

HAS RIGHT OF WAY — A bantam rooster struts along Market Street in Redding, as shoppers and autos politely let the chicken have the right of way. The last seen of the courageous chicken was around noontime when he took a siesta in the shade of a parked car. — UPI Telephoto

Draft Goldwater Committee Plans Giant July 4 Rally

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Draft Goldwater Committee today announced plans for a mammoth July 4 rally in the nation's capital aimed at convincing Sen. Barry Goldwater to run for president.

The committee said groups from almost every state had announced they would attend the rally on behalf of the Arizona Republican and it would be "a truly national declaration of popular sentiment."

Firm Seeks Use Permit

MOUNT SHASTA — Bucher, Thomas, and Little, Inc., an electronics firm, applied this week for a land-use permit to establish a factory in Mount Shasta. Negotiations for the purchase of the Chris Spini property were culminated last week.

The application was made to the Siskiyou County Planning Commission which will meet and act on the application June 5. Prior approval is expected from the Mount Shasta Planning Commission at its June 4 meeting. The section of land is zoned for non-offensive industrial use.

The corporation plans to start operation in a few weeks with four to six employees. The company has not announced all specific items to be manufactured, but they will be in the small electronics components field.

H. C. Little is president of the new firm and has purchased a home in Mount Shasta. The corporation secretary is Kenneth Wheeler. The men have been here for several months making arrangements for the firm.

The present building shed will be made dustproof and a new remodeled into an attractive industrial building. The firm also plans to make home sites available on the property for key employees.

SHASTA DRIVE-IN TU-2 3535
GATES OPEN TONITE 8:15

Jerry Lewis
It's ONLY MONEY

SHIRLEY MacLAINE
YVES MONTAND
EDWARD G. ROBINSON
BOB CUMMINGS

"MY GEISHA"
and live appeal

Dr. No
IAN FLEMING'S
TECHNICOLOR
TU-4-4567
DOORS OPEN 6:45

What Caused The SHAME of the Sabine Women

FIND OUT WED., JUNE 5 AT THE SHASTA DRIVE-IN

Sens. John G. Tower, R-Tex., Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, and Gov. Paul Fannin of Arizona were listed as speakers for the affair, which will be held in the National Guard Armory.

Actors Walter Brennan, Chill Wills, William Lundigan and Eileen Zimbalist Jr. will provide entertainment, according to Peter O'Donnell Jr., chairman of the committee.

"The purpose of the rally is to demonstrate growing public support for the nomination of Senator Goldwater as Republican candidate for president in 1964," the committee said.

"The rally will also serve as a formal kick-off for the committee's campaign to secure millions of signatures, petitioning Senator Goldwater to seek the Republican nomination."

In another development in the presidential sweepstakes, Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said he hoped that Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania would accept the call if he were asked to run for president or vice president.

Scott, appearing on a bi-monthly television program with Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., described Scranton as "one of the ablest Republicans we have."

"If he's ever called for higher duty, it would be my hope that he would feel impelled to accept it," Scott added. However, he said there was no movement afoot in Pennsylvania to generate interest in Scranton as a national figure.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Indications today were that President Kennedy probably will have to bypass the House Ways & Means Committee to get his controversial medical care bill through Congress.

And he would face a formidable task in accomplishing that feat.

A statement by Rep. A. S. Herlong Jr., D-Fla., that he no longer was willing under any circumstances to help pry the measure from the House Ways & Means Committee dealt a heavy blow to the bill's chances.

Herlong took the position last year that he would supply the necessary vote to bring the bill out of the committee if the other 22 members were deadlocked, 12-12.

But he told United Press International that a recent poll he took had persuaded him that a majority of his constituents were opposed to the plan to finance the program through Social Security.

Herlong was the second committee Democrat to speak out against the administration on the medical care issue. Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., moved Friday to spike speculation that he had thrown his support behind the program and was moving secretly to help pass it.

Mills said he still opposed the proposal and did not intend to permit a new Social Security bill he is sponsoring to "be used as a vehicle" for enactment of the medical care program.

If he decided to try and bypass the ways & means group, Kennedy could attempt to get the Senate to attach the medical care measure to another House-passed bill.

