

Don't Be A Cook For Boy Friend

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you will answer this in your usual breezy, up-to-the-minute style. Please don't turn narrow-minded on me or I'll just die. I am taking a summer course at UCLA. I have rented a comfortable room near campus with a nice family. I can have my meals with the family but it would cost $20 a month extra. I'm trying to get by on as little possible and this is why I am writing.

A very nice fellow who is in my sociology class has a nice apartment with a cute kitchenette. This boy has offered to buy the groceries and I can have all my meals with him if I will do the cooking.

I am a good cook and would like to take him up on his offer if you say it is O.K. Also it would give me a chance to experiment with some new recipes. What do you say?—SUNNY

Dear Sunny: Have your meals with the family, Toots. And if you are so eager to experiment with new recipes ask the woman if you can prepare some of the meals in her kitchen. She'll probably be delighted.

You are putting a pretty low price on your services if you are willing to hire yourself out as a cook and bottle-washer for $5 a week. (P.S. I apologize if this advice isn't in keeping with my usual breezy, up-to-the-minute style.)

Dear Ann Landers: I have a problem which may not seem important to others but it has caused me no end of unhappiness.

My husband is a garage mechanic. He is one of the finest men who ever walked in shoe leather. I wouldn't trade him for Richard Burton. But his hands and nails never look clean. There is always a trace of grease around his knuckles and under his fingernails.

Whenever we are with friends or relatives I have the uncomfortable feeling that they are noticing this. No one has ever said anything but it bothers me.

I told him about my feelings a few months ago. It was the first and only time I ever brought it up in the 10 years we've been married. He says there is nothing wrong with honest labor and he doesn't care if his hands label him as a working man because that's what he is.

If I am foolish please tell me—NOT COMFORTABLE

Dear Not Comfortable: Honest labor is nothing to be ashamed of, but a man's hands need not label him.

Excellent soaps which will remove every bit of grease and grime are available. A man who will not take the time to use these special soaps must accept the label of "careless" because that's what he is.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's mother makes her home with us. She is a pleasant person but in the past year she has failed badly and the doctor says she is suffering from hardening of the arteries. Unfortunately this is affecting her mind.

Our children who are 8 and 11 years of age have told us that grandma doesn't keep her promises and she then denies every having made them.

My husband doesn't feel we should burden the children with the facts because they are too young to understand. Also, he fears they may say something which might hurt her feelings. How should I deal with this? Can you help—NOT COPING

Dear Not: Facts about mental illness should be part of the education of all children. Ignorance is the real burden—not facts. If your children are properly informed they will have compassion for their ailing grandmother and will treat her with kindness and understanding.

Confidential to In Love Again: It hardly pays for you to leave Reno. Make this marriage work. You will not do better "next time"—and from every indication you will probably do worse.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
