

Thirty Men Comb Snow For Youth

MURPHY, Idaho (UPI)—A 30-man party fanned out across the wild and snow-blanketed Owyhee Mountains at dawn today in search of a 19-year-old youth who became lost seeking help for his stranded parents.

The Owyhee County sheriff's posse, bolstered by the Idaho Search and Rescue Team and light aircraft, resumed its search for Delford Sharpe of Gayway Junction, Idaho.

The boy and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Sharpe, were stranded about two miles from the ghost mining town of Silver City Sunday afternoon when their car broke down.

They stayed with their car until Monday morning when Delford set out for Silver City.

Sheriff Al Barberis said the youth had only an orange and pocketful of gingersnaps. There is no habitation within 20 miles of the spot and snow drifts range to five feet deep.

Wednesday morning the elder Sharpe started hiking toward Murphy, the Owyhee County seat of some 50 population 24 miles away. He was picked up by a rancher about 15 miles down the road.

When Sharpe got to Murphy, a rescue party was organized. It bucked its way through a new snow fall to reach Mrs. Sharpe and bring her to Murphy. No trace was found of Delford.

The youth's anxious parents waited for news of their son after their rescue.

"He's a stranger in that country — that rough country," Sharpe said. "He's never been in there before. I don't know what's happened."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Daughters of the American Revolution, after a brief but emotional debate, Wednesday urged the United States to withdraw from the United Nations.

There was scattered applause for some delegate shouted defense of the United Nations as an instrument of peace.

The estimated 2,000 delegates to the DAR's 72nd Continental Congress overwhelmingly approved 11 other resolutions, most of which put the society squarely against President Kennedy's foreign and domestic programs.

Two votes were recorded against a resolution opposing ratification of a test ban treaty or any other measure that would lead to U.S. disarmament. The delegates unanimously opposed foreign aid, "managed news," a domestic Peace Corps, U.S. participation in an Atlantic community, and "payment of international blackmail and failure to enforce the Monroe Doctrine" against Communist Cuba.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Stewart Udall announced payout procedures being used in most other major river basins will be applied to the Columbia River power system.

Udall said repayment for the Columbia River system by Bonneville Power Administration hereafter will be computed on a "consolidated system basis."

This, he said, means that when a federal power installation has paid for itself, the dam will continue as a working partner contributing financial support to all other elements in the system, including those irrigation investments chargeable to power revenues.

For example, Bonneville Dam is expected to repay its investment by 1994 after which it will continue to support financially the consolidated system. Under the present method Bonneville Power Administration computes repayment on each dam individually over a 50-year period.

Udall said it was estimated the revised payout schedule would reduce BPA's repayment obligations by $7 million to $9 million annually. "However," he said, "these reductions in annual payout requirements do not reduce the total obligations."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army said Tuesday it will draft 4,000 men in June, 6,000 less than in May.

The draft for March was 9,000 and 10,000 for this month and May. A rise in enlistments with the end of the school year partially accounts for the drop in the June draft call.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Fish Commission has received only $20,000 of the tag revenue, instead of half the funds, he said.

Hansell said he would give the situation "another look."

Oregon Students Elect Scherburne President

EUGENE (UPI) — Phil Scherburne, Rainier, was elected president of the Associated Students of the University of Oregon in balloting Wednesday.

Scherburne defeated Dennis Lynch of Ontario.

Class presidencies went to Dick Rapp of Beaverton, Ron Cowin of Grants Pass and Grant Hosford of Yreka, Calif.

Rapp was elected senior president for 1963-64. He will be assisted by vice president Clyde Thrift, Coos Bay, and class representative Jim Thompson, Sacramento, Calif.

Cowin won the junior class presidency. Steve Munson, Eugene, was elected vice president and Joseph Leahy, Astoria, was named class representative on the student senate.

Sophomore class offices were won by Hosford, vice president Mike Hillis, Bend, and representative Ted McCall, Portland.

Oregon students narrowly approved two ballot measures, one of them calling on the U.S. House of Representatives to abolish the House Un-American Activities Committee.

The second measure endorsed Oregon membership in the National Students Association.

Oregon Paper Wins Honors

The University of Oregon's student newspaper, "The Oregon Daily Emerald," has been awarded a first class honor rating by the Associated Collegiate Press.

The award was made as a result of The Emerald's entry into the ACP Critical Service in which ACP rates college newspapers by all-American, first, second, third or fourth class.

Only six college dailies in the nation were rated above The Emerald in the all-American category.

This was the 68th critical service with 41 college newspapers entered in categories including daily, weekly, bi-weekly, monthly, news magazines, and papers which appear two to three times weekly.

Ron Buel, a senior in journalism from Tillamook, is editor of The Emerald.

Fish Group Cooperation Draws Fire

SALEM (UPI)—The State Fish Commission was charged with lack of cooperation by members of the State Game Commission at a hearing before the Ways and Means Natural Resources subcommittee Wednesday.

