

COUNTER-ATTACK — Sign carrying pickets of Gary, Ind., chapter of NAAWP (National Association for the Advancement of White People) demonstrate in front of St. Mary's Hospital. They are protesting past the hospital with a Negro civil rights group. The organization was denied part in negotiations leading to the agreement. — UPI Telephoto

Bonanza Old-Timers' Picnic Draws Over 1,000 Persons

BONANZA — The first annual Bonanza Community Old-Timers' Picnic, one of the largest and oldest in the town's long history, drew former residents from all points of Oregon and California.

More than 1,000 people gathered in the Bonanza Big Springs Park to renew old acquaintances and swap stories of life in the "early days" of Bonanza.

The picnic luncheon and program were planned by a committee of local people who worked for months to organize the elaborate homecoming. Mrs. Esther Brown, president of the Bonanza Historical Society, served as the picnic chairman, with Mrs. Alice Drew as secretary.

Several categories were set up to award prizes to "special" people attending the festivities. Recognition was given to the oldest person, the longest resident, the person who has lived in Bonanza the longest, and the person who has lived in Bonanza the longest.

The prize for the most generous person was won by Mrs. Esther Brown, who donated a large sum of money to the Bonanza Historical Society.

Pre-Teen Years Prove Difficult For Parents

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

The pre-teen years often are considered quite difficult. This probably is most true for parents than for the youngsters.

Some typical reactions of pre-teen children:

—The mother of John, 11, suggested that they go to the movies together on Saturday. She was upset when he said he planned to go swimming with friends.

—Fred, 12, told his father he wanted to go hiking with his Boy Scout troop instead of on a fishing trip with the family. His father was surprised since they always had so much fun on these trips.

—Ten-year-old Ann's room was messy and she didn't seem to care about her books. She pre-ferred wearing dangerous clothes and dresses. Her parents were distressed that she was becoming a tomboy.

Difficult To Accept

These actions and attitudes are difficult for parents to accept. But the children want to be with their peers. They seem to rebel against the family. They appear to intentionally reject authority just to prove it can be done.

Up to this point the child at least has been obedient. He is now only minor signs of independence. Now the change seems to be quite dramatic.

The natural reaction of many parents is to block this development.

Parents should realize that this is part of growing up. They too went through this stage of development, and should accept the child for what he is. This doesn't mean to drop all standards. It does mean to administer authority with understanding.

Allow Experiments

Allow the child to experiment. He can learn a great deal by trial and error. His curiosity, restlessness, bold behavior, and daring should be guided into safe and satisfying activities. He wants to join clubs and organizations. He may even organize a two-man club. He is seeking status and recognition.

The pre-teen years surely are trying times for parents. The best approach is to recognize that this of this behavior is normal. Although the child seems to reject the family, they appear to be as much as ever. There is no need to permit him to become disrespectful or extremely demanding. He should have time and opportunity to pursue his private activities. If this is arranged, he is more likely to show cooperation with the family.

Proper guidance at this time can avoid serious trouble in the future.

Red Chinese Blast Test Ban Treaty

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China charged today that the Soviet leaders have joined in "partnership with the American wild men" in a nuclear test ban treaty.

A formal government statement issued by Peking called the treaty a "dirty fraud" and said China's adherence to the treaty was "unthinkable."

Broadcasts monitored in Tokyo quoted the statement in full and kept up a never-ending stream of almost frantic propaganda against the treaty.

It suggested that the heads of state of every country in the world meet in a gigantic summit conference to work out details for a complete cessation of all nuclear testing and destruction of all existing nuclear weapons.

The statement said the three nuclear powers "attempt to consolidate their nuclear monopoly and bind the hands of all the peace-loving countries subjected to the nuclear threat."

"This treaty signed in Moscow is a big fraud to fool the people of the world. It runs diametrically counter to the wishes of the peace-loving people of the world," it added.

Bonanza Old-Timers' Picnic Draws Over 1,000 Persons

BONANZA — The first annual Bonanza Community Old-Timers' Picnic, one of the largest and oldest in the town's long history, drew former residents from all points of Oregon and California.

More than 1,000 people gathered in the Bonanza Big Springs Park to renew old acquaintances and swap stories of life in the "early days" of Bonanza.

