

By FRANK JENKINS

From Washington:
The Treasury Department estimates that President Kennedy's proposed ten billion dollar tax cut could bring an INCREASE of $2.9 billion in state and local tax revenues.

The basis of the estimate is a prediction that the federal tax cut, if voted by congress, would result in expansion of economic activity to the tune of an annual increase of 30 billion dollars in personal income and that this in turn would increase state and local tax revenues by $2.9 billion a year for the 50 states.

The resulting UP in Oregon state taxes is estimated at 34 million dollars a year.

That is to say:
If you cut taxes in one place, it will INCREASE TAXES somewhere else.

Personally, I think I'd rather the federal government would just SPEND LESS and let us get our tax savings that way.

As this is written, our state department announces that it has ordered families of U.S. officials in Haiti to leave the troubled country, and is urging private American citizens to do likewise. The evacuation was decided on because of continued deterioration of the situation in Haiti and the difficulty of insuring the lives and safety of U.S. citizens.

What looks in Haiti?
Well, it is anticipated that at any moment Haitian President Duvalier may attack the adjoining Dominican Republic. That would involve the whole island of Hispaniola in bloody warfare.

A suggestion to President Duvalier:

You are presumed, sir, to be a believer in Voodoo. If so, why don't you just make a doll of your enemy in the Dominican Republic, and then STICK PINS IN IT?

That, a c e r d i n g to Voodoo, would cook his goose.

It would be much simpler than going to war.

In Salem, balloon bread is back on the legislative agenda. A bill has been introduced to legalize its sale in Oregon if it is identified by adequate labels. The fear is that Oregon housewives will be fooled by the larger size of the "balloon" loaves, and so may be done dirt in their marketing.

The new bill is intended to make sure that this doesn't happen.

A suggestion to the legislators: QUIT WORRYING!

If anybody thinks he can fool Oregon housewives for any considerable length of time by putting out a loaf that LOOKS bigger than it is, he is just kidding himself.

Under the hair-dos of these charming creatures in the food stores of our fair state is a COMPUTER that puts to shame anything that IBM can devise.

If balloon bread tries to palm itself off as something that it isn't, it won't get very far. You can bet your bottom dollar on that.

Man Hunted In Slaying

ENTERPRISE, Ore. (UPI) — Search for a husky red-haired stump rancher wanted for a double slaying at Clarkston, Wash., resumed in the wooded area around the remote northeastern Oregon town of Flora today.

Bloodhounds were brought in from Lewiston, Idaho, to aid in tracking Billy Evans, 44, who twice slipped away from police Tuesday and disappeared into the timber, once after officers fired shots.

Evans was charged in a warrant issued at Asotin, Wash., with first degree murder for the death of Mrs. May Griner, 40, and second degree murder for the slaying of William Gerry, 40.

Both were shot to death with a .30-30 rifle fired at close range in Mrs. Griner's home just outside Clarkston a few minutes before midnight Monday. The killer then locked Mrs. Griner's 6-year-old daughter, Irene, in the bathroom with her pet dog and fled in a car.

The search for Evans, who lived in a trailer house at Lewiston, Idaho, began almost immediately. His car was found stuck in mud about a mile and a half from his own cabin south of Flora in the Grande Ronde River country.

Evans was sighted at the cabin by two sheriff's deputies, who said Evans first started toward them, rifle in hand, then bolted into the woods and disappeared.

About 4:30 p.m., Evans was seen attempting to start his car and officers began to close a ring around him. When one of the officers shouted at him to surrender, Evans grabbed his rifle and officers fired two shots over his head. Evans fled and officers fired at him twice more.

