

Portland Nurse Strangled

PORTLAND (UPI) — A 22-year-old Multnomah County Hospital nurse was found dead Monday and a deputy coroner said she apparently had been strangled.

The victim was Mary Frances Reid, whose body was found lying face down behind the breakfast bar in her nest north Portland apartment.

Police said there were no signs of a struggle. Deputy Coroner Ted Lucas said a preliminary autopsy indicated the young woman had been strangled, possibly with a rope or something of a similar nature.

The body was found Monday afternoon by the victim's mother and her sister, who entered the apartment through a window after they got no answer. The victim had been ill at home with a virus infection.

Neighbors said they heard sounds of an argument and a possible struggle in the apartment late Sunday night.

Police questioned and then released a friend of the victim Monday night.

The sister, Mrs. Jo Ann Woodards, said she had telephoned the victim Monday to see if she could use her washing machine. She said when she got no answer to the telephone call she and her mother investigated.

Judge Asked To Reconsider

PORTLAND (UPI) — Federal Judge John J. Kilkenney has been asked to reconsider a decision which denied two widows damages for loss of their husbands in a boating accident.

A motion was filed in Federal Court Friday by James R. Ellis, attorney for Mrs. Robert Bolam and Mrs. Ted Sigurdson, whose husbands drowned in January of 1960 near Grays Harbor, Wash.

Judge Kilkenney ruled March 29 that the Coast Guard was not negligent in the tragedy which came when the purse seiner Barbara Lee capsized while trying to tow the disabled motor lifeboat Invinible over the Westport Bar. The widows had sought $254,000 damages for the husbands' deaths.
