

Former Football Star Happy To Let Daughters Claim Spot

By HAL WOOD
UPI Sports Writer
PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Frankie Albert, at one time the scrappiest little quarterback ever to kick a National Football League foe in the face, lives the life of a gentleman these days deep in Del Monte Forest.

"And I have no desire to get back into football," says Frankie. "I'm more proud of the achievements of my three daughters than of anything I ever did."

Albert, still a young man in his mid-forties, is a real estate salesman for Del Monte Properties, with a good business. He lives in a beautiful new home overlooking the blue Pacific—but with a swimming pool in his front yard.

Daughters And Tennis.
His daughter Janie, 17, is the national junior tennis champion; daughter Nancy is a student at Stanford and 19-year-old daughter Terry is heading for greatness, too, on the tennis court.

Albert played tennis for awhile—or until his daughter started whipping him. Then he went back to his left-handed golf, where he has a 10 handicap and plays well enough to win a buck or two on the golf course.

"If I had it to do over again," he says, "I think I would have stayed in the football game a little longer as a player. I quit when I was only 32 years old. But such men as V. A. Tittle and others still go strong when they are just the 35 mark."

No Bench-Sitter
A proud competitor, Albert saw that Tittle was being used more and more at quarterback when they were both with the San Francisco Forty Niners and he couldn't stand the thought of sitting on the bench. So he "retired"—only to show up a year later playing in the Canadian League.

He followed that by becoming coach of the Forty Niners.

"But I was too emotional a guy to coach," he says. "I'd love to think I could handle the emotional phases of coaching. I love the association with people, the players, the press, etc. But it's too up-and-down a business."

Family Abused
Albert couldn't stand the abuse his family took when he lost a game as a coach.

"But it got where we couldn't even vacation in this country," he says. "One year we had to go to the Caribbean and another year to Acapulco for our vacations so we could get away from talking football."

"If I were a bachelor, knowing my love for the game, I'd probably be in it yet. I've found most of my success and friends in the game. But it is a more normal life to be in some other business."

No Tennis
Gary Woodring, Parks and Recreation superintendent, announced today that, contrary to a Sunday report, there will be no tennis instructions given at Ward Park.

8 Capture Meet Berths

ROSEBURG (UPI)—Eight Oregon junior tennis players won trips to the National Junior Chamber of Commerce tournament at the Oregon State Jaycee tournament here Sunday.

They are Dave Shuford and Craig Cooley, Salem; Kathy Smith, Ken Myers, Mary Gardner, and Jeanne Salade, all of Medford, and Sherry Sevall and Bob McKee, Roseburg.

Shuford won the junior men's title with a 6-1, 6-0 decision over Mike Naumes, Medford. Cooley defeated Ted Brown, Albany, 6-2, 1-6, 6-3 for the boys' title.

Miss Smith swept past Beth Kenward of Portland, 6-1, 6-0, to take the junior women's title and Miss Sevall topped Jill Izett, Springfield, for the girls' championship, 6-3, 6-4.

In novice competition, McKee went three sets before beating Nick Rasmussen, Medford, for the junior men's title; Myers fought an uphill battle to beat Mike McKay, Albany, in the boys' division, 6-6, 7-5, 6-3; Miss Gardner defeated Kathy Murch, Beaverton, 6-1, 6-0 for the girls' title, and Miss Salade defeated Pat Byrne, Springfield, 6-3, 7-5 in the junior women's class.

The national tournament will be held at Provo, Utah, July 14-20.

Kingsley, Olson's, Eccles, Western Oil Score SSLL Wins

Kingsley, Olson's, Western Oil and Eccles scored victories in action in the South Suburban Little League on the weekend.

Kingsley continued its league leadership with a 12 to three victory over Hal's in a game marked by three homers for the victors. Rusty Klem rapped out a two-run homer in the first inning, Cecil Davis clouted a two-run round-tripper in the third and Chris Carlson accounted for three runs with a circuit blow in the third. It was Carlson's sixth homer of the season.

Meantime, Terry Herbert went all the way for the losers, striking out 12 men. Carlson was winning hurler for Kingsley, although aided by Gary Smelcer.

Two homers and three doubles sparked a 13-hit attack for Olson's that earned them a 19 to three triumph over the Teamsters. Scott Adrian and Dave Gibbons both hit for the circuit for Olson's, while Hank Barleen, Dean Fischer and Scott Adrian had doubles for the victors.

