Suit Overcall Has A Purpose

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One of the most important differences between modern bidding and old-fashioned bidding is the concept of the suit overcall.

Even ten years ago it was customary to consider the simple overcall as being a hand with a fair amount of playing strength, but little or no game going possibilities.

Thus when today's hand was played at the Cavendish Club back in 1906 the bidding went as shown in the box.

It never occurred to West to raise his partner's spade bid. East had merely overcalled and West did not want to invite game.

In fact, West was highly critical of East and pointed out that if East had doubled out heart to show strength West would have bid and East and West would have wound up making an easy spade game.

With modern bidding methods, West would have raised his partner's overcall to two. This immediate raise is exactly the same as the raise of an opening spade bid. It does not really invite game, but allows for the possibility that the overcall might have been made with a pretty good hand.

Of course, once West raises to two spades East can afford to go right to game. His good hand has been further improved by knowledge that his king of hearts is likely to be well placed.

Learn to be an expert at suit overcall with tips found in Jacoby's new 64-page book "Win at Bridge." Just send your name, address, and 50 cents to: Oswald Jacoby Reader Service, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 19, N.Y.

Q—The bidding has been:
East South West North
3 Pass Pass 4
Pass
You, South, hold:
4 4 K J 7 2 A Q 8 6 K 7 4 3
What do you do?
A—Bid five clubs. He may make six or he may only make four, but the odds are in favor of the raise to five.

TODAY'S QUESTION
You hold the same hand, but East happens to open with three spades. What do you do in this case?

Colin Kelly Graduated From U.S. Academy

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — Colin P. Kelly III, proud bearer of a name made famous during the early days of World War II, graduated from the U.S. Military Academy today without the help of that famed name.

"I wanted to prove that I could do it on my own, and if I wasn't qualified to enter the academy, I didn't believe it would be right to take the place of someone who was qualified," he said.

Academy officials explained that Kelly, whose father Capt. Colin P. Kelly was the first West Pointer to be killed in the Second World War, could have entered the academy without taking a competitive examination.

The story goes back to Dec. 18, 1941, when the then President Franklin D. Roosevelt penned a letter to the President (whoever he might be in 1951) asking for the appointment of young Kelly to the academy.

At that time, Roosevelt said he did so on behalf of "this youth as a token of the nation's appreciation of the heroic services of his father."

"Corky" Kelly was appreciative of the honor, but he didn't want it that way, so he took entrance exams and passed.

Today he was presented his gold bars and became 2nd Lt. The story goes back to Dec. 18, 1941, when the then President

Guidelines Set

PORTLAND (UPI)—Officials of the Oregon Association of Hospitals have announced that a set of guiding principles for most hospitals in the state will be put into effect June 15.

The OAH said purpose of the move was to assure high quality care and provide a standard for computing hospital bills. It said the statement of principles provided a standard system of charging for services, but did not set uniform rates.

Sister Francis Ignatius, president of the Portland Council, said hospital rates vary according to location, wage costs, size and other factors.
