

Comparisons Drawn On Effect Of Kennedy, De Gaulle Visits On West Germany

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
It was inevitable that comparisons be drawn between the Kennedy and De Gaulle visits to West Germany, especially among the West Germans as the people most directly affected.

The American President himself had made no mention of De Gaulle during his trip and De Gaulle had gone to some lengths to avoid making it appear a popularity contest.

But in the end there was no doubt that Kennedy had made by far the greatest impact and that De Gaulle's own visit had been a disappointment both to Bonn and Paris.

In Bonn, both Vice Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and Foreign Minister Gerhard Schröder expressed frank disappointment at failure to make any progress with De Gaulle toward a common agricultural policy for the European Common Market.

There also was disappointment over De Gaulle's continued adamant refusal to consider any place for Great Britain within the European community.

Rekindles German Faith

In Paris it was conceded that Kennedy had rekindled West German faith in U.S. leadership in the Atlantic alliance as opposed to De Gaulle's "third force" theory for a Europe militarily and economically independent of the United States sometime in the distant future.

In fact, some said that the French-German accord which De Gaulle had seen as the foundation stone for his own grand design for Europe, now had been reduced to a statement of good intentions.

West Berliners' cheers for Kennedy were echoed in German newspapers.

"Neither we nor the world can quibble or doubt the determination as they deal with relations between East and West but that he does not always do so."

Said the Rhein-Zeitung of Cologne:

"This week the course was unmistakably set for the Atlantic route. It can no longer be set back to that of a small Europe... It is plain that freedom and the future will emerge not from a French Europe, but from a united Europe."

But amid the chorus of praise there also were notes of doubt. It was noted that the U. S. President strives to consult his allies on major moves, especially as they deal with relations between East and West but that he does not always do so.

News Leak

It was not lost upon the Germans that it was in Germany that the news leaked that the United States would at least postpone its plan for a multi-nation nuclear navy.

This in turn was followed within a few days by a Khrushchev proposal linking a nuclear test ban agreement with a non-aggression pact to be signed between the rival Warsaw Pact Communist nations and the members of NATO.

German doubts spring from a fear that is with them always—that their future may be determined by agreements in which they do not participate.

Said the Westfälische Rundschau of Dortmund:

"Perhaps it will soon become evident what is demanded of us, not only in regard to economic and financial sacrifices, but perhaps we will be asked to dump overboard many of the political concepts of which we have grown so fond."

Jim Hoffa Charged

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Attorneys for Teamsters president James R. Hoffa say that the U.S. Justice Department violated the secrecy of a grand jury which indicted the union leader, and "threatened and cajoled" some of the jury witnesses.

In seven pre-trial motions filed Monday, asking that the jury tampering charges against Hoffa be dropped, the attorneys charged that the witnesses were allegedly threatened by a special assistant to U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy.

The attorneys said the assistant sat in on some grand jury sessions which resulted in the indictment against Hoffa, took notes and later used them in an attempt to have witnesses change their testimony. They also asked that if the charges are not dropped, the trial be moved to another city.

Hoffa and 10 others were indicted last May on charges of bribing and attempting to "corruptly influence" jurors in Hoffa's $1 million conspiracy trial last year. All have pleaded innocent.

Defense attorneys said Walter Sheridan, the special assistant, and the FBI used notes taken during the grand jury session to re-question witnesses, violating the secrecy of the grand jury.

Liz Gives Dancer Aid

LONDON (UPI)—The Daily Express said today actress Elizabeth Taylor was the "fairy godmother" who paid for lessons for a 13-year-old ballerina whose parents could not afford them.

Miss Taylor did it because of her own frustrated desire to be a ballet star, the paper claimed.

The girl is Anita Desmarais, whose talent this week earned her a chance to study with Russia's famed Bolshoi Ballet.

"Miss Taylor was absolutely wonderful," the Express quoted Anita's mothers, Mrs. Barbara Desmarais. "She said (British ballerina) Margot Fonteyn had told her about Anita's exceptional talents, and what a shame it was that we could not afford to pay for her at the Royal Ballet School."

"And she told me that as a child she very much wanted to be a ballet dancer, but she over-trained and something went wrong with her ankles," Mrs. Desmarais said.

The Express said Miss Taylor paid Anita's tuition at the Royal Ballet School for two years, but remained anonymous the whole time, not telling the Desmarais family until Monday night, when Anita danced a minor role in the Bolshoi performance here.

As Anita came off stage, there was a telegram and a bouquet of pink rosebuds waiting for her from her "fairy godmother."

"Whaddya mean he isn't smart! This is bath day and you notice how far away from home he is!"
