AAU, NCAA Factions Resume War For Meets

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who has had moderate success as mediator of America's warring amateur sports bodies, today faced further appeals by the NCAA and AAU concerning "open" track meets.

The Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) announced on Monday that its 132 member colleges have, in effect, been told not to enter AAU-sanctioned track meets, including the scheduled New York A. C. Games Saturday unless a sanction was obtained from the U.S. Track and Field Federation (USTFF).

George Shiebler, aide to ECAC secretary-treasurer Asa S. Bushnell, acknowledged that permission will be granted by the ECAC for its athletes to compete if: "1. the meet is completely sanctioned by the AAU and 2. the AAU seeks and obtains sanction, authorization and approval from the U.S. Track and Field Federation."

"We positively have not ordered our member colleges to withhold their track and field athletes from the national AAU championships," Bushnell said. "We definitely want our athletes to compete in the AAU championships and all other open meets, but we want them to do so under the procedures established by the USTFF following Gen. MacArthur's March 12 ruling. We hope that many ECAC athletes will be on the national team opposing the Russians, and on the U.S. Olympic team as well."

The federation requires that each open-meet management get the needed approval or sanction from the USTFF.

Won't Seek Sanction

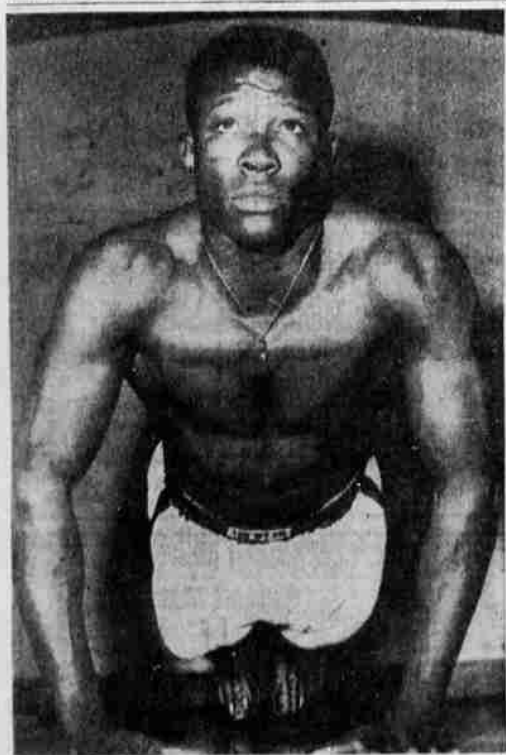

Ray Lump, former New York university basketball star, member of the 1948 Olympic team and current athletic director of the NYAC, said his organization had "no intention" of seeking a federation sanction for Saturday's meet.

Lump said he would ask the NYAC board of governors to appeal to MacArthur for a ruling in the latest NCAA-AAU salvo.

Manhattan College athletic director Ken Norton already has announced withdrawal of his school from the NYAC meet.

The cold war between the NCAA and AAU drew MacArthur into the role of mediator, at the request of President Kennedy, because the battle threatened U. S. chances of producing its best athletes for the 1964 Olympic Games in Japan.

Last March, MacArthur issued a statement, which the AAU claimed upheld the right of its organization as the sole sanctioning body in the U.S. for open track and field competition.

Malin, Fluhrers Get Opening Wins

The Klamath Basin Babe Ruth League opened its action Monday night with Malin taking a 6-1 victory over Chilquin's nine and Fluhrer's outslugging the Elks, 10-7.

These were the opening games of the season.

Bruce Bauck got the victory for Malin with a three-hit pitching performance. He got aid from his mates with a six-hit attack.

The fast-batter with the distinctive delivery struck out 13 batters in the seven innings he worked but gave up two runs on a home run by bonus rookie Rusty Staub.

Malin's Bauck needed only the homer by Aldinger in the first for the win. The Malin club went on to score another single run in the third and three more in the fifth and final frame. The losers got their lone run in the fifth when Miller tripled and scored on a groundout.

The Fluhrer-Elks game was a won by Fluhrer's despite seven errors to only three for the losers. Each team tabulated 11 hits.

Dave Kovich went the distance for the pitching victory and Ted DeVore the third of three Elks hurlers, took the loss.

Kovich won the game despite distributing 12 walks in addition to the 11 hits. The three pitchers from the losing team allowed 14 walks and 11 hits.

