

Oregon Tech BB Team Begins Play At Weed

The Oregon Tech Owls will travel to Weed Tuesday to open their 1963 baseball season against the College of the Siskiyous team in a single non-conference game at 3 p.m.

This will be the opener for the Owls who have had their troubles finding time to practice and a suitable day for it with the bad weather. The Siskiyous team has played eight games already, if the weather didn't foil their beginning. Southern Oregon College defeated them twice.

Coach Jim Partlow expects to have a much improved team over the one of last season. He has only a 14-man squad but has four hurlers among them and that is a spot where he was weak last year.

The Owls have been working out in the Owl gymnasium because of the bad weather. Partlow also was down with the Asian flu for a while and wasn't able to work with his charges. They have been taking batting practice in the gym with the machine "Iron Mike" during the hurling at them in a net enclosure.

Partlow has five lettermen back from last season in pitcher-outfielder-infielder Jim Keller, infielder Bob Yunk, outfielder Don Gredel, first base-outfielder Ed Appleman, and Curt Graf, a one-letter winner.

The new faces are Marv Edwards, Jay Balsiger, Denny Carlson, John Crumrine, Rich Fandry, Dave Ferres, Curt Graf, Gordy Kitching, Nate Runner and Louis Hunter.

His probable starting lineup will have Gredel at first, Yunk at second, Edwards or Keller at third, depending on which is pitching, Graf at shortstop, Appleman in left, Carlson in center and Ferres in right. He will alternate catchers between Crumrine and Fandry. Partlow plans to use all four of his hurlers including Edwards, Keller, Hunter and Ferres. He also plans to use his other players in the game to get a look at them in action.

Keller was an honorable mention all-conference player for the Owls last season. He has one OTI letter as a pitcher, outfielder and shortstop. Yunk is a two-letter player at shortstop and second. Gredel has two Owl letters and Appleman one.

Edwards is one of the brightest newcomers to the Owl nest. He was a star for the Klamath Union team in years past. He earned two letters at KU and was the Most Valuable Player. He hits well in addition to being a pitcher.

Loop Chiefs Optimistic

PORTLAND (UPI) — Optimism for the 1963 Northwest League baseball campaign was expressed Sunday at the loop's spring meeting here.

Jim Fleishman, president of the circuit, said all six teams had working agreements with major league clubs. He added that five of the teams are approaching or have passed last year's mark in advertising.

The ticket sale outlook also is promising, he said. Fleishman said repairs had been made to ballpark facilities in Salem and Wenatchee.

are Henley graduates and Crumrine also is a fine prospect as a good hitting catcher.

All of Siskiyous team comes from Weed, Yreka, Dunsuir and Butte Valley. Leading the charge is basketball star Doug DeBortoli. Ted Crutchfield, Dick Battistessa, Elmer Pellegrino, Richard Thorpe, Roger Pauleto, and Ken Moore, all sophomores.

(1st round playoffs—first game)

San Francisco at Los Angeles

By United Press International

It's all over in the regular Western Hockey League season with Portland and Vancouver winning the Southern and Northern divisions.

The latter race was not settled until Sunday night when Vancouver met Seattle and pulled out a 4-1 decision.

Ageless Phil Maloney hit the first Vancouver goal at 8:54 and the Canucks led 2-0 at the end of the period. They were never headed.

The Southern Division finished this way: Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Spokane. San Francisco and Los Angeles will start their best of three first round playoff series tonight in Los Angeles. The winner takes on Portland.

The Northern Division saw great battles for first and third. The third spot was not decided until Edmonton nudged Calgary 4-1 on Saturday in the final game for both teams.

The standings thus wound up Vancouver, Seattle, Edmonton, and Calgary. The two division playoff winners then square off in the championship series for the Patrick Cup. Whoever represents the Southern Division will be heavily favored since that loop had a 152-116-12 record over all and the Northern had only 117-153-10.

In another contest Sunday night, Portland downed Spokane 5-3 as Tommy McVie hit two for the Buckaroos, who had already wrapped up their second straight division title Wednesday night.

Even though the game meant nothing in the standings, a crowd of 8,618 showed up at Portland. Other Saturday scores: San Francisco 3 Los Angeles 2, Spokane 7 Vancouver 2.