This approach was defeated by the Senate, 52-48, last year, but sentiment may have switched because of election of new senators. Even if it won Senate approval, the bill would have to go back to the House where Mills' opposition could be decisive.

Disappointments, Frustrations Add To Legislative Confusion

SALEM (UPI)—Saturday, then Sunday, were days of disappointment, bitterness, frustration and confusion in the capitol building.

The legislature was supposed to adjourn sine die but didn't. Saturday was a day of hopeful anticipation when the Senate and House convened at 9 a.m.

But as the day grew longer, tempers shortened, plans were changed, the unexpected became the rule.

Spectators in the galleries were confused as each house met for a while to act on a few bills, then recessed to wait for the other, and to let legislators confer.

It was late in the afternoon when the trouble surfaced. The House refused to vote on the heavily lobbied three-way workmen's compensation measure.

The Senate issued an ultimatum: Vote on the bill or the Senate will adjourn until Monday.

Measure Killed
House members were polled. When leaders were certain the bill could not pass, the rules suddenly were suspended. The House then killed the measure.

Throughout the evening and night the hallways between the Senate and House were jammed with clusters of lobbyists.

Some, smiling and relaxed, were waiting to see what would happen. Others, angry, tense and threatening, frantically tried to get last-minute consideration of a pet measure.

By evening, all that blocked adjournment was a decision on higher education salaries, and whether the Portland tuberculosis hospital should be closed.

Conferees argued, pleaded, threatened. But each chamber, sore at the other, refused to give.

Sen. Dan Thiel, D-Astoria, who collapsed of exhaustion Friday, was ordered by the legislature's doctor not to serve on a conference committee.

The House formally excused Rep. Joe Rogers, R-Independence, for a couple of hours so he could attend his daughter's wedding.

Rep. Ray Dooley, D-Portland, who suffered a heart attack earlier in the week, notified the speaker he had gone home.

Pages stuffed legislators' papers and books into boxes piled up along the walls of each chamber.

Families Tired
Lawmakers' families who had come to Salem to see the final hours became weary.

Desk staffs worked frantically to keep records straight.

Senators suggested going home until Monday. Musa stalled them. Then at 11 p.m., the Senate recessed until Sunday afternoon.

The news stunned many secretaries, clerks and onlookers. The House threatened to quit until Monday. Then, after a caucus of nearly an hour, agreed to quit until Sunday too.

A pretty page exploded, "Damn, this will go on forever."

A representative's wife, tired and puzzled, scolded her husband, "We can't stay. There's no place for the children to sleep."

At midnight, the representatives trickled out of the capitol.

Sunday, no one was much happier about the political situation, but a night's sleep had made it possible to laugh a little.

The spark of impending adjournment had died away, but the fire of the feud had not.

Some were surprised, more seemed bitter Sunday night when a day's efforts at compromise were killed by a vote in the House.

The Senate, enraged, laid off all secretaries and extra help and dug in for a long siege.

The House followed suit an hour later.

The 52nd legislative assembly girded for the 141st day.

Loss Small In Weekend Fire Calls

Firemen of the city, county and suburban fire departments responded to a total of five fires during the weekend which resulted in little or no damage, the three departments indicated Monday.

In one of three calls received by the county, the residence of Delford Reed Jr., 4028 Denver Avenue, received slight damage on an exterior wall when a fire started near an oil barrel outside the house, about 6:57 p.m., Saturday.

At 10:14 the following morning, firemen went to the home of Cecil Haggreen, 4346 Avalon Street, where an oil stove was flooded. They remained until the fire burned out. There was no damage.

The other call came at 4:35 a.m. today after a rear tire on an automobile operated by John Stanley, Malin, blew out and caught fire, scorching the fender of the car. The incident occurred on South Sixth Street.

Another automobile fire brought county firemen to Old Midland Road about 11:04 p.m. Friday, when the emergency brake band snapped on a car driven by Airman Robert Rand of Kingsley Field, causing the vehicle to catch fire. The fire caused minor damage to the floor board and the underside of the car.

At 5:35 p.m., Saturday, city firemen were summoned to 934 North Ninth Street, where a paraffin caught fire in the kitchen of a house occupied by Homer Brown. There was moderate smoke damage to the building, firemen reported.

City officials promised strict control over more theater demonstrations expected today.