Weather

Klamath Falls, Tulelake and Lakeview—Variable cloudiness with periods of rain tonight and Thursday. Westerly winds 8-15 m.p.h. Low tonight 32-34. High Thursday 58-62.
High yesterday 54
Low this morning 37
High year ago 41
Low year ago 32
Precip. past 24 hours .014
Since Jan. 1 4.77
Same period last year 4.71

SCIENCE FAIR EXHIBIT — John Heilbronner, right, Klamath Falls, area coordinator for the Northwest Science Fair, explains one of the exhibits from Klamath Falls to Joe Bennett of the Georgia-Pacific Corporation, Portland, at the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry last weekend in Portland. Heilbronner points to an exhibit made by a sixth grader, Robert Ernst, entitled "Known Campsites of the Klamath Indians at the Time of Contact." Over 110,000 students participated this year in the Eleventh Annual Science Fair, now one of the largest in the nation.

Senators Take Issue With Mark's Criticism

SALEM (UPI) — Criticism of the Senate Tax and Highway Committees by Gov. Mark Hatfield came under attack today on the Senate floor.

Sen. Walter Pearson, D-Portland, lashed out at the governor's criticism of the highway committee action in tabling a speed limit bill. Hatfield scored the committee action Monday night during a television appearance.

Pearson said that before the session began he protested that the governor was being given time on a television station that could be used to promote the governor's program and criticize the legislature.

The Portland Democrat said the Highway Committee opposed the speed bill because it increased the speed limit, and charged Hatfield had used the television appearance to make "personal attacks" on the legislature.

Sen. Vernon Cook, D-Gresham, said "if the governor is sincere in wanting a compromise tax pro-

Fire Hoses Quell Race Rioters In South

Board Deadlocks On McKinny Case

The Klamath Union High School Board of Directors reached an impasse Tuesday night on the question of reinstating Willard McKinny as principal and adjourned without action after an angry 10-minute session.

The meeting was called initially for the canvassing of the Monday voting on the budget and school board members, but at the Monday evening session, the board adopted a motion placing the McKinny matter on the Tuesday night agenda.

When the meeting convened at 7:30 p.m. Margaret Sheridan questioned whether the McKinny discussion should not be taken up first since it was unfinished business, but Chairman John Voth ruled the question inadmissible.

At the previous meeting, Voth refused to acknowledge a motion to reinstate McKinny as principal. Mrs. Sheridan then pointed out that Roberts Rules of Order prescribe that a two-thirds vote of the board could rearrange the agenda which had the canvassing of the ballots preceding personnel matters. She then moved to change the agenda and Houston seconded. Voth, however, refused to call the motion to a question.

Mrs. Sheridan then explained her position to the 125 persons present for the meeting, saying, "If the votes are canvassed first, then the complexion of this board will change."

Her remarks stemmed from a series of legal complications which have beset the board. A few weeks ago, Conrad Borsting, member of the board, was found to be residing out of the district from which he had been elected. He then filed for the school position to be vacated July 1 by Voth, and in the Monday election, Lou Kellison was elected to take the remainder of Borsting's term and Borsting was elected to replace Voth as of July 1.

It was apparent that the legal counsel of the board ruled that when the votes were canvassed, Borsting would be off the board until July 1. The board after the canvass and before July 1, would then be comprised of Mrs. Sheridan, Houston, Walker, new member Kellison and Chairman Voth. This would mean that the board might then be split 2-2 over the question of reinstating McKinny and Voth would have the deciding vote on the matter. What Kellison's vote would be is not known at this time.

The Herald and News contacted the new board member Wednesday and he said he hadn't expected that the matter would be still pending and he therefore hadn't reviewed the matter carefully enough to draw a conclusion. He added that he didn't think he would get a chance to vote on the matter since he is getting ready to take a long planned vacation that will probably last over a month.

When Voth refused to budge on rearranging the agenda Tuesday night, Mrs. Sheridan moved for adjournment and was upheld 3-2 in the voting.

This left the board at an impasse. The law does state that the election results must be canvassed within 10 days of the election.

The question of reinstatement of McKinny arose when it developed that he has appealed a recent ruling revoking his teaching certificate by the State Board of Education on the ground of irregularities in his application. His appeal acted as a stay on the revocation and his teaching certificate has been validated pending the hearing of his appeal on June 16 by the state board.