Rudy Carlson clouted a double for Teamsters only extra—base blow. Three hurlers saw action for the losers. Val Carlson, Steve Goodman in the second and Dennis Coon in the fourth. Dave Gibbons went all the way for the victors.

In a well-played, tight battle, Western Oil topped Big Y Market four to one with each club getting five hits.

The steady signal caller accounted for 162 yards in the air, fired two touchdown tosses to Washington State and Hugh Campbell and found time to reel off several clutch runs when yardage was needed.

Three of the five hits for the winners were doubles, clouted by Bob Kuhn, Bob Ernst and Mike Beach. Bud Dickson and David Dalton hit doubles for the losers.

Bob Ernst pitched all six innings for the victors, and Allen Pranghofer and Rod Alfred shared hurling duties for the losers.

Eccles continued its climbing pace in the league by slamming out a 14 to 0 shutout win over DARCO as Mike Schuler gave the losers only three hits. Tim Hart, Danny Hart and Dean Carr shared mound chores for the losers in that order. Dave Hummel highlighted Eccles' nine-hit attack with a double, the only extra-base clout of the game.

It was the second consecutive shutout Cloninger has hurled, having blanked Houston 4-0 in his previous start to run his string of scoreless innings to 19. And it was his third consecutive victory to make his record 4-4 for the season thus far.

Only 27 men officially went to the plate against Cloninger although he faced 28, hitting Jim Gilliam with a pitched ball in the seventh inning. Gilliam in the first inning also singled off Cloninger and Ron Fairly got the other hit, a single in the eighth, but both were erased by double plays.

The Braves went to work early on Dodger starter Nick Willhite with Hank Aaron leading the 11-hit attack with a homer in the first inning, his 22nd of the season.

Willhite also gave up a third inning homer to Roy McMillan and Cloninger singled in Gene Oliver in the sixth inning after the first baseman had doubled and advanced to third on a grounder.

The Braves picked up four runs, two of them unearned, off reliever Bob Miller to eliminate any possibility of the Dodgers catching up in the late innings.

Sunday's crowd of 29,953 boosted the Los Angeles Dodgers home attendance to 1,013,818 to make them the first club to reach the million mark in attendance for the sixth straight season.

Philadelphia Boxing Reporter Proves To Be Rough Slugger

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (UPI)—Man bites dog! Rider carries horse! And now — Jack (Bobo) McKinney, boxing writer of the Philadelphia Daily News, turns professional fighter.

Referring to this nearly incredible switch today promoter Don Elbaum of Painesville declared: "And he is one fellow who can put his fists where his mouth is."

Elbaum, who promotes professional shows in the 600-seat St. Mary's Gymnasium in Painesville, was talking about writer-fighter McKinney and not about Cassius Clay.

Stocky, muscular, dark-haired McKinney needed only one minute of the first round to knock out middleweight Alvin Green of Akron, Ohio, in a scheduled four-rounder Saturday night in St. Mary's Gym. Left hooks to the chin dropped Green twice.

Jolting Jack, who had some amateuristic experience before squaring off against a typewriter, turned professional Saturday night at the age of 33. He weighed 167 pounds to Green's 165.

"And I would say," continued Elbaum, "McKinney should have at least 10 good fighting years left—on the basis of the Archie Moore and Sugar Ray Robinson careers."

Was Bobo properly remunerated for his initial effort as a money-maker?

"Huh? Oh! Yes, I paid him $40," said Elbaum. "It was only a four-rounder he was in, you know. It was not the main event—a 10-rounder. But I will pay him more next time. He is a very exciting fighter to watch—an all-out slugger. And I want him back again."

While covering various fight camps, McKinney has worked out with such notables as heavy-ton and middleweight contender George Benton, Elbaum concluded.

SPOKANE (UPI)—The 23rd annual Inland Empire Tennis Tournament wound up Saturday in spectacular fashion as the men's doubles team of Jimmy Jackson, Portland, and Steve Brooks, Eugene, Ore., struggled over two hours to defeat Marshall Reynolds, Spokane, and Vernon Ball, Wenatchee, 6-3, 7-9, 6-4, 6-4.

In the men's singles title match Jerry Cronwell, Long Beach, Calif., upset defending champion Jackson, 6-0, 7-5, 6-4.