In the midst of the trouble, the city commission held an emergency meeting and set up a biracial committee of eight whites and four Negroes to work toward a peaceful solution to racial problems.

"The law will be enforced," vowed Mayor-Commissioner Byron Winn.

Officials in Tallahassee and Daytona Beach, where theater picketing already is under way, also looked to police control and cooperation by officials of both races to keep down trouble. There was near violence last week in Tallahassee.

In the Negro section of Gainesville, a crowd of close to 1,000 Negroes gathered as word of the downtown trouble spread. The Negroes pounced on a stalled car carrying three white men, wrecked the car and beat one of the men.

It was here, witnesses said, that a Negro pulled out a pistol and shot another Negro, Joseph Simmons, either accidentally while aiming at the car or because Simmons was trying to help the white men. Police said they were investigating.

Simmons was treated for a wound in the forearm and released from a hospital.

James, 18, was alone in his car when it crashed into the side of the Southern Pacific's Cascade passenger train in a northwest Eugene residential area about 7:15 p.m. He died in a Eugene hospital about 13 hours later.

His death was the only one recorded in the last two days of the Memorial Day weekend.

The weekend stretched from 6 p.m. Wednesday until midnight Sunday.

Seven of the deaths occurred in two automobile accidents near Portland. Three persons died early Friday and four teenagers were killed late Friday night.

Loss Small In Weekend Fire Calls

Firemen of the city, county and suburban fire departments responded to a total of five fires during the weekend which resulted in little or no damage, the three departments indicated Monday.

In one of three calls received by the county, the residence of Delford Reed Jr., 4028 Denver Avenue, received slight damage on an exterior wall when a fire started near an oil barrel outside the house, about 6:57 p.m., Saturday.

At 10:14 the following morning, firemen went to the home of Cecil Haggreen, 4346 Avalon Street, where an oil stove was flooded. They remained until the fire burned out. There was no damage.

The other call came at 4:35 a.m. today after a rear tire on an automobile operated by John Stanley, Malin, blew out and caught fire, scorching the fender of the car. The incident occurred on South Sixth Street.

Another automobile fire brought county firemen to Old Midland Road about 11:04 p.m. Friday, when the emergency brake band snapped on a car driven by Airman Robert Rand of Kingsley Field, causing the vehicle to catch fire. The fire caused minor damage to the floor board and the underside of the car.

At 5:35 p.m., Saturday, city firemen were summoned to 934 North Ninth Street, where a paraffin caught fire in the kitchen of a house occupied by Homer Brown. There was moderate smoke damage to the building, firemen reported.

City officials promised strict control over more theater demonstrations expected today.

In the midst of the trouble, the city commission held an emergency meeting and set up a biracial committee of eight whites and four Negroes to work toward a peaceful solution to racial problems.

"The law will be enforced," vowed Mayor-Commissioner Byron Winn.

Officials in Tallahassee and Daytona Beach, where theater picketing already is under way, also looked to police control and cooperation by officials of both races to keep down trouble. There was near violence last week in Tallahassee.

In the Negro section of Gainesville, a crowd of close to 1,000 Negroes gathered as word of the downtown trouble spread. The Negroes pounced on a stalled car carrying three white men, wrecked the car and beat one of the men.

It was here, witnesses said, that a Negro pulled out a pistol and shot another Negro, Joseph Simmons, either accidentally while aiming at the car or because Simmons was trying to help the white men. Police said they were investigating.

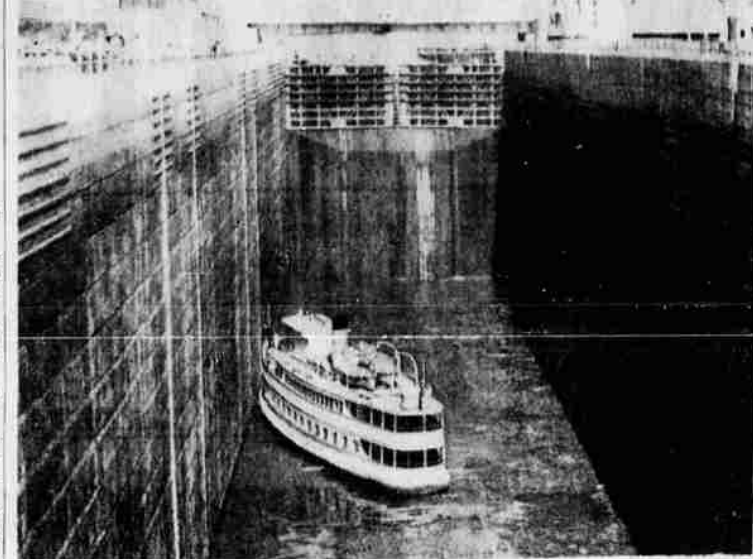

Simmons was treated for a wound in the forearm and released from a hospital.

