Runs Aground

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI)—The inter-island schooner Manuela ran aground and sank Thursday near Maupiti Island, drowning at least 9 and perhaps 15 of the 47 persons aboard, it was reported today. Authorities said bad weather hampered rescue efforts.

CIVIL DEFENSE KILLED — Portland City Council voted to kill the city's 13-year-old civil defense program July 1 by removing the appropriation from the budget for the next fiscal year. Scenes such as this from a 1959 file photo will be eliminated. Planetarium Addition Set PORTLAND (UPI)—The Oregon Museum of Science and Industry will add two wings and a planetarium to its building, it was announced Friday. Donald Stotler, president of OMSI, said the expansion project will cost $600,000. The science center was built in 1958 and had more than 330,000 visitors last year.

New Aid To Education Proposal Introduced

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff introduced a measure last week he said would help reduce the religious controversy over federal aid to education. The former Health, Education and Welfare secretary said his six-point program was part of the "new approaches" needed to end the bitterness over use of federal funds to help private and parochial elementary and high schools. His program would provide tax reductions up to $1,500 for college expenses at both public and private colleges and up to $100 for tuition expenses at private schools. Federal funds also would be used to pay public schools for allowing their facilities to be used

Nikita's Diplomatic Victory Over Red China Said Costly

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev scored a diplomatic coup in the struggle with Communist China by enlisting Cuban Premier Fidel Castro as a full-fledged member of the Moscow camp—but at a price, Western diplomats said Saturday.

The conclusion was based on the Soviet-Cuban communique issued Friday night which indicated that Castro had extracted promises of more economic help from the Soviet Union in exchange for his support of Khrushchev's policies. The diplomats said that Castro's support could be crucial in the face of the forthcoming ideological confrontation with Peking. The Cuban premier had appeared to waver between Moscow and Peking after Khrushchev pulled the Soviet missiles out of Cuba last fall.

The communique issued kept secret how much help Russia would provide for Cuba's hard-pressed economy. Russia never has released any figures, but Western estimates have ranged variously from $100 million to $470 million a year.

The language of the communique was confined to saying that the Soviet Union agreed on measures "for the further development of economic, trade and scientific ties with Cuba" and would pay more for Cuban sugar. Khrushchev and Castro were reported "resting" on the Black Sea.

There was speculation they might be seeking to iron out some of the "fine print" in the economic and military aid agreements. Castro is expected to end his one-month visit to the Soviet Union following the Black Sea visit and fly home to Cuba. Khrushchev, it was disclosed, also agreed to a visit to Cuba although no date was set.

to teach some courses to private school students.

Aid would also be provided for transportation, school lunches and building construction at private schools.

Civil rights—Twenty senators sponsored bipartisan introduction of two civil rights bills designed to hasten school desegregation and halt discrimination. The bills would give the attorney general power to go into courts to enforce the rights of individual citizens.
