

Klamath Falls Receives Pedestrian Safety Award From Auto Association

The city of Klamath Falls has been awarded a pedestrian safety citation by the American Automobile Association for going through 1962 without a pedestrian fatality, according to the Oregon State Motor Association.

The award is one of 15 received by Oregon cities for their efforts in behalf of pedestrian safety, as reported to the 24th annual Pedestrian Safety contest, sponsored by the AAA.

Klamath Falls had no pedestrian fatalities in 1962 or 1961 compared to two in 1960 and one in 1959. There were 12 pedestrians injured in traffic in 1962, a slight increase from the 1961 record of nine injuries, but there were 19 persons injured in 1960 and 10 in 1959.

The citation will be presented to Mayor Robert E. Veatch in the near future.

"Klamath Falls is to be commended for its active program of pedestrian accident prevention and for the fine record for the year 1962," the Oregon AAA Club said in announcing the award.

"Since 1957, when the AAA pedestrian contest program was launched, pedestrian fatalities have dropped 49 per cent, but during the same period, motor vehicle registrations have increased 166 per cent, population grew 45 per cent and motor vehicle travel jumped 163 per cent. And, in the face of this exposure to accidents, non-pedestrian traffic fatalities leaped 37 per cent."

The AAA analysis of pedestrian accidents during 1962 showed that three out of five persons killed when walking were struck during the hours of darkness. Two out of every three pedestrians killed in traffic violated a traffic law or committed an obviously unsafe act. Of significance, said the AAA, nine out of ten adult pedestrians killed had never been licensed to drive.

"This shows the importance of the pedestrian learning to understand the hazards of motor vehicle operation in order to better protect himself while walking in traffic," the motor association said.

Work Party Planned For Camp

LAKEVIEW — Forest Service, Extension Service, and 4-H Leaders' Association personnel made an official visit to Camp Cottonwood last week to look over the camp in anticipation for summer activity.

Included in the group were Bill Augustine, Don Allen, and Dick Haney of the forest service; Barbara Glodt and John Kiesow of the extension service, and Jim Ogle, president of the leaders' association.

An all-day work party is planned for Saturday, June 22, to clean up the camp, make repairs, and erect tents for the 1963 program. Kiesow reports that 4-H members will be the first users this year and are responsible for setting up the camp. All interested parents, older 4-H members, and leaders are asked to assist on the work day. There is still room for 4-H campers, but it is requested that registrations be made immediately.

The 4-H camp session is scheduled for July 14-20, followed by the Girl Scouts and the LDS Church.

Future Told For Plywood

GEARHART (UPI)—Production of 10 billion board feet of plywood this year was forecast Tuesday by John H. Martinson, president of the Douglas Fir Plywood Association.

Martinson, speaking at the DFWA convention here, also predicted that by the year 2,000 production will reach 132 billion square feet.

Martinson is manager of the Anacortes, Wash., Veneer Co.

Public Works Money Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Oregon Democrats went before appropriations subcommittees at both ends of the capital Tuesday to press for approval of budget requests for public works projects in their state.

Sens. Wayne Morse and Maurice B. Neuberger recommended to the Senate Public Works subcommittee that spending proposed in President Kennedy's budget be increased by about $8 million.

Similar requests that the budget be adjusted upward to meet the full construction capabilities of the Army Engineers were made in the House by Reps. Edith Green, Robert Duncan and Al Ullman.

Morse, in a prepared statement, urged that a budget request for $37 million for John Day dam be upped to $71 million because of "long delays that ensued in past years."

He also urged that $545,000 be added to the budget for the Coos and Millicoma Rivers Project to help provide cheap transportation for logs in the Coos Bay area.

Search Started To Find Sugar

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department Tuesday started searching for persons holding abnormally large stocks of sugar.

The department said it had asked cane sugar refiners, beet sugar processors, and importers of refined cane sugar to report by June 30 the names and addresses of all recipients to whom they shipped a carload or more of sugar during April 1-May 31, and the quantities shipped.

The department said the increase in sugar stocks of more than 500,000 tons since the beginning of the year was an important factor in the rise of sugar prices.

Home Guard

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—Police were ordered Tuesday to keep special watch on the home of integration leader Fred L. Shuttlesworth because a telephone caller threatened to blow up his home and family.

The Negro clergyman is the head of the Alabama Christian Movement and was one of the leaders in the integration demonstrations recently in Birmingham, Ala.

His family told police he recently left Birmingham and went to New Orleans.

OSU President Criticizes Salary Request Slash

CORVALLIS (UPI)—Dr. Arthur Flemming, president of the University of Oregon, said Tuesday that he believed the legislature had good business to discourage it.

put federal research money in jeopardy by reducing higher education salary requests.

Flemming said federal research "will not even permit us to maintain money had been increasing of late. This research money comes Oregon at its present level." He to us because of superior professional "the attitude of the legislators in the system, and it will tend to retard education rather than to permit us to attract and advance."

The college officials attended the federal research the State Board of Higher Education contribution to higher education meeting.

He said the federal research the State Board of Higher Education, amounting to about $16 million William Walsh of Coos Bay, during the current biennium com-board chairman, said the legislature to $8 million for 1959-61, ture faced its biggest financial