James, 18, was alone in his car when it crashed into the side of the Southern Pacific's Cascade passenger train in a northwest Eugene residential area about 7:15 p.m. He died in a Eugene hospital about 13 hours later.

His death was the only one recorded in the last two days of the Memorial Day weekend.

The weekend stretched from 6 p.m. Wednesday until midnight Sunday.

Seven of the deaths occurred in two automobile accidents near Portland. Three persons died early Friday and four teenagers were killed late Friday night.

THROUGH THE LOCKS — The S.S. Columbia Queen, a 300-passenger, 110-foot long excursion ship comes through the locks of the McNary Dam on the Columbia River on its way to Pasco where it will dock temporarily. When facilities are complete, the ship will be stationed at Kennewick, Wash. Aside from ferry boats, the Columbia Queen is the first passenger boat of its size to sail the Columbia in many years. — UPI Telephoto

Steel Output Shows Rise; Downturn In June Forecast

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—Despite the Memorial Day holiday, steel production inched higher last week, Steel Magazine reported today.

The national publication estimated output for the week at 2,520,000 tons, about 4,000 tons above the preceding week's. Production this week is slated to be about the same, quite a contrast with a year ago when steelmakers poured only 1.38 million tons of steel.

Ingot operations have been ranging around 85 per cent of unofficial capacity the last few weeks, with the output at the highest level since March, 1962.

Steel said June production probably won't equal the 11.5 million ingot tons produced in May. It may slip 20 per cent below the May level to 9.2 million tons.

Slow Down Expected
A slowing down is predicted because of the prospects for a steel labor settlement and the upcoming vacation season.

Heavy shipments of finished steel are seen for June, according to the weekly. Tonnage will be close to eight million tons that Steel estimates the industry shipped in May, regardless of what happens on the labor front.

If there's a settlement this week or next, users will try to defer some of the tonnage that's scheduled for June delivery but with little success. The magazine explained that most of the steel they have ordered has been melted and is moving through finishing mills. Once in process, it can't be held back.

Steel demand has fallen from the peak it reached in late April, but there has been no letup in consumption. Bookings have dropped only because of a slowdown in inventory buying.

Brisk Activity
There's brisk activity in all major markets — automotive, appliances, machine tools, farm equipment, railroads, freight cars and construction.

Steel demand has fallen from the peak it reached in late April, but there has been no letup in consumption. Bookings have dropped only because of a slowdown in inventory buying.

There's brisk activity in all major markets — automotive, appliances, machine tools, farm equipment, railroads, freight cars and construction.

Steel demand has fallen from the peak it reached in late April, but there has been no letup in consumption. Bookings have dropped only because of a slowdown in inventory buying.

There's brisk activity in all major markets — automotive, appliances, machine tools, farm equipment, railroads, freight cars and construction.

Steel demand has fallen from the peak it reached in late April, but there has been no letup in consumption. Bookings have dropped only because of a slowdown in inventory buying.

There's brisk activity in all major markets — automotive, appliances, machine tools, farm equipment, railroads, freight cars and construction.

Steel demand has fallen from the peak it reached in late April, but there has been no letup in consumption. Bookings have dropped only because of a slowdown in inventory buying.

There's brisk activity in all major markets — automotive, appliances, machine tools, farm equipment, railroads, freight cars and construction.

Steel demand has fallen from the peak it reached in late April, but there has been no letup in consumption. Bookings have dropped only because of a slowdown in inventory buying.

There's brisk activity in all major markets — automotive, appliances, machine tools, farm equipment, railroads, freight cars and construction.

Steel demand has fallen from the peak it reached in late April, but there has been no letup in consumption. Bookings have dropped only because of a slowdown in inventory buying.