The picnic luncheon and program were planned by a committee of local people who worked for months to organize the elaborate homecoming. Mrs. Esther Brown, president of the Bonanza Historical Society, served as the picnic chairman, with Mrs. Alice Drew as secretary.

Several categories were set up to award prizes to "special" people attending the festivities. Recognition was given to the oldest person, the longest resident, the person who has lived in Bonanza the longest, and the person who has lived in Bonanza the longest.

The prize for the most generous person was won by Mrs. Esther Brown, who donated a large sum of money to the Bonanza Historical Society.

Pre-Teen Years Prove Difficult For Parents

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

The pre-teen years often are considered quite difficult. This probably is most true for parents than for the youngsters.

Some typical reactions of pre-teen children:

—The mother of John, 11, suggested that they go to the movies together on Saturday. She was upset when he said he planned to go swimming with friends.

—Fred, 12, told his father he wanted to go hiking with his Boy Scout troop instead of on a fishing trip with the family. His father was surprised since they always had so much fun on these trips.

—Ten-year-old Ann's room was messy and she didn't seem to care about her books. She pre-ferred wearing dangerous clothes and dresses. Her parents were distressed that she was becoming a tomboy.

Difficult To Accept

These actions and attitudes are difficult for parents to accept. But the children want to be with their peers. They seem to rebel against the family. They appear to intentionally reject authority just to prove it can be done.

Up to this point the child at least has been obedient. He is now only minor signs of independence. Now the change seems to be quite dramatic.

The natural reaction of many parents is to block this development.

Parents should realize that this is part of growing up. They too went through this stage of development, and should accept the child for what he is. This doesn't mean to drop all standards. It does mean to administer authority with understanding.

Allow Experiments

Allow the child to experiment. He can learn a great deal by trial and error. His curiosity, restlessness, bold behavior, and daring should be guided into safe and satisfying activities. He wants to join clubs and organizations. He may even organize a two-man club. He is seeking status and recognition.

The pre-teen years surely are trying times for parents. The best approach is to recognize that this of this behavior is normal. Although the child seems to reject the family, they appear to be as much as ever. There is no need to permit him to become disrespectful or extremely demanding. He should have time and opportunity to pursue his private activities. If this is arranged, he is more likely to show cooperation with the family.

Proper guidance at this time can avoid serious trouble in the future.

NEW AT ROBERT'S

Let Us Show You The Terrific New Warm Morning WOOD HEATER

Model 700

AMERICA'S MOST MODERN WOOD CIRCULATOR

AUTOMATIC THERMOSTAT

FIREBRICK & CAST IRON LINED FIREBOX

LIFETIME PORCELAIN FINISH

BURNS 24" LENGTHS OF WOOD!

"WARM FLOOR" BLOWER (OPTIONAL)

Only 149.95

EASY TERMS

See Our Complete Selection

Robert's Hardware

Robert's... hard to beat for hardware

Bonanza Old-Timers' Picnic Draws Over 1,000 Persons

BONANZA — The first annual Bonanza Community Old-Timers' Picnic, one of the largest and oldest in the town's long history, drew former residents from all points of Oregon and California.

More than 1,000 people gathered in the Bonanza Big Springs Park to renew old acquaintances and swap stories of life in the "early days" of Bonanza.

The picnic luncheon and program were planned by a committee of local people who worked for months to organize the elaborate homecoming. Mrs. Esther Brown, president of the Bonanza Historical Society, served as the picnic chairman, with Mrs. Alice Drew as secretary.

Several categories were set up to award prizes to "special" people attending the festivities. Recognition was given to the oldest person, the longest resident, the person who has lived in Bonanza the longest, and the person who has lived in Bonanza the longest.

The prize for the most generous person was won by Mrs. Esther Brown, who donated a large sum of money to the Bonanza Historical Society.

Pre-Teen Years Prove Difficult For Parents

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

The pre-teen years often are considered quite difficult. This probably is most true for parents than for the youngsters.

Some typical reactions of pre-teen children:

—The mother of John, 11, suggested that they go to the movies together on Saturday. She was upset when he said he planned to go swimming with friends.

—Fred, 12, told his father he wanted to go hiking with his Boy Scout troop instead of on a fishing trip with the family. His father was surprised since they always had so much fun on these trips.