Regardless of whether the KUHS board elects to return him to the principal post, they are obligated to pay his salary up to the time of the state board hearing McKinny's appeal.

Both groups in the argument were expected to get together in some sort of an informal session Wednesday, and it may be that a compromise will be forthcoming.

NEW COUNTY PTA OFFICERS — This new slate of officers for the Klamath County PTA Council was installed at a meeting in Molatore's Restaurant May 7. The new officers are, from left, R. A. Mitchell, treasurer, Shasta Grade School; Mrs. L. E. Saunders, president, Altamont; Mrs. George Demetras, secretary, Fairview; Mrs. Orson Stearns, vice president, Riverside, and Mrs. Edwin Ritchie, second vice president, also of Riverside School.

Yanks Airlifted From Haiti

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — The United States today evacuated nearly 200 Americans from a strike-torn Haiti in a two-plane airlift. The evacuation was carried out without apparent incident.

The first batch of 68 dependents of U.S. Embassy personnel went out on a regular commercial flight at 7:50 a.m. p.m. The second aircraft, a charter flight from Miami, departed at 9 a.m.

Of the 106 persons on the charter flight, 84 were dependents of military personnel.

The first plane was returning to Miami, Fla., via Montego Bay, Jamaica. The second plane, however, was scheduled to fly direct to Miami.

U.S. Embassy officials said they had expected about 200 American civilians or their dependents also to evacuate, but that the Washington recommendation they leave Haiti apparently had not been accepted.

Other flights Thursday
Evacuation of 220 U.S. government civilian personnel and dependents here is expected to be completed Thursday morning with the arrival of a second charter flight from Miami. There are also two regularly scheduled Pan American World Airways flights out of Port-au-Prince Thursday.

Most of today's evacuees were children, dressed in their Sunday best for the occasion. Heaps of baggage were stacked around the airport.

The U.S. order to evacuate women and children of government personnel was issued Tuesday because of what Washington termed a "continued deterioration" of the internal situation in Haiti.

The U.S. government Tuesday ordered all 220 dependents removed and urged the 1,300 private American residents to leave Haiti also.

"Progressive Disintegration"
Undersecretary of State George W. Ball said in Washington that the regime of President Francois Duvalier "seems to be in a kind of progressive disintegration" and in fact appears to be "falling apart."

In Willemstad, Curacao, informed sources said the Haitian government had requested permission for a military plane to land on that Dutch Caribbean island off the Venezuelan coast, about 475 miles southeast of Haiti.

(The sources said Haiti told Curacao authorities the plane's mission was to pick up passengers but there was no immediate reply to the authorities' relation that Haitian officials, possibly including Duvalier himself, might be making arrangements to leave the troubled Negro republic.)

Capital Appears Calm
The Haitian capital appeared calm today, but a strict 6-to-5 curfew remained in effect Tuesday night.

An exodus of Americans from Port-au-Prince has been in evidence for the past 10 days since the crisis with the Dominican Republic, Haiti's neighbor on the island of Hispaniola, neared the boiling point.

The threat of a Dominican invasion seemed to be held in abeyance today pending action by the Organization of American States (OAS) and the United Nations Security Council, Haiti requested the U.N. action.

The internal political situation remained tense. Duvalier's opponents have marked May 15 as the day for an attempted uprising. That is the day the president's legal six-year term expires.

The governor said he met with Goldwater, leader of the GOP's conservative wing, on his trip and expressed "the hope that his situation would not lead to a division in party ranks."

Asked what he meant by Goldwater's "situation," Romney said he was referring to "organizations that are being formed to support his candidacy."

"The most important issue is maintaining unity within the party," said the governor.

Weather

AGRICULTURAL FORECAST
Continued unsettled with showers Thursday and again Saturday or Sunday. Mostly fair Friday. Little change in temperature. Eight inch soil temperature 45.

