California Okays Pact

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The California Assembly Monday unanimously passed a bill to ratify the Oregon-California Goose Lake interstate compact.

The measure, introduced by Assemblywoman Pauline Davis, D-Portland, was sent to the senate. The Oregon Legislature approved a bill ratifying the compact in its recently completed session.

If approved by both houses of the California Legislature, it must be passed by Congress. The compact provides for joint development of the Goose Lake area on the Oregon-California border by the two states.

Rules For Gramp's Day

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When I was a small boy, I can remember my grandfather telling me that he should never lead away from a king and that the lead of an unsupported king was even worse.

Since I am now a grandfather I realize that was quite some time back and conditions have changed. There is a time and place for anything at the bridge table and there are plenty of occasions for violating grandfather's rule.

If West pays attention to the bidding instead of thinking how bad his hand is he will not lead away from a trump. In that case it will be most unlikely to find one with the ace and the other with the queen of hearts and therefore a heart lead should not get West into any trouble.

Once he has come to this conclusion, West will lead the king of hearts. East will signal with the eight, but it won't really matter since once the king holds West is going to continue the suit.

The President scheduled a 5 p.m. EDT meeting at the White House with 100 executives whose firms operate widely through the South. Kennedy had hoped to get his special civil rights message to Congress today, but administration sources said he had postponed the legislation to await conferences—such as today's—which he and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy feel are vital to success of the program.

One of the proposals under consideration is reported to permit the attorney general to file suits on behalf of Negroes excluded from public schools and other facilities.

House Committee To Pass Federal Tax Extensions

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Ways and Means Committee today was expected to pass a one-year extension of federal tax rates on corporation profits, airline tickets, liquor, automobiles, cigarette and telephone calls.

The committee met in a closed session to consider President Kennedy's request to continue the higher excise and corporate taxes passed during the Korean War.

Unless Congress approves the extension, these taxes will be lowered on July 1. Originally levied as "temporary" taxes, they have been extended without fail every year and apparently will be approved again this year.

These temporary taxes yield more than $4 billion a year in revenue, including nearly $2.4 billion from corporations and almost $1.8 billion from the excise tax. Kennedy wants the liquor and other excise taxes kept at present levels. His tax reduction and revision program includes a reduction of corporate taxes, but the cuts would come over a period of years.

Other congressional news: Information: Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., and 13 other senators offered a "freedom of information" bill to cover the activities of most government agencies. The legislation would require full publication of the agencies' proceedings.

Officials Take Care Of Dead

NEW DELHI, India (UPI)—American and Canadian officials today flew to Pathankot in northern Punjab to make arrangements for handling the bodies of five Americans and two Canadians who were among 29 persons killed in an airline crash Monday.

The Indian Airlines DC-3 crashed about five miles from Pathankot.

The American victims were Prof. James C. Lavery, 40, of the University of Illinois; his wife Jeanne, 39; and their three sons, Stephen, 15, Michael, 15, and Gregory, 12.

Lavery was teaching soil management under an American aid contract at Balwant Rajput College in Agra.

Patricia Mary Hardman, one of the victims at first identified as American, was said today to have been an Irish citizen working for the United Nations special fund in Kabul, Afghanistan.

An investigation was started to determine the cause of the crash.

Tolmie Gets New Duties

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Federal Judge Seybourn Lynne today considered a request by the government for an order restraining Gov. George Wallace from interfering with the admission of three Negroes to the University of Alabama.

Lynne heard arguments from attorneys for the Justice Department and Wallace during a 90-minute hearing Monday. He promised a ruling by Wednesday morning.

The Negroes are scheduled to enter the university, two at the main campus at Tuscaloosa and one at the Huntsville branch, Monday. Wallace has vowed to "personally bar any Negro" attempting to attend the all-white university.

Burke Marshall, chief of the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, said Wallace's proposed action could bring the same "disastrous results" as Oxford, Miss., and Little Rock, Ark., where federal troops had to quell rioting over school integration.

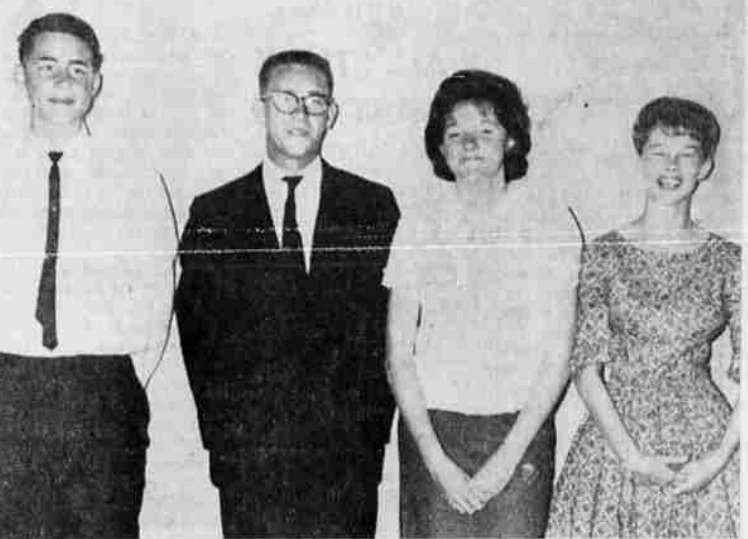

Marshall said the "legal questions" Wallace contends he is attempting to raise should be settled in the courtroom and not on the university campus.

"We do not think he (Wallace) has the right to physical action which brings him in contact with officers of the United States," Marshall said. "Our hope in bringing this suit is that the state of Alabama does not have to undergo these conflicts."

Attorneys for Wallace, who did not attend the hearing, said the issuance of an injunction against Wallace's interference would be premature since such action "may or may not transpire."

Victory Seen For Unions In Agency Shop Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court's approval of the agency shop in all states, but those with right-to-work laws, left labor unions today with a partial victory but still in the dark about one detail.

The court ruled Monday that agency shop clauses, now contained in about 6 per cent of collective bargaining agreements, were permissible under the Taft-Hartley labor law.

The 8-0 decision held the agency shop fits into the part of the statute that permits the unions and employers to negotiate contracts requiring union membership.

In large measure, this section of the law has been deemed to authorize the union shop, under which a man must join the union or lose his job.

Must Pay Dues
The agency shop is a kind of compromise between the union shop and the open shop, where union membership is entirely voluntary. In an agency shop the worker pays dues to help defray union expenses, but need not join.

Justice Byron R. White said both these schemes were all right so far as federal law was concerned. But he said another section of Taft-Hartley, which permits states to outlaw the union shop, also allowed them to outlaw the agency shop. Twenty states have such statutes, called right-to-work laws.

During arguments on Monday's cases, the court was asked to distinguish between the kind of agency shop where the non-member's payments equal the members' dues, and a lesser type where the payments would be smaller and go for collective bargaining only.

It was contended that these so-called "service payments" may not be barred by the state. Sure To Come
White said such a distinction could not be made in the cases then before the court, but another lawsuit with this question is sure to come.

Some right-to-work states already bar payment of any fees whatever to a labor organization as a condition of employment. They are Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Iowa, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Utah and Virginia.

Other right-to-work states are Arizona, Florida, Indiana, Kansas, Nebraska, Nevada, North Dakota, South Dakota, Texas and Wyoming.