—Ten-year-old Ann's room was messy and she didn't seem to care about her books. She pre-ferred wearing dangerous clothes and dresses. Her parents were distressed that she was becoming a tomboy.

Difficult To Accept

These actions and attitudes are difficult for parents to accept. But the children want to be with their peers. They seem to rebel against the family. They appear to intentionally reject authority just to prove it can be done.

Up to this point the child at least has been obedient. He is now only minor signs of independence. Now the change seems to be quite dramatic.

The natural reaction of many parents is to block this development.

Parents should realize that this is part of growing up. They too went through this stage of development, and should accept the child for what he is. This doesn't mean to drop all standards. It does mean to administer authority with understanding.

Allow Experiments

Allow the child to experiment. He can learn a great deal by trial and error. His curiosity, restlessness, bold behavior, and daring should be guided into safe and satisfying activities. He wants to join clubs and organizations. He may even organize a two-man club. He is seeking status and recognition.

The pre-teen years surely are trying times for parents. The best approach is to recognize that this of this behavior is normal. Although the child seems to reject the family, they appear to be as much as ever. There is no need to permit him to become disrespectful or extremely demanding. He should have time and opportunity to pursue his private activities. If this is arranged, he is more likely to show cooperation with the family.

Proper guidance at this time can avoid serious trouble in the future.

PRICE FOR FIRST

Bob Says - Have You Used Our INSTANT CREDIT..?

Bob Scholl
State Licensed Watchmaker

No waiting or applications to fill out at Bob's. If you have any one of over 75 credit cards, such as major oil co., Sears, Penney's or Wards, your credit is instantly good at Bob's. It's a new and convenient way to do your shopping.

1-OF-A-KIND SPECIALS!

MAN'S 21-JEWEL CROTON. Shockproof and water resistant. Here's a regular $39.95 value for only...

LADIES' 17-JEWEL 2-DIAMOND SHOCKPROOF WALTHAM. Lifetime guarantee on all movement parts. Reg. $69.95...

LADIES' 17-JEWEL ELGIN. A beautiful shockproof watch with exciting, built-in mesh band. Reg. $59.95.

LADIES' AUTOMATIC CROTON. A regular $69.95 waterproof sport watch going down this sale for only...

Only 149.95

EASY TERMS

See Our Complete Selection

Robert's Hardware

Robert's... hard to beat for hardware

Bonanza Old-Timers' Picnic Draws Over 1,000 Persons

BONANZA — The first annual Bonanza Community Old-Timers' Picnic, one of the largest and oldest in the town's long history, drew former residents from all points of Oregon and California.

More than 1,000 people gathered in the Bonanza Big Springs Park to renew old acquaintances and swap stories of life in the "early days" of Bonanza.

The picnic luncheon and program were planned by a committee of local people who worked for months to organize the elaborate homecoming. Mrs. Esther Brown, president of the Bonanza Historical Society, served as the picnic chairman, with Mrs. Alice Drew as secretary.

Several categories were set up to award prizes to "special" people attending the festivities. Recognition was given to the oldest person, the longest resident, the person who has lived in Bonanza the longest, and the person who has lived in Bonanza the longest.

The prize for the most generous person was won by Mrs. Esther Brown, who donated a large sum of money to the Bonanza Historical Society.

Pre-Teen Years Prove Difficult For Parents

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

The pre-teen years often are considered quite difficult. This probably is most true for parents than for the youngsters.

Some typical reactions of pre-teen children:

—The mother of John, 11, suggested that they go to the movies together on Saturday. She was upset when he said he planned to go swimming with friends.

—Fred, 12, told his father he wanted to go hiking with his Boy Scout troop instead of on a fishing trip with the family. His father was surprised since they always had so much fun on these trips.

—Ten-year-old Ann's room was messy and she didn't seem to care about her books. She pre-ferred wearing dangerous clothes and dresses. Her parents were distressed that she was becoming a tomboy.

Difficult To Accept

These actions and attitudes are difficult for parents to accept. But the children want to be with their peers. They seem to rebel against the family. They appear to intentionally reject authority just to prove it can be done.

Up to this point the child at least has been obedient. He is now only minor signs of independence. Now the change seems to be quite dramatic.

The natural reaction of many parents is to block this development.