JFK Waits Solution By South

By United Press International
The demonstrations at Birmingham, Ala., overshadowed all other racial developments in the South Tuesday.

More than 3,000 Negroes participated in the demonstrations in which rocks were hurled at policemen and firemen who routed the demonstrators with water hoses.

Alabama Gov. George Wallace in Montgomery ordered 250 riot-trained state troopers to Birmingham to help preserve order. President Kennedy was in close touch with the situation but the White House Tuesday indicated he had no immediate plans to intervene.

"The President continues to hope the situation can be solved by the people of Birmingham themselves," said acting White House press secretary Andrew Hatcher.

The Justice Department's chief civil rights trouble shooter, Burke Marshall, conferred almost constantly with various groups in an attempt to reach a settlement in the crisis. Negro leader Martin Luther King Jr. said just before the new round of demonstrations Tuesday that negotiators apparently were making some progress.

Says Merchants Reneged
"We have found the groundwork for some meaningful negotiations, but nothing positive has been done so far," he said. King ordered the demonstrations April 3 because, he said, white Birmingham merchants had reneged on promises to end segregation practices.

In New York, former baseball star Jackie Robinson said he would lead a demonstration in Birmingham next week "to show Martin Luther King that we are behind him." Negro leaders in Washington announced plans for a nationwide pilgrimage to Birmingham to support the demonstrators. They were awaiting word from King as to when to start the pilgrimage, they said.

Negro author James Baldwin warned at San Francisco the events in Birmingham should be ample indication to other cities that they are sitting "on a powder keg." Birmingham, he said, is "a forerunner of what's going to happen throughout the country."

A group of Negro ministers at Mobile, Ala., protested the "treatment of Negroes in Birmingham and other high-tension areas in the South who seek merely to demonstrate against the injustices of a segregated society."

Say Negroes Minded
But a Negro organization in Montgomery, calling itself the Sensible Approach of Negro Efforts (SANE), charged that "professional agitators posing as ministers are using the cloth to mislead Negroes." The group said persons such as King were creating an atmosphere so intense that peaceful settlement was difficult.

In other racial developments Tuesday:
—The Georgia Board of Regents ordered Savannah State College closed to outsiders and gave striking Negro students until Thursday to return to classes or face expulsion. A large number of students withdrew from the college in protest against the dismissal of a professor, apparently for his efforts to get white students to attend his classes.

—The Georgia Board of Regents ordered Savannah State College closed to outsiders and gave striking Negro students until Thursday to return to classes or face expulsion. A large number of students withdrew from the college in protest against the dismissal of a professor, apparently for his efforts to get white students to attend his classes.

—The Georgia Board of Regents ordered Savannah State College closed to outsiders and gave striking Negro students until Thursday to return to classes or face expulsion. A large number of students withdrew from the college in protest against the dismissal of a professor, apparently for his efforts to get white students to attend his classes.

—The Georgia Board of Regents ordered Savannah State College closed to outsiders and gave striking Negro students until Thursday to return to classes or face expulsion. A large number of students withdrew from the college in protest against the dismissal of a professor, apparently for his efforts to get white students to attend his classes.

—The Georgia Board of Regents ordered Savannah State College closed to outsiders and gave striking Negro students until Thursday to return to classes or face expulsion. A large number of students withdrew from the college in protest against the dismissal of a professor, apparently for his efforts to get white students to attend his classes.

—The Georgia Board of Regents ordered Savannah State College closed to outsiders and gave striking Negro students until Thursday to return to classes or face expulsion. A large number of students withdrew from the college in protest against the dismissal of a professor, apparently for his efforts to get white students to attend his classes.

—The Georgia Board of Regents ordered Savannah State College closed to outsiders and gave striking Negro students until Thursday to return to classes or face expulsion. A large number of students withdrew from the college in protest against the dismissal of a professor, apparently for his efforts to get white students to attend his classes.

—The Georgia Board of Regents ordered Savannah State College closed to outsiders and gave striking Negro students until Thursday to return to classes or face expulsion. A large number of students withdrew from the college in protest against the dismissal of a professor, apparently for his efforts to get white students to attend his classes.