Centerfielder Jim Drew led the winners at bat with a triple and two singles in four at bats and for four RBIs. Sam McKeen blasted a three-run homer and single for four RBIs. Jim Phillips also laced a triple and two singles for a pair of RBIs. Lynn had a double.

DeVore led the losing team with a double and two singles for one RBI. Steve Huettl had a triple and single for three runs plated. Starting pitcher Kim Rodley had a double and single.

Fluhrer's won the game with two runs in the bottom of the fifth frame on four straight walks and a hit by Drew.

Malin 201-65-64-1
Chilquin 000-01-13-3
Bauck and Kristenz Hatcher and Miller.

Elks 450-25-17-11-3
Fluhrer's 651-42-18-11-7
Bailey, Jones (2), DeVore (2) and Miller, Kovich and Phillips.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Paul Hoffman, who played with the old Baltimore Bullets, has been named general manager of the Baltimore Zephyrs of the National Basketball Association. Hoffman, a former Purdue star, served as director of Maryland's Physical Fitness Commission for the past year.

Beatty, who finished third in the California Relays at Modesto which Snell won in 3:54.9, said Monday he had decided to enter the mile rather than the two-mile.

In addition, other sub-four-milers in the race were Marine Cary Weisiger, second in the California Relays; Dyrol Burleson, and Jim Grelle.

Beatty, America's top middle-distance runner, will run the mile against New Zealand's Peter Snell Friday night at the Compton relays.

STUMBLE CAUSES INJURY — Chicago White Sox Coach Don Gutteridge (39) bends over a writhing Joe Cunningham after the first baseman tripped on the first base bag, and landed heavily on his right shoulder. Cunningham's injury was diagnosed as a broken collarbone, which will put him out of action for about two months. The White Sox won a costly 4-0 game against the Los Angeles Angels. — UPI Telephoto

Frick Meets Gambling Question In Baseball

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick met today, without flinching, sidestepping or denying "it" could happen to baseball just as it has to other sports.

The commissioner said he is proud of baseball's clean record overall although he is "not gloating over it."

"Who knows?" he said. "We might have some kind of incident tomorrow. I rather doubt it, though, because I have great confidence in our players."

Despite his confidence, Frick feels it still requires "a constant awareness" on the part of everyone connected with baseball, including his office, club owners, managers, players and even clubhouse boys, to maintain the integrity of the game.

Speaking straight from the shoulder on an admittedly touchy subject, Frick revealed that he has called certain players before him to speak with them regarding "rumors" that were brought to his attention.

"But," he added, knocking wood on the top of his mahogany desk, "never once has there ever been an accusation of any ball-player throwing a game or betting against his own team during the 12 years I have been commissioner."

Due to the recent National Football League scandal and the frequent basketball investigations, there has been greater concern about gambling in all sports than ever before.

Frick insists, however, he is "not running scared."

"Don't get me wrong," he said.

"We certainly don't have our heads in the sand, but the NFL case has not caused us to take any step we did not take before."

"What it did do was to serve to alert us. Anytime a thing like this happens it brings you up on your toes."

Frick explained his office operates its own policing system, "although that doesn't mean we're doing detective work into the players' private lives."

"Players are human beings, and like all human beings, they have their weaknesses. My prime interest is not in regulating the lives of players, but in keeping them aware of the possible dangers they face."

"Specifically, I'm speaking of players being in the company of questionable associates. To me, that's far more important than any so-called gambling threat."

"No matter how innocent a player may be, he is immediately subject to public scrutiny if he associates with any type of undesirable element."

"And once the public doubts a player, it also doubts the game."

Weyerhaeuser Major Nine Whips Jeld-Wen, 13-12

Weyerhaeuser whipped Jeld-Wen, 13-12, Monday night in the opening round of the Klamath Falls Little League play. Scores of the other two major league games found Gene's blanking East Side, 3-0, and Bend-Portland taking a 12-0 decision from Hal's.

Smallest Field Set At Belmont

NEW YORK (UPI) — The smallest field in 20 years is shaping up for the $125,000 added Belmont Stakes at Aqueduct Saturday.

Not since Count Fleet's runaway 23-length victory over two rivals in the 1943 Belmont has so small a field loomed for the mile and one-quarter event—third leg and most enduring of Thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown series for 3-year-olds.

