Deer, Food Balance Required

By DAN L. EASTMAN
Game Biologist

The proper balance between deer numbers and the available food supply on the critical wintering ranges is the elusive goal continuously pursued in sound game management.

Neither condition, animal numbers, nor food supply is static, and various types of studies are systematically carried on to measure these changes and regulate harvest accordingly. A range declining in the quality and quantity of game browse, if allowed to continue deteriorating, will gradually support fewer animal numbers.

If excessive animals are permitted to go unchecked, the declining condition will be accelerated by the impact of these animals on the food supply. It therefore is essential that systematic range investigations be a function of the game biologist.

Range investigations take many forms from gross examination, to annual production and utilization studies to long range condition and trend sampling. It is this latter technique which is being continuously expanded in Klamath County and throughout the state.

The range condition and trend transect is a cluster of line samples or transects through a typical segment of range which is permanently marked and staked for future reference and re-reading. A typical cluster will have three one-hundred foot transects permanently imbedded in the ground.

At every one foot interval along a steel tape stretched to the stakes, a record is made of the perennial plant, grass or shrub, to reveal the density and composition of the perennial stand.

Photo points are established and a picture record of the site is maintained. Normally at five year intervals, the exact procedure at the identical site is repeated to show the changes occurring in that parcel of range.

The results of a continuous survey of this type reveals a great many things which can be boiled down into a range which is improving, declining or static. Under excessive continuous use by foraging animals, perennial grasses and preferred browse will become less abundant and undesirable plants such as rabbitbrush may increase.

Erosive conditions associated with a deteriorating range begin appearing and the annual grasses may invade more area. When the condition is widespread and the cause is pinpointed, which is generally not too difficult, corrective action can be initiated based on the scientific results of this type of investigation.

Condition and trend transects have been established in the Klamath blacktail range of the Keno unit this summer. This is the last of the five major wintering areas in the county to be incorporated into this systematic range evaluation technique which was developed by the U.S. Forest Service.

Art Classes Being Held

MOUNT SHASTA - Lee Gossett, art instructor and professional artist for 22 years, is now teaching two classes in all media of art in Mount Shasta.

Portraits are taught on Tuesdays from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and landscapes on Mondays from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Classes are held at the Seventh-day Adventist Church on Valley Road. All artists are invited to attend or just "look in" on the classes.

Gossett is president of the Siskiyou County Artists Association of Yreka. He has been a student at Chonards, Los Angeles; Los Angeles Fine Arts; Coronado Arts and Crafts; and La Jolla Arts and Crafts. He has done two 42 by 48 foot religious murals.

Gossett has 14 art students in Mount Shasta and 103 at Yreka and Klamath River. He holds private lessons on Thursday and Friday and children's classes Saturday morning at the Siskiyou Art Gallery, Mexico, Canada, France, Italy, and the U.S. have hosted Gossett on painting tours.

Mount Shasta is rapidly becoming an artist's paradise, with the Color Center a rendezvous for artists. All supplies and equipment are available there, as well as the opportunity to display and sell paintings. Pictures are exhibited by local artists and Weed and Dunsmuir artists.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Your false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath." Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere.