HURL SUCCESSIVE NO-HITTERS — These two Klamath hurlers, Rich Jackson, left, and Gary Benson, hurled back-to-back no-hit games for the Pelicans Saturday afternoon as the Whitebirds opened the Southern Oregon Conference action on a highly successful note with 14-0 and 11-0 wins over Ashland. Benson's game, the 14-0 win, was a five-inning affair and Jackson's feat was accomplished over a seven-inning span.

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (UPI) — Two young Americans beat top light European competition again Saturday in the slalom event of the Harriman Cup races.

Both Bud Werner of the University of Colorado and Jean Saubert of Oregon State University, from Lakeview, were surprise winners in the 21st Harriman Cup race at this Idaho resort. They had formidable competition from three young European skimeisters.

The tournament was well attended by out-of-town delegations and proved to be a decided success.

investigator, has issued his indictment," Schroeder said.

The investigations were the outgrowth of a story in the March 23 issue of the Saturday Evening Post which related that Butts and Bryant conspired to rig the outcome of last year's game.

The magazine article quoted Atlanta insurance man George Burnett as saying he overheard a telephone conversation between Butts and Bryant in which Butts gave Bryant vital information.

Both Butts and Bryant have denied the report. They said they discussed possible rules infractions in the telephone conversation.

Pepitone Leads Yankees To Win, Giants Continue Skid

By DICK JOYCE

UPI Sports Writer

Joe Pepitone is coming along just like old pro Joe DiMaggio said he would, so there's little doubt in the New York Yankees' camp today that the Brooklyn belter can fill Bill Skowron's shoes at first base.

The 22-year-old Pepitone, tabbed by DiMaggio as a future star at training camp last year, socked his sixth and seventh home runs of the exhibition season Sunday to lead the Yankees to a 10-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Pepitone, who bats and throws left-handed, now leads the powerful World champions in homers and also has batted in 14 runs. Some observers felt the Yankees were giving away too much when they sent Skowron to the Los Angeles Dodgers this winter in exchange for pitcher Stan Williams.

Brass Breathing Easier

But Pepitone, show showed flashes of brilliance in his rookie year last season although hitting only .239 in 63 games, has the Yankee brass breathing easier. They now are hopeful that Joe will man the Yankee first base station for many years to come.

Cletis Boyer got four hits and Hector Lopez homered in the Yankees' 17-hit attack against the White Sox. Ralph Terry pitched seven innings for New York, giving up eight hits, including a pair of homers by J. C. Martin.

In other games, Lew Burdette of the Milwaukee Braves shut out the Baltimore Orioles, 2-0; the Los Angeles Dodgers outslugged the Cincinnati Reds, 10-8; the New York Mets downed the Kansas City Athletics, 6-1; the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-1; the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3; the Washington Senators tripped the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-2; and the Detroit Tigers defeated the Minnesota Twins, 6-3.

The Boston Red Sox beat the Chicago Cubs, 3-1; the Houston Astros ripped the Los Angeles Angels, 9-3; and the Cleveland Indians handed the San Francisco Giants their seventh straight loss, 7-6.

The veteran Burdette became the Braves first pitcher to pitch nine innings and bolstered his chances of regaining a starting turn after last year's disappointing season. He held the Orioles to five hits while Frank Bolling and Hank Aaron drove in the Milwaukee runs.

Hook Goes Route

Rookie third baseman Ken McMullen collected three hits, including two doubles, and drove home four runs for the Dodgers. Jay Hook went the route for the Mets, allowing seven hits and striking out nine.

Jack Hamilton's four innings of scoreless relief pitching and Cookie Rojas' 10th inning single provided the Phils with their victory. Rookie Tom Brown continued his luster by breaking a 2-2 tie with a bases loaded single for Minnesota.

Claude Osteen pitched nine innings for the Nats against the Cards; Jake Wood hit a homer and drove in three runs for Detroit; and Carl Yastrzemski's three hits and six strong innings by rookie hurler Dave Morehead paced the Red Sox over the Cubs.

The Colts slammed Bob Belinsky, Jack Spring and Tom Morgan for 13 hits. Vic Davallio and Fred Whitfield each hit two-run homers for the Indians while Orlando Cepeda had a two-run homer for the Giants.
