Get Going -- Return Borrowed Items

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I noticed with interest your proclamation of "Return Borrowed Book Day." I'll bet hundreds of books were returned to their owners as a result of that wonderful column. And now, Ann, will you please proclaim a day for the return of borrowed dishes, bowls and pans? So many well-meaning people bring food to friends and relatives and that's the last they ever see of their containers.

My muffin tin is gone and I don't know who has it. My two choice mixing bowls are floating around somewhere, not to mention my china casserole. I hate to phone friends and ask if they have these items because it seems so chintzy. So please, Ann, proclaim a day for the return of dishes, bowls and pans. Housewives everywhere will call you blessed.

—MA HUBBARD
Dear Ma Hubbard: Paging all housewives. Today is the day to check the cupboards for old dishes, bowls, pans, casseroles and containers of all sizes and shapes. Many women are reluctant to return these items — empty — so they procrastinate, and wind up keeping them forever. Take it from me, Girls, the owners would rather have them empty than not at all . . . so get going.

Dear Ann Landers: Last week our 17-year-old son brought home a boy friend and asked if he could stay with us until he graduates from high school next year.

The lad is an A student, well behaved, attends church every Sunday and never runs around. Any set of respectable parents would be proud of a son like this. His parents, unfortunately, are not decent people. The school counselor advised the boy to move out of the house. He had no place to go so my son brought him here.

Our problem is that we are just barely making it financially. My 90-year-old father lives with us, and we have three other children. Is there any way we can make the boy's parents pay for his keep? They have not contacted him since he left home three weeks ago although they know where he is. Please advise us.

WANT TO HELP
Dear Want To Help: The school authorities should look into your community's foster home plan. Perhaps you can be paid by the county or the state if the boy's parents are not able to do so.

If for some reason you cannot be paid please please keep him anyway. Few people have the privilege of performing a service so valuable. You could be his guardian angels.

Dear Ann Landers: I was 12 years old when my parents explained to me that my real mother had died when I was an infant and that my mother was actually my step-mother. This came as a surprise but not a shock.

My step-mother is a sensitive woman so I have never brought up the subject since and neither has she.

My own children are now 10 and 11 years of age and I have never told them. Young children sometimes say the wrong thing and I'd feel terrible if they embarrassed their grandmother in any way.

We do not live in the same city and the children see their grandmother infrequently. Do you think they should be told? Or is it best to leave sleeping dogs lie?—UNDECIDED

Dear Undecided: There are no dogs around—just facts. And I see no reason why the children should not be told. They will probably show surprisingly little interest in the subject since they themselves are not involved. You'll wonder why you made such a big deal of it.

Confidential to HEARTSICK: Time wounds all heels and he'll get his. Don't spend another minute thinking about how to get even. It's bootless and destructive.

Couple Return From England

CHILQUIN—Former Klamath Agency residents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Muskrat of Wapato, Wash., are returning this week from England where they have been guests at a memorial service held for their son, Robert, and other young men who lost their lives while based on the English field during World War II.

Robert was a graduate of Chilquin High School where he won the PTA cup for outstanding senior.

Following his death, a number of other PTA cup winners donated money for another school trophy, named the Robert Muskrat Trophy, to be given each year to the outstanding lower classman. Roger Nicholson won the Muskrat for this year at Chilquin High School.