There's brisk activity in all major markets — automotive, appliances, machine tools, farm equipment, railroads, freight cars and construction.

Steel demand has fallen from the peak it reached in late April, but there has been no letup in consumption. Bookings have dropped only because of a slowdown in inventory buying.

There's brisk activity in all major markets — automotive, appliances, machine tools, farm equipment, railroads, freight cars and construction.

Steel demand has fallen from the peak it reached in late April, but there has been no letup in consumption. Bookings have dropped only because of a slowdown in inventory buying.

There's brisk activity in all major markets — automotive, appliances, machine tools, farm equipment, railroads, freight cars and construction.

Steel demand has fallen from the peak it reached in late April, but there has been no letup in consumption. Bookings have dropped only because of a slowdown in inventory buying.

There's brisk activity in all major markets — automotive, appliances, machine tools, farm equipment, railroads, freight cars and construction.

Steel demand has fallen from the peak it reached in late April, but there has been no letup in consumption. Bookings have dropped only because of a slowdown in inventory buying.

There's brisk activity in all major markets — automotive, appliances, machine tools, farm equipment, railroads, freight cars and construction.

Steel demand has fallen from the peak it reached in late April, but there has been no letup in consumption. Bookings have dropped only because of a slowdown in inventory buying.

The magazine said that nowhere is steel being consumed at a faster rate than in the auto industry.

If automakers build the 655,000 cars they've scheduled for June, their second quarter output will be the second largest ever for that period, 2,070,000 compared with 2,128,000 in 1955. Their first half production of four million cars will be second only to the 4.26 million built in the first half of 1955.

Steel said on a model year basis, automakers will chalk up an all-time record, 7,270,000 million cars, compared with 7,100,000 in 1955.

Scrap steel prices dipped last week due to lower bids on automotive factory bundles to be generated during June. The magazine's price composite fell $1.34 a gross ton to $27.63.

Steel said on a model year basis, automakers will chalk up an all-time record, 7,270,000 million cars, compared with 7,100,000 in 1955.

Scrap steel prices dipped last week due to lower bids on automotive factory bundles to be generated during June. The magazine's price composite fell $1.34 a gross ton to $27.63.

Steel said on a model year basis, automakers will chalk up an all-time record, 7,270,000 million cars, compared with 7,100,000 in 1955.

Scrap steel prices dipped last week due to lower bids on automotive factory bundles to be generated during June. The magazine's price composite fell $1.34 a gross ton to $27.63.

Steel said on a model year basis, automakers will chalk up an all-time record, 7,270,000 million cars, compared with 7,100,000 in 1955.

Scrap steel prices dipped last week due to lower bids on automotive factory bundles to be generated during June. The magazine's price composite fell $1.34 a gross ton to $27.63.

Steel said on a model year basis, automakers will chalk up an all-time record, 7,270,000 million cars, compared with 7,100,000 in 1955.

Scrap steel prices dipped last week due to lower bids on automotive factory bundles to be generated during June. The magazine's price composite fell $1.34 a gross ton to $27.63.

Steel said on a model year basis, automakers will chalk up an all-time record, 7,270,000 million cars, compared with 7,100,000 in 1955.

Scrap steel prices dipped last week due to lower bids on automotive factory bundles to be generated during June. The magazine's price composite fell $1.34 a gross ton to $27.63.

Steel said on a model year basis, automakers will chalk up an all-time record, 7,270,000 million cars, compared with 7,100,000 in 1955.

Scrap steel prices dipped last week due to lower bids on automotive factory bundles to be generated during June. The magazine's price composite fell $1.34 a gross ton to $27.63.

Steel said on a model year basis, automakers will chalk up an all-time record, 7,270,000 million cars, compared with 7,100,000 in 1955.

Scrap steel prices dipped last week due to lower bids on automotive factory bundles to be generated during June. The magazine's price composite fell $1.34 a gross ton to $27.63.

Steel said on a model year basis, automakers will chalk up an all-time record, 7,270,000 million cars, compared with 7,100,000 in 1955.

Scrap steel prices dipped last week due to lower bids on automotive factory bundles to be generated during June. The magazine's price composite fell $1.34 a gross ton to $27.63.