Commissioner John Amacher, Roseburg, charged "they wanted to carry the ball or they wanted out."

Rollin Bowles, Portland, Game Commission Chairman, said "we got the brushoff."

The subcommittee wanted to know why about $200,000 from salmon and steelhead tag sales had not been equally divided between the two agencies.

"The money was supposed to be fairly well divided," Sen. Walter Leth, R-Salem, commented. "I feel the game commission hasn't lived up to legislative intent." Rep. Stafford Hansell, R-Hermiston, added.

The Fish Commission has received only $20,000 of the tag revenue, instead of half the funds, he said.

Hansell said he would give the situation "another look."

Bryan Slated As Vocalist

Ronnie Bryan, local automobile salesman, will be the vocalist when the "Starlighters Concert Dance Band" appears on the stage of the OTI Theatre Tuesday, April 23, at 8 p.m.

Bryan will sing "The Birth of the Blues," "September Song," "I Apologize," and "Temptation."

The jazz and swing concert is being sponsored by the OTI student body and is made possible and paid for by a grant from the trust fund of the Recording and Transcription Industries in cooperation with the Klamath Falls Musician's Union.

The band will be under the direction of LaMar K. Jensen and the concert is free to all OTI students and the public.

Chamber Endorses Reclamation Study Of Clear Lake Watershed At Weekly Membership Meet

A study by the Bureau of Reclamation to explore the development of the Lost River watershed in the Clear Lake Unit received the endorsement of the Klamath County Chamber of Commerce, but two proposed bills under study in the state legislature drew the collective fire of the membership, it developed during the weekly meeting of the chamber, Wednesday, at the Pelican Cafe.

In concurrence with a recommendation made by Chuck Bailey, director of the Upper Klamath Lake Recreation Committee, the chamber voted to urge the Bureau of Reclamation to continue its engineer's study of the Clear Lake Unit.

Bailey said that continuance of the study also had the endorsement of the Klamath Irrigation District, the Klamath Basin Water Users Association and the chamber's Agriculture Committee.

The report concerns the development of both the Lost River and Clear Lake watersheds and discusses the feasibility of enlarging Gerber Reservoir, establishing a new dam, and performing other work which would provide more water storage space at the reservoir.

Bailey added that the development of the watershed was of special interest to the Pacific Power and Light Company, since the project, if successful, would enable the firm to have water later in the year, when it is needed most.

George Proctor, chairman of the Agriculture Committee, remarked that money to finance the project after the study is completed would be contributed equally by irrigation, power, fisheries and reclamation interests. Proctor said further that the program would provide flood control for parts of the Basin and increase the area available for fishing and bird hunting. Emphasizing sportsmen's interests, Proctor commented that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has asked for a "firm" water supply for Tule Lake, although it has yet to be determined whether the water should come from Klamath Lake, he added.

Bailey later took a parting shot at House Bill 1233, which would establish a Department of Natural Resources. Bailey stated that his committee opposed passage of the bill since it would set up another bureau in a government already administered by "too many bureaus."

George Callison, reporting for the Local and State Affairs Committee, added that the bill would remove control of our natural resources from interested conservation groups and place it into the hands of an indiscernible bureau.

The bill has been revised so often since it was originally introduced before the legislature that it has swelled to 154 pages.

The chamber decided to withhold discussion of the bill until it comes out of committee and numerous amendments could be studied.

The other measure brought before the chamber was House Bill 1025, which would require that a 10 per cent tax be charged for hotel and motel accommodations of less than one month's duration.

Callison's recommendation, on behalf of the Local and State Affairs Committee, that the proposed bill be opposed was approved by the chamber. The principal objection to the tax was that it was discriminating and would hinder efforts to develop tourism in the state.

Keith Cobo, director of the Tourist and Convention Committee, reported earlier to the Local and State Affairs Committee that in those states where a similar law was in force, the local communities received part of the revenue collected from the tax. If the bill were passed, Oregon would be the only state in which all of the tax revenue would go to the state government.

On another subject, Dickerman said that Al Lynch would represent the National Development Committee on the newly organized Youth Employment Committee, which was established through the local office of the State Department of Employment to assist students seeking work during summer.

A final report came from Deb Addison, chairman of the Roads and Highways Committee, who related that two major bonding programs, were in the legislative mill which, if passed, would finance a large highway project in the Portland-Mt. Hood area and the construction of a bridge across the Willamette River.

Addison stated that he had consulted legislator Carrol Howe and found him optimistic that the bill would be voted down in committee.

The Chamber of Commerce went on record in January as opposing the financing of highway construction through bonding programs.

The matter was brought out at that time when the Oregon Coast Association was lobbying for a one-cent gas tax on gasoline to finance bonds for the construction of a highway in the western part of the state.

Establishing a tax levy explicitly to finance construction of roads in counties represented by the Oregon Coast Association would be unfair, because counties outside of the association would also be contributing to the project, Addison had said. Revenues from such taxes should be beneficial to all of the counties and not a select few, it was explained.