Rex C. Ellsworth's Candy Spots, winner of eight of nine career starts, including the Preakness, is the solid choice for the 96th running of the event. Only Darby Dan Farm's Chateaugay, the Kentucky Derby winner, Wheatley Stable's Insurrection and George D. Widener's Top Gallant are expected to oppose Candy Spots.

Saturday will mark the first time the Belmont Stakes will be held at Aqueduct. The Belmont track has been closed down for repairs.

The winners were paced by Taylor who slammed three doubles for four RBIs. Derrah was the only other Logger with two hits and he had a double and single.

Wendt led the losers at bat with three hits. He had a double and two singles for three RBIs. Natale had a pair of singles for the losers.

The minor leagues of the City Little League swing into action tonight with their opening.

Chisox Gain Tie With Baltimore

By FRED DOWN

UPI Sports Writer

Giving 'em the slip is still Dick Farrell's No. 1 skill — only now they're talking about a pitch and not his ability to elude private eyes.

A strapping, 29-year-old fireballer from Boston, Farrell won fame with the Philadelphia Phillies as one of the "Dalton Boys"—three fun-loving pitchers who thought training rules were for Vassar girls.

After 5 1/2 years the Phillies traded Farrell to the Los Angeles Dodgers, from whom the Houston Colts purchased him for $125,000 in the National League's famous expansion draft on Oct. 10, 1961. At Houston, general manager Paul Richards educated Dick in a new form of the "slip"—a Richards-invented curveball which has rounded out Farrell's pitching equipment and made him one of the best right-handers in baseball.

Farrell had only a 10-20 record with the Colts last season but Richards and manager Harry Craft said he pitched like "a 25-game winner" and rated him among the best pitchers in baseball.

Gives A Sample

Farrell gave his former Dodger teammates a sample of his new-found art of the "slip" Monday night when he pitched a no-hitter for 7 1/3 innings and wound up with a two-hit, 2-1 triumph over Los Angeles. Farrell didn't allow the Dodgers' first hit until Dick Tracewski singled in the eighth, and lost his shutout in the ninth when Junior Gilliam tripled and scored on Tommy Davis' sacrifice fly.

Rookie Rusty Staub's first big league homer, with Carl Warwick on base in the fourth inning, gave Farrell the edge he needed to raise his season record to 5-4 and deal last year's 25-game winner Don Drysdale his sixth loss against the same number of victories.

The Chicago White Sox, moved into a second-place tie with Baltimore in the American League when they beat the Los Angeles Angels, 4-0, and the Kansas City Athletics downed the Minnesota Twins, 4-1, in the only other major league games of the day. The White Sox, however, lost the services of first-baseman Joe Cunningham for an estimated eight weeks when he suffered a broken collar bone.

Farrell, 6-4 and 225 pounds, worked exclusively as a relief pitcher for the Phillies and didn't pitch a complete game until his 20th game in the majors. The other members of the Phillies' famed "Dalton Boys" were Jack Meyer and Jim Owens.

Drysdale Fans Thirteen

Drysdale, who had a 25-9 record last season, struck out 13 Colts and walked only one. Farrell had five strikeouts and three walks. The "slip pitch" is similar to a change of pace although it has some "break" to it in addition to being a slow ball thrown with the sweeping motion of a fast ball.

Eddie Fisher pitched a four-hitter for the White Sox behind a nine-hit attack that included two hits each by Pete Ward and Sherm Lollar. Bob Turley yielded all the White Sox runs in five innings and suffered his fifth loss against one win. Cunningham tripped over first base in the fifth inning and the injury was diagnosed by Dr. Robert Kerlan as a broken collar bone.

Dave Wickersham's four-hitter enabled the Athletics to spoil Camilo Pascual's bid for the 100th win of his career. A homer by Doc Edwards and a single by Ed Charles were the key hits of the Athletics' seven-hit attack.

Athletics Give Up Field Fight

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The Kansas City Athletics gave up their fight Monday for a $1-a-year lease on Municipal Stadium and paid $20,000 in back rent.

The A's signed a $1-a-year contract, with the old city administration just before it left office, but the new city administration refused to honor it. A's owner Charles O. Finley wanted the low rate lease as repayment for an estimated $400,000 he spent to improve the stadium.

Finley said he was advised by his attorneys that the old contract was legal and valid.

"However," he said, "it is my opinion that all this bickering is not good for baseball in Kansas City and baseball in general."