Steel said on a model year basis, automakers will chalk up an all-time record, 7,270,000 million cars, compared with 7,100,000 in 1955.

Scrap steel prices dipped last week due to lower bids on automotive factory bundles to be generated during June. The magazine's price composite fell $1.34 a gross ton to $27.63.

Steel said on a model year basis, automakers will chalk up an all-time record, 7,270,000 million cars, compared with 7,100,000 in 1955.

Scrap steel prices dipped last week due to lower bids on automotive factory bundles to be generated during June. The magazine's price composite fell $1.34 a gross ton to $27.63.

Steel said on a model year basis, automakers will chalk up an all-time record, 7,270,000 million cars, compared with 7,100,000 in 1955.

Scrap steel prices dipped last week due to lower bids on automotive factory bundles to be generated during June. The magazine's price composite fell $1.34 a gross ton to $27.63.

Steel said on a model year basis, automakers will chalk up an all-time record, 7,270,000 million cars, compared with 7,100,000 in 1955.

Scrap steel prices dipped last week due to lower bids on automotive factory bundles to be generated during June. The magazine's price composite fell $1.34 a gross ton to $27.63.

Steel said on a model year basis, automakers will chalk up an all-time record, 7,270,000 million cars, compared with 7,100,000 in 1955.

Scrap steel prices dipped last week due to lower bids on automotive factory bundles to be generated during June. The magazine's price composite fell $1.34 a gross ton to $27.63.

DON'T BUY A NEW TV
or
PIC TUBE
Until You Check
With
Billy Golden TV
Phone 2-1259
Merrill, Malin, Thurman
Remodel Every Other Town

Specialists IN FRONT END and BRAKE PROBLEMS
FEATURING —
Latest Modern Equipment
• Precision Alignment Bear Equipment
• Wheel Balancing • Steering Service
• Shock Absorber Service • Free Safety Check
BUDGET TERMS — Up to 12 Months to Pay!
East Main Brake & Alignment Service
TU 4-3337 - Next Beacon Mobil Service E. Main & Wontland

HERE'S THE THIRD WAY TO SHAVE!

1. RAZOR BLADES
SCRAPE OFF WHISKERS

2. ORDINARY ELECTRICS
CLIP OFF WHISKERS

3. NORELCO ROTARY BLADES
STROKE OFF WHISKERS

Your Dad...your Grad will thank you for Norelco rotary-blade shaving comfort

NEW!

New Norelco Cordless Speedshaver 20C
Shaves anywhere...in your car, outdoors. Runs on four tiny batteries. Only cordless shaver with mirrored zipper case. Model SC7910.

POPULAR PRICE

New Norelco "Flip-top" Speedshaver 20
Newest model of world's largest-selling shaver, with famous Norelco rotary blades. Economically priced. "Flip-top" cleaning. 110 volts only (AC/DC). Travel case. Model SC7920.

NEW LOW PRICE

New Lady Norelco Shaver 20L
Rotary blades shave smooth with no razor cuts. Perfect for legs and underarms. New low price. Lovely simulated-sapphire design. 110 volts (AC/DC). New soft zippered case. Model SC9010.

See these shavers demonstrated on TV!

Norelco Rotary Blade Shavers
NORTH AMERICAN PHILIPS COMPANY, INC., 100 East 42nd Street, New York 17, New York.
Norelco is known as Philips in Canada and throughout the rest of the free world.

Community Calendar

MONDAY
LADIES OF WOODCRAFT, 8 p.m., meeting, KC Hall. Pie walk to follow.

TUESDAY
PAST NOBLE GRANDS CLUB, Prosperity Rebekah Lodge, 12:30 p.m., potluck picnic, Veterans Memorial Park.

MIDLAND GRANGE HOME EC CLUB, 1 p.m., meeting, Mrs. Mildred Robinson, State Line Road.

A.L.A., Klamath Unit No. 8, 8 p.m., nomination and election of officers, Legion Home.

ARCTIC REFRIGERATION
468 Spring St.
Expert Auto Air Conditioning Service
PHONE TU 4-5115

Get The Facts
About the Proposed
CONSOLIDATION of
CITY
And
COUNTY SCHOOLS
Tuesday -- June 4th
8 P.M.
Ferguson School
Paid Adv. — Emil B. Wells, South Poe Valley