Pet Funerals Belong In World Of Children

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I see "Former Admirer" was shocked when she read you thought it was all right for a child to have a funeral for a pet cat or dog. Well, I have another shock for her.

Here, in our beautiful city of Grand Rapids, we have a pet cemetery. This pet cemetery has some lovely headstones and expensive monuments which have been erected by loving people in memory of their pets.

One can always tell where the fresh graves are because of the wreaths and bouquets of flowers. The people who bury their pets here are not crazy. They are normal individuals who enjoyed their pets and want to give them a nice final resting place.

I feel sorry for anyone who doesn't know the wonderful world of animals. They are missing one of life's greatest joys.—MICHELLE GANDER

Postman On Racial March Found Shot

KEENER, Ala. (UPI) — A vacationing Baltimore postman hiking to Mississippi to deliver a personal letter to Gov. Ross Barnett urging racial moderation was found shot to death Tuesday night in a highway ditch near this small northeast Alabama community.

Authorities said William L. Moore, 35, had been shot in the head with a .22 caliber bullet. On the body were placards reading, "Eat at Joe's, both black and white" and "equal rights for all (Mississippi or bust)."

Only hours before his death, Moore had told a radio newsman at Gadsden that he did not fear violence on his trek protesting segregation because "I don't believe the people in the South are that way."

Gov. George Wallace offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the conviction of the killers. Etowah County Coroner Noble Yokum said "it appears to be a civil rights case."

Letters to President Kennedy, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and Barnett were found on the body of Moore, who said friends warned him to expect trouble in Birmingham and to fear for his life in Mississippi.

Moore, who lived in Baltimore and had saved his vacation time to make the trip South, walked the 45 miles from Baltimore to Washington last Saturday in an unsuccessful attempt to deliver a personal letter to the President.

He was stopped by a White House guard who told him to drop the letter in the mail box.

Moore's Baltimore home address was 433 E. 25th St.

Moore's letter to the President said he expected Southern hospitality to manifest itself in "less desirable forms" on his trek. He said he was "not making this walk to demonstrate either federal rights or states rights, but individual rights."

The letter to Barnett asked the Mississippi chief executive to "be gracious and give more than is immediately demanded of you. Make certain that when the Negro gets his rights and his vote
