Negroes Push Protests Of Atlanta Segregation

By United Press International
 Negroes stepped up their activity protesting segregation in Atlanta Monday, and a Negro leader warned that the Georgia capital would become "another Birmingham."
 More than 850 persons were arrested in Birmingham Monday as racial demonstrations continued unabated in the Alabama steel city. A biracial committee convened late Monday night in an effort to work a settlement between Negro leaders and city officials.
 In Savannah, Ga., more than 300 students withdrew from all-Negro Savannah State College Monday in protest against the dismissal of a popular professor. Most of them said they intended to apply for admission to white colleges.
Prayers In Atlanta
 A prayer demonstration was held by more than 200 Negroes in front of the Atlanta City Hall in hopes of getting official help in efforts to desegregate downtown restaurants. But the demonstrators left without seeing Mayor Ivan Allen and marched to the Atlanta police station several blocks away. They tried unsuccessfully to attend the arraignment of 40 persons arrested on trespass charges during a sit-in demonstration last week.
 Other groups of Negroes fanned out across downtown Atlanta in new sit-in attempts. Ralph Moore, 22-year-old executive director of the Negro Committee on Human Rights, said the sit-ins would continue until restaurants were opened to Negroes.
 The Negro committee on human rights, said the sit-ins would continue until restaurants were opened to Negroes.
 "If the mayor does not intercede and help," he said, "I predict this city will be another Birmingham in a week and a half."
Many Children Demonstrators
 Hundreds of Negro school children were among the demonstrators at Birmingham Monday. Negro comedian Dick Gregory of Chicago was among the first group arrested as more than 700 persons marched from a mass meeting at a church into the arms of waiting policemen at road blocks.
 The arrested demonstrators, including a white reporter, Barbara Demming of "The Nation" magazine, were taken to jail in police wagons and school buses. The arrests brought to more than 2,200 the number of persons jailed in the month-long demonstrations.

DICK HOUCK

Dick Houck Wins Full Scholarship

By MARTHA RAGLAND
 Dick Houck, Henley High School senior, has been awarded a four-year full tuition scholarship to Illinois Institute of Technology, one of the top technical schools in the nation. The grant amounts to $1,200 per year.
 Students accepted by the Chicago school are carefully selected. The objective stated by the school is "to give students the potential for future development, both as an applied scientist and as a responsible citizen."
 The IIT Division of Engineering and Physical Sciences offers degrees in all major engineering fields, mathematics, physics, and chemistry. Houck plans to major in physics.
 Houck's scientific interest has been apparent through his high school years. As a freshman and sophomore he took the required general chemistry and biology courses; as a junior he studied chemistry; and this year he is studying physics and advanced chemistry. His research project for chemistry is "determining whether or not the electromotive potential between the ionosphere and the earth has any effect on a charged body such as a rocket."
 Most of his courses were taken from Earl Graham, head of the Henley science department.
 Houck won second place in the Elks Lodge scholarship competition for his participation on the Elks panels and was also offered a scholarship to the University of Oregon by the Oregon Dads.
 Houck is not the first Henley science student to receive such honors. Myron Hurlbut, 1964 graduate, is now working as an electronics engineer for Bell Telephone Company, Elliott West. 1966, is studying toward a doctor of philosophy degree in plant ecology at Oregon State University.
 Terry Beyer is studying at Massachusetts Institute of Technology on a teaching fellowship and working toward a master's degree in research in physical chemistry. Beyer, 1962 graduate of the University of Oregon, was elected to Phi Beta Kappa there.

Visitation Day Slated At Shasta

Pre-school visitation day at the Shasta School, for children of the district who will enter the first grade in the fall, will be held Friday, May 10, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, including a lunch period.
 The children must be 6 years old before Nov. 15, and Oregon law requires a birth certificate to establish proof of age.
 Mothers are invited to attend a meeting from 10 to 11 a.m. in the school cafeteria. They will be acquainted with the problems a first grade child may have upon entering school and instructed as to preparations to be made prior to entry.
 Parents may eat in the school cafeteria before picking up their children. The lunch charge is 20 cents for children and 30 cents for adults.
Fish Fry Set
 MOUNT SHASTA—The annual fish fry sponsored by the Mount Shasta Rod and Gun Club will be held Saturday evening, May 18, in the Rod and Gun clubhouse in City Park.
 Members are now catching and dressing fish and leaving them at Sheldon's warehouse for icing until needed. The fish fry is the money-making event of the year. The club's next meeting will be held Tuesday, May 14.