—The Georgia Board of Regents ordered Savannah State College closed to outsiders and gave striking Negro students until Thursday to return to classes or face expulsion. A large number of students withdrew from the college in protest against the dismissal of a professor, apparently for his efforts to get white students to attend his classes.

—The Georgia Board of Regents ordered Savannah State College closed to outsiders and gave striking Negro students until Thursday to return to classes or face expulsion. A large number of students withdrew from the college in protest against the dismissal of a professor, apparently for his efforts to get white students to attend his classes.

Workers Die In Mishaps

By United Press International

Three Atlantic Coast ship mishaps Tuesday took the lives of six workmen and injured at least one other.

Flash fires raced through an oil tanker and an atomic submarine in shipyards and a small Dutch vessel sank in New York harbor after colliding with a British freighter.

At Gibbs Shipyard near Jacksonville, Fla., three men were killed and a fourth critically burned when a flash fire engulfed the hold of an oil tanker under repairs.

Firemen with oxygen masks worked in dense clouds of black smoke for an hour before bringing the victims to the deck. The four men were working about 10 feet below the water line of the ill-fated Thresher, was hit by fire. Three workmen in the sub's aft ballast tanks were killed and two others were injured.

At Groton, Conn., the atomic submarine Flasher, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, was hit by fire. Three workmen in the sub's aft ballast tanks were killed and two others were injured.

At Groton, Conn., the atomic submarine Flasher, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, was hit by fire. Three workmen in the sub's aft ballast tanks were killed and two others were injured.

At Groton, Conn., the atomic submarine Flasher, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, was hit by fire. Three workmen in the sub's aft ballast tanks were killed and two others were injured.

At Groton, Conn., the atomic submarine Flasher, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, was hit by fire. Three workmen in the sub's aft ballast tanks were killed and two others were injured.

At Groton, Conn., the atomic submarine Flasher, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, was hit by fire. Three workmen in the sub's aft ballast tanks were killed and two others were injured.

At Groton, Conn., the atomic submarine Flasher, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, was hit by fire. Three workmen in the sub's aft ballast tanks were killed and two others were injured.

At Groton, Conn., the atomic submarine Flasher, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, was hit by fire. Three workmen in the sub's aft ballast tanks were killed and two others were injured.

At Groton, Conn., the atomic submarine Flasher, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, was hit by fire. Three workmen in the sub's aft ballast tanks were killed and two others were injured.

At Groton, Conn., the atomic submarine Flasher, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, was hit by fire. Three workmen in the sub's aft ballast tanks were killed and two others were injured.

At Groton, Conn., the atomic submarine Flasher, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, was hit by fire. Three workmen in the sub's aft ballast tanks were killed and two others were injured.

At Groton, Conn., the atomic submarine Flasher, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, was hit by fire. Three workmen in the sub's aft ballast tanks were killed and two others were injured.

At Groton, Conn., the atomic submarine Flasher, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, was hit by fire. Three workmen in the sub's aft ballast tanks were killed and two others were injured.

At Groton, Conn., the atomic submarine Flasher, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, was hit by fire. Three workmen in the sub's aft ballast tanks were killed and two others were injured.

At Groton, Conn., the atomic submarine Flasher, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, was hit by fire. Three workmen in the sub's aft ballast tanks were killed and two others were injured.

Romney Leaves Field To Goldwater, Rocky

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Gov. George Romney returned to his state capital Tuesday and promptly left the 1964 Republican presidential nomination battle up to Sen. Barry Goldwater and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Romney, home after an eight-day sojourn to Washington and New York, repeated that he is "not a candidate and I do not plan to be a candidate in 1964."

The former industrialist said that Goldwater and Rockefeller are the "top candidates at this point" and said he had invited both of them to come to Michigan "to let the state get a look at them."

Romney said he was "amazed at the publicity given his recent trip during which evidences of a Romney-for-president boom was growing within GOP ranks."

