

KU Students Win Awards In Business

Fifteen Klamath Union High School Business Education students qualified for superior certificates after achieving outstanding scores in the nationally recognized National Business Entrance Tests given at the high school in May.

This is the ninth year that the tests have been given to students at KU who are preparing for the labor market. The tests are given through the encouragement and financial aid of the Klamath Falls Chapter of the National Office of Management Association.

They are given in the areas of bookkeeping, general clerical, machine calculation, stenography and typewriting. The problems are those that a beginning worker might encounter in his first office job.

To qualify in one or more of the above areas, the prospective worker must also pass a business fundamentals and general information test.

The top students and their areas of skill were: Nichole Burgoyne, machine calculation; Martha Hordley, machine calculation; Barbara Hamilton, general clerical; Dorothy King, machine calculation; Daberah Kouts, machine calculation; Gerald Kramer, machine calculation; Dune Moon, machine calculation; Sharon Rowland, machine calculation; Judith Sandberg, machine calculation; Donna Caldwell, machine calculation; Driene Gentry, general clerical; and Peggy Kellogg, Lynette Kunz, Karen Leamy, and Larry Worlein, machine calculation.

To take a 6,500-ton tanker through the Suez Canal costs about $6,200; to take the same tanker through the Panama Canal costs about $5,650.

Weather Group Maintains Global Observance Setup

During the month of June, Detachment 2 of the 25th Weather Squadron at Kingsley Field will celebrate the 15th anniversary of the Military Air Transport Service (MATS), which was formed June 1, 1948, from a consolidation of Navy and Air Force transport systems.

Under the command of Maj. William E. Harrell, Detachment 2 provides weather information for the 408 Fighter Group at Kingsley Field. It is but one of the many weather stations under the command of the Air Weather Service (AWS), offering one of the many technical services provided by MATS.

AWS consists of 11,500 highly trained people who maintain a global network of weather observing and forecasting stations, collecting part of the data by aircraft flights and processing portions of it with complex electronic computers.
