

Committee For Barry Goldwater Stages Large-Scale Rehearsal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The national Draft Goldwater Committee staged a dress rehearsal for the 1964 Republican convention Thursday night with dancing, placards, small-scale demonstrations and chants of "We want Barry."

The job ahead is to convince Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona that he has grass roots support convertible into delegate strength to win the GOP presidential nomination at San Francisco next July.

Goldwater admirers from many states assembled in the National Guard Armory to cheer every mention of their conservative hero and to give Bronx cheers to President Kennedy and other New Frontier officials.

Barry Not Present

When the meeting began, police estimated the crowd at more than 7,000. Peter O'Donnell, Texas Republican chairman and head of the draft movement, later told the audience that the official estimate had been increased to 9,000.

Goldwater, who is not an announced candidate, was observing the holiday in Prescott, Ariz.

But the principal speaker, Sen. John Tower of Texas, told the crowd that, if Goldwater could see the rally, there would be no doubt about his decision to run for the presidency.

Tower, O'Donnell and F. Clifton White, director of the draft committee, all sought to answer critics of the Goldwater campaign. These critics complain that the campaign depends too much on the South, that it would give away big blocs of electoral votes in populous eastern states and that it would peak too soon.

Tower said only Goldwater was a "truly national candidate" in contrast to a regional candidate or a "pressure group" candidate.

Counts All States

White said the Goldwater strategy did not call for writing off any state, but he showed slides indicating that Goldwater could win 301 electoral votes, 31 more than needed, without such states as New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Michigan and California.

The biggest cheer came when White showed a slide indicating a Goldwater sweep of the South. A southerner ran in front of the platform waving the stars and bars of the Confederacy.

Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio said the nomination of Goldwater would enable the GOP to carry 20 more congressional districts in the South next year and 20 more in the Midwest.

Child Thrown By Mother

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI) — Police today investigated the chilling case of a San Carlos, Calif., mother who said she threw the body of her 2-year-old daughter off the Golden Gate Bridge.

The mother, Anna Buckleman, 33, underwent psychiatric examination Thursday at San Mateo General Hospital. She was held under what a hospital spokesman called "security guard" to prevent a possible new suicide attempt.

Mrs. Buckleman said the child fell down the cellar stairs 10 days ago.

Early the next morning, while her husband slept, she found her child dead in bed, she told authorities. She drove to the bridge, threw the tiny pajama-clad body over the side but could not get up the nerve to jump herself, she said.

Instead, she fled to New York where she attempted to kill herself with an overdose of sleeping pills.

The Coast Guard said no trace of the child's body has been found under the bridge. An infant's body found in New York City was not that of the Buckleman girl, according to police.

Capt. Edwin Mallard of the San Carlos police department said "we are trying to gather the evidence to prove or disprove her story. I'll meet with members of the staff of district attorney Keith Sorenson and we will put it all together—including the doctor's reports on Mrs. Buckleman. Then we'll decide what action to take, if any."

Macmillan Has Woes

LONDON (UPI) — Two more sharp setbacks at polls added to the woes of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's scandal-plagued Conservative government today.

Conservative losses in by-elections at West Bromwich and Deptford Thursday were the latest in a series of reverses that have brought opposition Labor parties to Macmillan to resign or call immediate general elections.

The Labor party won both contests as expected Thursday, but the Conservatives made poor showings that reflected their sagging prestige among the public.

Labor, which has been out of office for 11 years, is confident of winning the next election. Macmillan is not expected to call an election before October, 1964, and he is expected to hold on as long as possible in hopes of restoring Conservative prestige badly hit by the Profumo scandal.

The Profumo sex-and-security scandal is only the latest blow against the conservation position over the last 18 months. Macmillan has been hit by Britain's failure to gain admission to the common market, by dissension over Britain's nuclear policy, by widespread unemployment, and by a series of security leaks.

The Profumo scandal has been kept before the public by the pre-trial hearing of Dr. Stephen Ward, a society osteopath and part-time artist. Ward introduced former War Minister John Profumo to 21-year-old party girl Christine Keeler, whom the osteopath is accused of procuring for prostitution.

Ward, charged on eight vice counts, is free on bail awaiting a trial date.

2 Reported Missing

OREGON CITY (UPI) — Searches were under way today for a 65-year-old man and an 8-year-old boy reported missing in different areas of Clackamas County.

Terry Anderson, 8, Portland, was believed lost near Camp Howard about 12 miles northeast of Sandy, police said. The camp is a Catholic youth facility.

Deputies said the boy may have walked away from the camp.

John Feldman, Milwaukee, was reported missing near Estacada, following an Independence Day picnic.

Colored Association Says Mayor Triggered 'Uproar'

CHICAGO (UPI) — Leaders of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) said today members of new "direct action" civil rights groups triggered the uproar that drove Mayor Richard J. Daley from a NAACP Independence Day rally.

"The people who interrupted the meeting were not members of the NAACP and were not part of our rally," Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the organization, said.

Daley got only as far as the second sentence of his speech at a massive Fourth of July "freedom" rally when about 50 young persons—both Negro and white—surged down the aisles with signs and shouts.

He withstood the calls of "Tokenism must go. Down with Daley. We don't need Daley, ghettos, Jim Crow schools" for 11 minutes. Then, with a shrug, the poker-faced Daley wheeled and walked from the platform.

It was apparent the incident carried far more significance to the NAACP, holding its 34th convention this week, and Daley, one of the most powerful Democrats in the nation, than a mere interruption of a rally.

