Break Sure By Transfer

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
The basic feature of the Jacoby Transfer is that after an opening no-trump the response of two diamonds demands that the no-trump bidder go to two hearts; while the response of two hearts demands that the opener rebid two spades.

The transfer bid is unusual in that while it is forcing it can be made with a hand of any strength. Responder's next bid will show how strong he actually is.

Thus North's two heart bid is the Jacoby Transfer and South dutifully rebids to two spades. North only has three high card points but his eight card spade suit justifies the second round jump to game.

West opens the queen of diamonds. South takes his ace, cashes the ace and king of clubs to discard one of dummy's diamonds and eventually loses two hearts and a spade.

Let's see what happens if North is declarer at four spades. East will probably open the jack of hearts. West will take two heart tricks and lead a third heart. If North ruffs low East will make his jack of trumps right away. If North ruffs with the king of spades and then leads a spade to South's nine West will win with the ace and lead a fourth heart and here again East's jack will set the contract.

You, South, hold:

What is your opening lead?
A—The four of diamonds! Your high cards will keep. Meanwhile you want to try to reduce dummy's potential ruffing power.

TODAY'S QUESTION
You hold the same hand. Your partner bids one spade over your double. What do you do?
