ROMAN INVENTION

Lotteries reputedly were an invention of the Romans. Major difference between Roman lotteries and those held today is that the chances in the former games were given away free. Augustus and Nero used these free lotteries to distribute slaves, houses or ships, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Protest Hearings Start On Forest Assessments

SALEM (UPI)—Benton County timber owner Wilson Bump told the State Tax Commission today that his land was worth from $1 to $2 per acre after costs of reforestation had been deducted.

The statement came as the commission opened the first of a series of protest hearings on new forest land assessments in five northwestern Oregon counties.

The commission earlier this year generally doubled the assessed value of timber lands in Benton, Columbia, Lane, Linn and Washington counties. The new timber land values range from $20 to $40 per acre.

More Than 60 Attend

More than 60 timber owners were on hand for the opening-day hearing.

Tax commissioners said the hearings would continue all week. A final decision by the commission on whether the assessments will remain as set, or will be reduced, is expected to be made at the end of the week.

The Boards of Equalization in Benton, Columbia, and Lane counties lowered the commission values. The Washington and Linn county boards upheld them.

All three tax commissioners, Paul F. Lininger, Fred Hoelke and Charles Mack, were on hand for today's session.

Costs Outlined

Bump spoke for more than an hour to outline the costs of replanting timber. He said it cost $42.99 to replant "an acceptable acre."

When asked by the commission if he replanted all his land, Bump replied, "Definitely not, I stopped replanting when I figured I could not get a proper return on my investment.

Fred Sandoz, chairman of the Tax Committee of the Industrial Forestry Association, told the commission that land values had not gone up, and also questioned the commission's action in increasing the assessments.

Missing Plane Hunt Pressed

CRESCENT CITY, Calif. (UPI) — Search planes planned to take to the air again today in another effort to locate a small plane carrying a Seattle couple that disappeared Saturday.

Civil Air Patrol planes, hampered by a slight overcast, searched a wide area Sunday without finding any trace of the single - engine "Aercoupe" with Peter Vike Jr., an education professor at the University of Washington, and his wife, Nancy, aboard.

The craft was first reported missing Saturday night after it took off from Ukiah, Calif., and failed to land as scheduled at Crescent City.

Police Hold Two Women In Shooting

Oregon State Police arrested two Indian women at 12:10 p.m. Saturday in front of 1766 Gary Street after they received a report from a neighbor that a shooting had just taken place in front of the house.

When state police arrived at the scene they saw Marie Elaine Barkley, 22, standing in front of her car with a .30-.30 caliber rifle still pointing at the Gary Street residence owned by Darlene Sanchez, 22.

Miss Barkley was lodged in the Klamath County Jail on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon and bail was set at $40,000.

Shortly after police arrived, Mrs. Sanchez drove up to the house, jumped out of her car and started to beat the Barkley woman before police could intervene. Mrs. Sanchez was charged with disorderly conduct under the vagraney statute and she posted $100 bail.

Colleen Crume, 23, who was in Mrs. Sanchez's house at the time of the shooting and who was the possible object of attack, ran out the back door and jumped over a fence fleeing the assault.

The shooting culminates a long standing feud between the women that has been under investigation for several months.

Mrs. Sanchez and Mrs. Crume were arrested June 24 on charges of disorderly conduct and carrying a concealed weapon when state police stopped their car to question them after a shooting complaint in the Homedale Road area.

State police reported Miss Barkley accused Miss Crume of shooting at her on a previous occasion and she "was just getting even."

Panelling Of Venire Stars In Ochiho Case

The murder trial for Zelma Joan Ochiho, 42, indicted for the March 19 gun slaying of Mrs. Florence Baker Huitt, 26, began Monday with the attempt to select a jury in Circuit Court No. 2, Judge Donald A. W. Piper presiding.

The district attorney's office indicated that the selection of a panel of 12 jurors could take as long as a week because of the number of people involved in the previous murder trial in which Mrs. Ochiho was acquitted of a charge of first degree murder in the shooting of her boy friend, Bruce Miller, 38, about six months ago. She won an acquittal by reason of self-defense.

Mrs. Huitt, the victim of the most recent slaying, was sitting next to Otis Washington in the living room at 616 Commercial Street when Mrs. Ochiho allegedly came in the front door of the house, pointed the rifle at the victim and fired it hitting Mrs. Huitt in the thigh. The victim died hours later in Klamath Valley Hospital.

Police believe that Washington was the third figure in a jealousy triangle involving himself and the two Indian women.