"People have been interpreting things that aren't there," he said. "All I've been doing is refraining from indicating what I'm going to do after this term as governor."

The governor denied reports that he had been listening to encouragement from prominent Republicans, among them former President Eisenhower and former GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall.

"I've met Len Hall only twice and have only a casual acquaintanceship with him. And it's been months since I've communicated with Gen. Eisenhower," Romney said.

Asked if he would accept the 64 nomination if it were thrown his way, Romney replied sharply: "That is so remote and unlikely that it would be absolutely presumptuous and foolish on my part to comment on."

The governor said he met with Goldwater, leader of the GOP's conservative wing, on his trip and expressed "the hope that his situation would not lead to a division in party ranks."

Asked what he meant by Goldwater's "situation," Romney said he was referring to "organizations that are being formed to support his candidacy."

"The most important issue is maintaining unity within the party," said the governor.

Rocky Shuns Politic Talk

CHIRGUA, Venezuela (UPI) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, playing the role of a country squire, threw open his Venezuelan honeymoon house to newsmen Tuesday but refused to discuss the possible political effects of his marriage to Mrs. Margaret (Happy) Murphy, 36.

"This is not the proper moment to talk politics," Rockefeller said with his bride at his side in their hilltop residence. "This is a social gathering."

Rockefeller, who married the recently divorced Mrs. Murphy in a surprise ceremony Saturday, said he and his bride had been relaxing by trimming fruit trees, riding and reading since they arrived here Sunday.

Rockefeller, who married the recently divorced Mrs. Murphy in a surprise ceremony Saturday, said he and his bride had been relaxing by trimming fruit trees, riding and reading since they arrived here Sunday.

Rockefeller, who married the recently divorced Mrs. Murphy in a surprise ceremony Saturday, said he and his bride had been relaxing by trimming fruit trees, riding and reading since they arrived here Sunday.

Rockefeller, who married the recently divorced Mrs. Murphy in a surprise ceremony Saturday, said he and his bride had been relaxing by trimming fruit trees, riding and reading since they arrived here Sunday.

Rockefeller, who married the recently divorced Mrs. Murphy in a surprise ceremony Saturday, said he and his bride had been relaxing by trimming fruit trees, riding and reading since they arrived here Sunday.

Rockefeller, who married the recently divorced Mrs. Murphy in a surprise ceremony Saturday, said he and his bride had been relaxing by trimming fruit trees, riding and reading since they arrived here Sunday.

Rockefeller, who married the recently divorced Mrs. Murphy in a surprise ceremony Saturday, said he and his bride had been relaxing by trimming fruit trees, riding and reading since they arrived here Sunday.

Rockefeller, who married the recently divorced Mrs. Murphy in a surprise ceremony Saturday, said he and his bride had been relaxing by trimming fruit trees, riding and reading since they arrived here Sunday.

Rockefeller, who married the recently divorced Mrs. Murphy in a surprise ceremony Saturday, said he and his bride had been relaxing by trimming fruit trees, riding and reading since they arrived here Sunday.

Rockefeller, who married the recently divorced Mrs. Murphy in a surprise ceremony Saturday, said he and his bride had been relaxing by trimming fruit trees, riding and reading since they arrived here Sunday.

Rockefeller, who married the recently divorced Mrs. Murphy in a surprise ceremony Saturday, said he and his bride had been relaxing by trimming fruit trees, riding and reading since they arrived here Sunday.

PUBLIC TO VIEW "VOODOO" — One of the Air Force's F-101 Voodoo jet fighter-interceptors and other modern jet fighters of the U.S. armed services will be displayed for the public during Armed Forces Day, Saturday, May 18, at Kingsley Field. Some of the hundreds of people who viewed the famous fighter-interceptor at the open house last year walked up a wooden ramp for a "look-see." More than 20,000 people are expected at the open house, featuring equipment demonstrations, flyovers, and displays of aircraft.