Joe Makes Bad Play

By OSWALD JACOBY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
My old friend Hard Luck Joe has acquired a shot of confidence and is playing rubber bridge again.

Playing at six spades Joe drew trumps, cashed his ace and king of clubs; ruffed his last club in dummy, returned to his hand with the ace of diamonds, led his deuce of hearts and played the king from dummy.

East won with the ace and returned a heart which Joe trumped. Now Joe cashed his last trump, thought for a while and led a diamond to dummy's queen. East showed out and Joe had to lose a trick to the jack of diamonds. "My usual hard luck," snarled Joe. "The ace of hearts was wrong and diamonds failed to break. Why did I ever start playing again?"

It was hard luck, and also bad play. Do you see why?
West knew from the bidding that his partner held an ace. If West held a singleton he would probably have led it in the hope of getting a ruff. Hence, if anyone held a singleton diamond it would be East, not West.

You can fight hard luck! Order your copy of "Win at Bridge With Oswald Jacoby." Just send your name, address, and 50 cents to: Oswald Jacoby Reader Service, care this newspaper, P.O. Box 469, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 19, N.Y.

What do you do?
A—Bid three spades only. You want to buy the bid at four spades but a jump to four spades might produce a bid of five in a red suit.

TODAY'S QUESTION
This time the bidding was two clubs by West, two spades by North, five clubs by East. What do you do now?

Demos Approve Seashore Park

PORTLAND (UPI)—A bill to establish a 42,000-acre national seashore at the Oregon Dunes drew approval of the Multnomah County Democratic Executive Committee Tuesday night.

The committee went on record as favoring the Newberger proposal over a similar but more limited bill proposed by Rep. Robert Duncan, D-Ore.

Tule Dress Revue Slated Saturday

TULELAKE—Tulelake's annual 4-H Dress Revue will be held Saturday, May 11, in the home economics building of the fairgrounds at 8 p.m. Nearly 40 girls will participate in this event, highlighting their 4-H clothing project.

The dress revue consists of two separate contests, construction and modeling. Each is designed to assist and train the members and recognize those who do outstanding work.

At the conclusion of Saturday night's event, one girl will be selected from the junior division and one from the senior division to receive trophy awards.

The senior division winner will attend the State 4-H Dress Revue this summer at Davis.

The day-long activities of the dress revue will involve all adult and junior clothing leaders. The food project members and leaders will provide the refreshments.

Judging the modeling phase of the contest will be 4-H clothing leaders, Erma Schluter, Alturas; Helen Arnett, Cedarville; and Mary Cook, Eagleville.

The Tulelake Grange will furnish all awards for the dress revue.

Tulelake's 4-H Dress Revue is conducted jointly by the Tulelake 4-H Leaders Council and the University of California Farm Adviser's Office of Modoc County.

Dominican Crisis Recedes After Two Weeks Of Threat

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Haiti's dictator-President Francois Duvalier was a little like the weather this week—everyone was talking about him but there seemed little that anyone could do about him.

After two weeks of crisis, the threat of war on the little island of Hispaniola, shared by Haiti and the Dominican Republic, seemed to be receding.

Interestingly, the very democratic forces which Duvalier effectively had destroyed among Haiti's 4.2 million wretched people, were among those helping him to remain in office.

One of these was the peace team dispatched by the Organization of American States to Port au Prince and to Santo Domingo to attempt to mediate the quarrel which had led Dominican President Juan Bosch to threaten to send his troops plunging across the Haitian border.

The other was the United Nations to which Duvalier had appealed on the charge that the Dominican Republic threatened Haiti's "democratic institutions." Among African nations there was a sentiment that Duvalier's U. N. charges should be debated. But both OAS and the possible U. N. action simply consisted of delaying tactics.

For, while Bosch agreed to hold off military action pending OAS findings and Haiti agreed to release "little by little" an estimated 100 refugees in asylum in foreign embassies, the underlying causes for violence remained within Haiti itself.

From his presidential palace Duvalier shouted defiantly that he had been given power and that "God is the only one who will take it from me."

But forces had been set in motion that would be difficult to stop.

The U. S. long since had indicated its distaste for Duvalier and in proof of the expectation of further violence began removing its citizens from Haiti.

Even if he desisted from direct military action, Bosch himself could be expected to continue to work for Duvalier's downfall with the strong moral support of such as President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela and Gov. Luis Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico.

In fact in the whole of the Caribbean area, Duvalier could look for help to no one.

Duvalier's own claim to a second term clearly was fraudulent, both by the terms on which he claimed it and by the Haitian constitution.

The policy of non-intervention bound both the United States and the OAS but the spotlight of events had been placed on Haiti and now the OAS might consider conditions inside Haiti itself a threat to hemispheric peace.
