son, standard bearer; Mary Ellen Gaster, crown bearer; James Hunter, sword bearer; Leona Angel, marshal in the east, and Martha Powell, marshal in the west.

The "Arch of Steel" was presented by Sir Knights of the Friendship Court and visiting courts. As the royal matron and patron walked through the Arch of Roses formed by the Friendship girls, Mr. and Mrs. Geiss sang "I Walk With God."

Following short talks by the grand royal matron and patron, Mrs. Krauss was presented by her family a bracelet holding silver charms of her grandchildren. A gift from the royal patron was a white lucite gavel with her name and the lodge name engraved on a gold band.

Mrs. Krauss also received a gift from the court presented by Thelma and Carl Colvin. Mrs. Krauss' gift to the royal patron was a Masonic emblem billfold. A reception was held in the banquet room later. Tables were decorated with gold handmade vases and candleholders. Flowers were roses and orchids.

Past matrons presiding at the coffee services were Phyllis May, Ruth Rodenberger and Emogene Jones.

Lynette Angel attended the guest book and programs were presented by Sherry Fort.
