

IT'S THEIR KIND OF WEATHER—Cautious Frank, a polar bear at the Denver, Colo., Zoo, watches his mate, Sophia, dive into the pool. Seconds later he joined her after she apparently reported that the water was cold enough for them. They were among the few in the country to welcome the cold weather.

ELEGANT PUFFER—Proving that a woman can do almost anything a man can, Carol Huffman lights up a long cigar with an air of elegance in New York. Well girls, they said at one time that women would never smoke cigarettes.

TYING ONE ON—"Well—what in dogdom are you staring at?" seems to be the question that a pooch named Splinters is asking while being photographed in Pittsburgh. Splinters, in case you haven't noticed, is sporting a pretty fancy necktie. From the looks of things, a dog's life can't be so bad after all.

AROUND THE WORLD

SPARKLING LONDON—Evidence that London may soon challenge Paris for that "City of Light" title is this view of the well-lighted new buildings that have sprung up like mushrooms in the British capital.

SUN SHOWER—Although he doesn't trust the spring-like weather enough to discard his coat, this New Yorker removes his hat to take advantage of sunshine on Fifth Ave.

BARRELED IN—It seems tiny Mary Olskey of New York got herself barreled in somehow as she peers over the top. Actually, the barrel is for holder toys, not 1-year-old Mary.

NEITHER HAIL, RAIN, SNOW... Kathy White, 15, didn't let the snow stop her from delivering the newspapers in Lowell, Ohio. Riding atop her horse, Sultan, she made her appointed rounds. Often Sultan was the first to break through the stomach-high drifts which accompanied the sub-zero weather in the area.

SMILES—Chris Poleway, 2, gets a big chuckle out of the chopping special he's holding in Morgantown, W. Va. The youngster's father, Dr. Stanley Poleway, showed the large dentures during a demonstration held in the city recommending brushing teeth after eating and regular dental exams starting with the growth of baby teeth. Chris grins and bears it.

SKIPPER AND HIS SHIP—Youngsters in a boat look at a replica of the German liner Bremen in Providence, R. I. Capt. Karl Behrens stands by the 39-foot ship, built to 1/25th of the size of the original Bremen. The vessel undoubtedly was quite an attraction to the oldsters, too.

ASIAN MOOD—Noting the Asian mood captured in the spring collection designed by Norman Hartnell of London is this ensemble. He topped an Oriental printed two-piece gown with an orange satin coat. Neckline has a jeweled embroidered collar.

CARRIAGE CAPER—It's all part of a fun day at Pagham, England, when some citizens don crazy attire and dress up baby carriages to participate in the annual Pram Race. These fellows seem to have gone all out with their pram, decorating it with a symbol of the space age.
