

Game Commission Tightens Reins, Halts State Controlled Deer Hunts

The game commission pulled in the check reins for deer hunters but allowed similar elk and antelope hunts as last year as it set the tentative big game regulations for 1963 at its public hearing in Portland Friday and Saturday, May 24 and 25.

Eliminated this year from the deer hunts will be all controlled hunts which last year numbered 24,850 tags allowing hunters to take one or more deer, plus the reduction of 37,750 in the number of unit permits to be issued for the 1963 season. The unit permit reduction was from 135,100 in 1962 to 97,350 for the coming season.

The commission allowed a three-week general buck season from Sept. 23 through Oct. 20 under the tentative regulations. As in the past, hunters would be restricted to bucks with forked horns west of the Cascades and bucks with visible antlers east of the Cascades.

One week was lopped off the unit hunts from last year with the season for permit holders set for Oct. 12 through 20. The commission made a general reduction in unit permit quotas, although in the northwest and northeast regions the number remained consistent with last year. The heaviest reduction in unit permits took place in central and southeast Oregon where poor fawn production prevailed.

By region, in the northwest the commission would allow the issuance of 31,000 permits compared to 57,000 last year; southwest region, 8,300 compared to 17,700 a year ago; central Oregon region, 5,700 compared to 12,200; south-east region, 5,650 compared to 14,500; and in the northeast region, 27,500 compared to 33,100 a year ago.

An early high Cascade buck season from Sept. 7 through 15 would give 8,000 permit holders an opportunity to hunt the high country prior to inclement weather; the Minam Pack area would again be available to Minam permit holders for a nine-day hunt, Aug. 31 through Sept. 15; and the early Waldport - Mapleton hunt would again be available to hunters Aug. 31, Sept. 1-2, and 7-8.

A total of 14 extended hunts would be on the docket, most of which will run for short periods in November. These seasons would be available to unused tag holders with respective unit permits. All extended hunts are in problem areas which would be taken care of by permit holders rather than the controlled hunts of last year.

The general elk season would be comparable to last year, Oct. 26 through Nov. 11 in the coast range and Oct. 26 through Nov. 24 in the Cascades, northeastern Oregon and southeastern Oregon areas. Bag limits would remain the same as last year.

The Clatsop, Wilson, Trask and Dixon units (a new unit) would be hunted on a permit basis only. Antlerless elk seasons in northeastern Oregon units would be almost the same as last year with a slight reduction in permit quotas from 3,400 last year to 3,200 this year. The Mill Creek permit hunt would be Nov. 9 through 17, and the Shaw Mountain hunt would be Dec. 14 through 21.

An increase of 50 tags would be allowed for the antelope hunts with the addition of one new area, the Interstate—available to hunters this year. The season would extend from Aug. 17 through 21. A total of 650 tags would be issued for the seven antelope areas. Antelope hunters would be allowed to draw in a party of not more than two.

The commission made several revisions in the southwest region units to more effectively manage the big game resources in this area.

Bob Garibaldi Continues To Notch Impressive Wins

Pacific Coast League Roundup
By United Press International

Tacoma fans must have mixed emotions as they watch the brilliant bonus baby Bob Garibaldi continue to rack up impressive pitching wins.

The trouble is that he is looking so sensational that his days in the Pacific Coast League may be numbered. The parent San Francisco Giants are fishing around for one more solid starter and Garibaldi looks as though he fits the bill.

Tuesday night, the former University of Santa Clara flash scattered six hits and fanned 10 as Tacoma slugged Portland 4-1 to grab a belly four and a half game lead in the northern division. Garibaldi, for whom San Francisco shelled out a reported $150,000, now has a 6-1 record.

The southern division standings meanwhile underwent a double shuffle worthy of any card shark as Dallas-Ft. Worth sneaked percentage points past San Diego into first place, and Denver did the same thing to Oklahoma City in third place. Only last place Salt Lake, seven games off the pace, adds a note of stability to the scene.

One Rainout
Dallas edged Oklahoma City 7-5 and Denver downed San Diego 6-1. It was Spokane's 5 Seattle 4 in 12 innings, while Hawaii and Salt Lake were rained out at Salt Lake while trying to make up a game rained out at Honolulu.

While Garibaldi was serving up goose eggs to Portland, Tacoma nibbled away at the Beavers. Jesus Alou doubled in one in the third and singles by Ricardo Joseph and Jerry Robinson sparked a two-run spurge in the fourth. It was 4-0 before Jay Hankins doubled and scored in the eighth for Portland's tally.

George Brunet of Oklahoma City was sailing along on a 5-2 lead and recording a bundle of strikeouts when the roof caved in during the eighth.

Three Pitchers, Three Hits
Dallas-Ft. Worth sent five men across the plate on three hits and three walks off three RHP pitchers.

Jim McDaniel homered for the losers with one aboard in the sixth.

The story was much the same at San Diego where the Padres took a 4-1 lead after three and then saw victory slip from their fingers.

Mel Queen of the Pads hit a two-run homer in the first, while Jim McKnight hit a solo shot in the second for Denver. But singles by Ed Haas and Lee Tate proved more damaging in the eighth as they led to the two-run rally that put Denver ahead to stay.

Seattle started Wilbur Wood against Spokane. He's the hottest Rainier ace with an earned run average so low that it's practically invisible. But Spokane managed to make it reappear by scoring once in the seventh and three times in the ninth. Reliever

Lewiston's Victory Makes Northwest Loop Tighter

By United Press International

Lewiston turned in a 9-1 Northwest League victory over Yakima Tuesday night to tighten up the race for the top spot in the six-team loop.

Eugene, which has the cellar all to itself, was hopped by Salem 6-3 and now sports a season's mark of 3 wins and 26 losses. In the other game, Wenatchee nipped Tri-City 4-2.

Don Marrs and Woody Huysie hit back-to-back homers in the fourth for Lewiston to move ahead of Yakima for good. Brian Dye added a two-run homer in the seventh for the winners.

Salem's win over Eugene moved the Dodgers to a virtual first place tie with Yakima. Salem snapped a 2-2 tie with six runs in the fifth on four hits, four walks and a wild pitch. Dave Moran pitched a seven-inning pick-up to the victory.

Glenn Davis banged a double in the ninth to send one run across for Wenatchee and the Chiefs got the winning marker when manager George Freese was walked with the bases loaded.

Oregon defeated the Beavers 86-63 at Corvallis May 4.

Player Thinks 277 Will Defend PGA Title In July

DALLAS (UPI) — Gary Player, who played "catch up" against National Open champion Jack Nicklaus all day in their National Golf Day "round of champions" Tuesday, thinks a 7-under-par 277 would successfully defend his PGA crown here in July's searing heat.

Player snaked in long pressure putts on the final hole of each nine Tuesday to finish all even with Nicklaus as each carded three-under-par 35-33-68 over the 7,000-yard DAC Country Club layout although they were playing the par 36-35-71 course blind.

"Of course, we caught the course at its best today," the little South African said after the round which saw him card six birdsies but offset three of them with a double bogey and a bogey. "I think a 277 will be good enough to win the PGA," he said. "They'll toughen it up for sure before the PGA (July 18-21)," he added. "And besides, the weather was ideal (humid mid-80s), no one had tromped the greens ahead of us and the putting surfaces were perfect. I hear it gets well into the 100s here by mid-July."

Both Player and Nicklaus could brag a bit about their putting as they set the target at which golfers by the thousands fired last week in attempting to win "I beat Nicklaus-Player" badges. These competitors, aided by handicaps, paid $1 each to go into the National Golf Fund. Another $3,000 paid to see Tuesday's duel.
