

American Officials Fearful Of Diem's Handling Of Catholic, Buddhists Religious Argument

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI) — Many American officials here fear that President Ngo Dinh Diem's handling of the serious dispute with South Viet Nam's Buddhist majority shows his regime may lack the political capacity to deal with its population in a guerrilla war.

The dispute, simmering for years, finally erupted into violence recently when government troops and armored cars opened fire against thousands of Buddhist demonstrators in the northern town of Hue against alleged religious discrimination. Nine persons were killed.

Buddhists accuse Diem of favoring Roman Catholics. They say his government is Catholic-dominated.

The president and all members of his family are Catholics. Of his brothers, Ngo Dinh Thuc, is archbishop of Hue.

But in refusing to surrender on major issues he has put himself at loggerheads with the Buddhist leaders and done the government serious long-range political damage, many American officials indicate.

The dispute now seems to be developing into a rankling sore which Americans fear may lead to widespread passive resistance in the countryside against government programs, especially the vital strategic hamlets operation aimed at isolating the peasants from the guerrillas.

Americans here have always been disturbed by the fact that although the Buddhists in South Viet Nam are in a 70 per cent majority, their relations with the government have been unfriendly for years.

Americans were incredulous at the government's handling of the demonstration in Hue to begin with and then shocked by Diem's refusal to soothe outraged feelings by publicly apologizing.

Ask Religious Equality

The most important of the Buddhist demands were those calling for an end to religious inequality, punishment of government officials responsible and publicly-paid compensation for the families of those killed.

Diem received them politely but told them they were "damn fools" for demanding religious equality, since the Vietnamese constitution guarantees it. He claimed Communist agents had killed the Buddhists in Hue. He praised government officials for "keeping order."

He also told the Buddhists the government would "take care of" the bereaved families. But he refused to pay public compensation, an important distinction in Viet Nam.

Since the meeting with Diem thousands of yellow-robed Buddhist priests and nuns have demonstrated again to show their dissatisfaction. The police have tolerated them, up to now.

Plan More Demonstrations

The Buddhists plan more public memorial services, processions and hunger strikes for the Hue dead.

The government's repeated statements that Communist agents killed the Hue demonstrators, in the face of clear evidence its own troops did the shooting, also puts the regime in a damaging position of public insincerity. It hands the Communists a tailor-made propaganda issue which they are now exploiting, well-informed Americans say.

They say millions of peasants in this country look on the guerrilla war as a struggle between Diem's family and the Communists, in which they have little or nothing to gain either way.

HYDROGEN COSTS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — As much as $1 million may be cut from the cost of typical large plants producing hydrogen gas, the lightest and one of the commonest and most necessary of chemical elements.

A new catalyst converts carbon monoxide so efficiently that costly multiple purification stages can be eliminated from hydrogen facilities that usually cost about $4 million for an annual capacity of eight to nine billion cubic feet, say Chemetron Corp. specialists.

Gene Favell Addresses Group Of Bly Graduates

BLY—The music of Sir Edward Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance" filled the Bly High School auditorium on June 2 as 11 graduates marched to the stage for the commencement exercises.

Gene Favell, Pacific Northwest District chairman of boys and girls work for Kiwanis International, gave the commencement address entitled "A Step in the Right Direction," in which he told of the challenges and responsibilities ahead for the graduates.

The invocation and benediction were given by Rev. George Simon, pastor of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church.

Salutatorian Connie Hall, told of the seniors' past, present, and plans for the future, and valedictorian Jim Watts gave the traditional farewell.

The processional and recessional were played by Mrs. Farnworth on the piano. The girls chorus, under the direction of Ruth Obenchain, sang "Trees," "When Over Sunlit Paths," "Great Somebody," "With the Wind and the Rain," "All the Things You Are," and "Beautiful Ohio."

Harold Davis presented the diplomas to Marilyn Barkley, Sheila Diann Bourn Clemens, Merle Alfred Clemens, John Michael Crawford, Connie Lee Hall, Patricia Diane Melness, Elaine Ruth Meyers, Theba Joyce Pruitt, Michael Wayne Quadros, Lee Raymond Ughum, and James Charles Watts.

The stage was decorated with floral arrangements in the class colors of pink and lavender. The class of 1963 chose as its motto, "God tries us with a little to see what we would do with a lot."

Principal William Pohl presented the awards. The citizenship award was received by Mike Crawford and honorable mention for 179 days of perfect attendance went to Gwen Womack, Elaine Meyer, Ronald Larsen, Valeria Little, Karen Little, Joyce Ashford, Raymond Simon, Vernon Nelson, Judith Ashford.

FIRE ON FARMS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farm damage from fires last year caused a record loss of $175 million, up 7 per cent from the previous year. A government survey showed that the average rural fire is six times as costly as an urban blaze.