Cites Other Groups

Willie Ludden, of Atlanta, Ga., a NAACP national staff member, said the demonstration "seemed to be planned by CORE and SNCC."

These groups, the Congress on Racial Equality and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, have taken the civil rights struggle to lunch counters, buses and streets. The NAACP has traditionally sought to settle civil rights disputes in the courts.

Only last week, on the eve of what was termed its "year of decision" convention, Wilkins noted that the NAACP's role as spokesmen for the Negro was being challenged.

"Other organizations furnish the noise and get the publicity while the NAACP furnishes the manpower and pays the bills," Wilkins said.

It was the second time during the convention Daley had touched off an outburst.

On the opening day, Daley said in a speech that there were no Negro ghettos in Chicago. Dr. L. H. Holman, NAACP Illinois president, disagreed in strong language and told the convention delegates, "some of you who go and bring out that tremendous vote for him better work on him."

Daley Led Parade

Earlier Thursday, Daley helped lead a two-hour "freedom march" through downtown Chicago and walked side by side with Wilkins.

Police estimated the demonstrators numbered 45,000.

The march ended at the hands of the NAACP, overlooking the shores of Lake Michigan. When Daley rose to speak, the shabbily dressed demonstrators roared down the aisles.

After Daley stalked from the speaker's rostrum, many in the crowd of 30,000 took up the jeering and stopped the Rev. James H. Jackson, president of the National Baptist Convention and prominent Negro civil rights leader, from speaking.

The Rev. Dr. Jackson faced the shouting throng for nine minutes and gave up.

"The crowd apparently was angered at the Rev. Dr. Jackson's support earlier this week for President Kennedy's plea for a moratorium on mass civil rights demonstrations."

MARKET BOMBED — A corner of this St. Louis supermarket was blown out by an explosion in the third of a series of chain food store bombings in the St. Louis area in recent months. Explosion in this store and another at a food store at the same time make a total of eight stores bombed in five months.

Marksman's Bullet Fells Convict Who Killed Three In Freedom Bid

AMERICUS, Ga. (UPI) — A foxhole he was trying to dig.

He was Melvin Weaver, 23, a squat, 240-pound life-term convict who started his brief, bloody tour through the limelight at Marianna, Fla.

His terrified 14-year-old hostage grabbed his pistol and shot him four more times as he slumped dying over the beginnings of the surrounding the field. Weaver ripped off several shots, grazing the scalp of a highway patrolman.

Frantically Weaver began trying to dig a foxhole under a pecan tree. But highway patrol marksman Robert Benson, carrying a .30 caliber rifle, was working his way behind Weaver.

Benson got to within 150 yards of the killer. "I figured it was the best shot I could get and shot." He drilled the digging killer through the heart.

Ricky said he thought the shot came from Weaver. "I looked at him and he was scrounged over with a pistol in his hand."

"I picked up the pistol and started shooting at him. I just pulled the trigger and started shooting until the gun was empty."

Ricky dropped the gun then, ran across the field in terror and leaped over a fence. Officers caught up with him on the road and told him his ordeal was over.

He had been taken to a hospital there after being overcome by smoke when he set fire to the bunk in his jail cell. He seized Deputy Sheriff Aaron Creel's pistol, shot him to death, and then killed Deputy Allen Finch when Finch rushed to Creel's aid.

Hubert Mayo, who was just visiting at the hospital, stepped into the corridors to see what was the matter and Weaver shot him to death.

He received the saddle and trophies. Running him a close second in points was the all-around girl winner, Deka Fitzgerald, Susanville.

A good turnout was reported for the first junior rodeo here and association members are planning now to make it an annual event.

Winners in the senior events were Dick Gore, tie - down calf roping; Buster Green, bareback riding and boys' cow riding; Deka Fitzgerald, girls' barrel racing; Bonnie Nordman, Richmond, girls' pole bending; Jimmy Watson, Hill, Calif., cow cutting; Sharon Bernal, Corvallis, girls' cow riding.

Winning in the junior events were Greg Brooks, Arlington, break-away calf roping; Stu Wilson, boys' calf riding; Starla Beymer, Klamath Falls, girls' calf riding; Danny Capelhart (all-around junior champion), Prineville, boys' barrel racing and pole bending.

In the special events Richard Tupper won the team roping; Sandra Eubanks, goat tying; and Richard Partin and Jimmie Watson, senior team roping.

The hard luck award went to Arthur Brown of Cedarville.

Churchill Home

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill, looking tired and pale, arrived home Thursday from a holiday in Monte Carlo and a cruise among the Greek islands.

The 88-year-old former prime minister, an unlit king-size cigar in his mouth, was helped down the steps of an airliner and driven straight home.

Police Break Uprising

PARIS (UPI) — Riot police armed with rifles and truncheons Thursday broke up farmers' demonstrations aimed at blocking traffic across four bridges on the Durance River in southern France.

Police said 27 persons were arrested at Meyrargues, one of the four river points. No injuries were reported.

The farmers, who have battled troops with tomatoes and bricks in the past week, are still disgruntled over produce prices despite strong government measures to help them.

They began gathering shortly after dawn at Meyrargues, Mirbeau, Cadenet and Pertuis with tractors and trucks. Republican security companies broke through the demonstrators' lines and forced them to move their vehicles.

President Charles de Gaulle's cabinet announced Wednesday that the importing of farm products would cease while the prices of farm goods in the country were "unusually low."

Farmers throughout the country have demonstrated and brawled to protest low prices for their produce. Southern farmers laid down a July 4 ultimatum for the halt of imports and threatened to destroy any foreign farm produce in sight.