Parents should realize that this is part of growing up. They too went through this stage of development, and should accept the child for what he is. This doesn't mean to drop all standards. It does mean to administer authority with understanding.

Allow Experiments

Allow the child to experiment. He can learn a great deal by trial and error. His curiosity, restlessness, bold behavior, and daring should be guided into safe and satisfying activities. He wants to join clubs and organizations. He may even organize a two-man club. He is seeking status and recognition.

The pre-teen years surely are trying times for parents. The best approach is to recognize that this of this behavior is normal. Although the child seems to reject the family, they appear to be as much as ever. There is no need to permit him to become disrespectful or extremely demanding. He should have time and opportunity to pursue his private activities. If this is arranged, he is more likely to show cooperation with the family.

Proper guidance at this time can avoid serious trouble in the future.

BUSTERS OF AUGUST

Shop Where You Park FREE In Front of Every Store

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate liberals today killed a bill to extend the Mexican farm labor program by using a surprise parliamentary maneuver.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., pulled the surprise when he objected to the bill had been reported out of the Agriculture Committee without a quorum present.

The House earlier, in a surprise move, narrowly voted down a two-year extension of the bracero program. An attempt to keep the program alive beyond this year was riding on what the Senate did.

Senate opposition had been led by Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J.

Western farmers, especially in Texas and California, have traditionally contended that they need the supply of Mexican labor to harvest their crops. Several church organizations and labor unions have denounced the program as damaging to U.S. domestic workers.

The move in the Senate came when Sen. Claiborne P. D-RI, ruled that the bill was not properly before the body after consulting with assistant Senate parliamentarian Floyd R. Sparks.

Pell's ruling was made over the protests of Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Agriculture Committee. Sen. Gerald A. Stenholm, D-Okla., also protested.

Pell ruled the bill was still in the custody of the Agriculture Committee, which had reported it out without hearings over the objections of Proxmire and three other members.

Bonanza Old-Timers' Picnic Draws Over 1,000 Persons

BONANZA — The first annual Bonanza Community Old-Timers' Picnic, one of the largest and oldest in the town's long history, drew former residents from all points of Oregon and California.

More than 1,000 people gathered in the Bonanza Big Springs Park to renew old acquaintances and swap stories of life in the "early days" of Bonanza.

The picnic luncheon and program were planned by a committee of local people who worked for months to organize the elaborate homecoming. Mrs. Esther Brown, president of the Bonanza Historical Society, served as the picnic chairman, with Mrs. Alice Drew as secretary.

Several categories were set up to award prizes to "special" people attending the festivities. Recognition was given to the oldest person, the longest resident, the person who has lived in Bonanza the longest, and the person who has lived in Bonanza the longest.

The prize for the most generous person was won by Mrs. Esther Brown, who donated a large sum of money to the Bonanza Historical Society.

Pre-Teen Years Prove Difficult For Parents

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

The pre-teen years often are considered quite difficult. This probably is most true for parents than for the youngsters.

Some typical reactions of pre-teen children:

—The mother of John, 11, suggested that they go to the movies together on Saturday. She was upset when he said he planned to go swimming with friends.

—Fred, 12, told his father he wanted to go hiking with his Boy Scout troop instead of on a fishing trip with the family. His father was surprised since they always had so much fun on these trips.

—Ten-year-old Ann's room was messy and she didn't seem to care about her books. She pre-ferred wearing dangerous clothes and dresses. Her parents were distressed that she was becoming a tomboy.

Difficult To Accept

These actions and attitudes are difficult for parents to accept. But the children want to be with their peers. They seem to rebel against the family. They appear to intentionally reject authority just to prove it can be done.

Up to this point the child at least has been obedient. He is now only minor signs of independence. Now the change seems to be quite dramatic.

The natural reaction of many parents is to block this development.

Parents should realize that this is part of growing up. They too went through this stage of development, and should accept the child for what he is. This doesn't mean to drop all standards. It does mean to administer authority with understanding.

Allow Experiments

Allow the child to experiment. He can learn a great deal by trial and error. His curiosity, restlessness, bold behavior, and daring should be guided into safe and satisfying activities. He wants to join clubs and organizations. He may even organize a two-man club. He is seeking status and recognition.

