decay.

The conference will continue Saturday at Bush School at 14th and Mission streets. From 8:45 a.m. to 3 p.m. special education teachers from the Salem Public Schools will present teaching demonstrations designed for the mentally retarded children from primary grades through high school.