The pre-teen years surely are trying times for parents. The best approach is to recognize that this of this behavior is normal. Although the child seems to reject the family, they appear to be as much as ever. There is no need to permit him to become disrespectful or extremely demanding. He should have time and opportunity to pursue his private activities. If this is arranged, he is more likely to show cooperation with the family.

Proper guidance at this time can avoid serious trouble in the future.

Shop Where You Park FREE In Front of Every Store

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate liberals today killed a bill to extend the Mexican farm labor program by using a surprise parliamentary maneuver.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., pulled the surprise when he objected to the bill had been reported out of the Agriculture Committee without a quorum present.

The House earlier, in a surprise move, narrowly voted down a two-year extension of the bracero program. An attempt to keep the program alive beyond this year was riding on what the Senate did.

Senate opposition had been led by Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J.

Western farmers, especially in Texas and California, have traditionally contended that they need the supply of Mexican labor to harvest their crops. Several church organizations and labor unions have denounced the program as damaging to U.S. domestic workers.

The move in the Senate came when Sen. Claiborne P. D-RI, ruled that the bill was not properly before the body after consulting with assistant Senate parliamentarian Floyd R. Sparks.

Pell's ruling was made over the protests of Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Agriculture Committee. Sen. Gerald A. Stenholm, D-Okla., also protested.

Pell ruled the bill was still in the custody of the Agriculture Committee, which had reported it out without hearings over the objections of Proxmire and three other members.

Bonanza Old-Timers' Picnic Draws Over 1,000 Persons

BONANZA — The first annual Bonanza Community Old-Timers' Picnic, one of the largest and oldest in the town's long history, drew former residents from all points of Oregon and California.

More than 1,000 people gathered in the Bonanza Big Springs Park to renew old acquaintances and swap stories of life in the "early days" of Bonanza.

The picnic luncheon and program were planned by a committee of local people who worked for months to organize the elaborate homecoming. Mrs. Esther Brown, president of the Bonanza Historical Society, served as the picnic chairman, with Mrs. Alice Drew as secretary.

Several categories were set up to award prizes to "special" people attending the festivities. Recognition was given to the oldest person, the longest resident, the person who has lived in Bonanza the longest, and the person who has lived in Bonanza the longest.

The prize for the most generous person was won by Mrs. Esther Brown, who donated a large sum of money to the Bonanza Historical Society.

Pre-Teen Years Prove Difficult For Parents

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

The pre-teen years often are considered quite difficult. This probably is most true for parents than for the youngsters.

Some typical reactions of pre-teen children:

—The mother of John, 11, suggested that they go to the movies together on Saturday. She was upset when he said he planned to go swimming with friends.

—Fred, 12, told his father he wanted to go hiking with his Boy Scout troop instead of on a fishing trip with the family. His father was surprised since they always had so much fun on these trips.

—Ten-year-old Ann's room was messy and she didn't seem to care about her books. She pre-ferred wearing dangerous clothes and dresses. Her parents were distressed that she was becoming a tomboy.

Difficult To Accept

These actions and attitudes are difficult for parents to accept. But the children want to be with their peers. They seem to rebel against the family. They appear to intentionally reject authority just to prove it can be done.

Up to this point the child at least has been obedient. He is now only minor signs of independence. Now the change seems to be quite dramatic.

The natural reaction of many parents is to block this development.

Parents should realize that this is part of growing up. They too went through this stage of development, and should accept the child for what he is. This doesn't mean to drop all standards. It does mean to administer authority with understanding.

Allow Experiments

Allow the child to experiment. He can learn a great deal by trial and error. His curiosity, restlessness, bold behavior, and daring should be guided into safe and satisfying activities. He wants to join clubs and organizations. He may even organize a two-man club. He is seeking status and recognition.

The pre-teen years surely are trying times for parents. The best approach is to recognize that this of this behavior is normal. Although the child seems to reject the family, they appear to be as much as ever. There is no need to permit him to become disrespectful or extremely demanding. He should have time and opportunity to pursue his private activities. If this is arranged, he is more likely to show cooperation with the family.

Proper guidance at this time can avoid serious trouble in the future.

Liberals Kill Farm Labor Extension

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate liberals today killed a bill to extend the Mexican farm labor program by using a surprise parliamentary maneuver.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., pulled the surprise when he objected to the bill had been reported out of the Agriculture Committee without a quorum present.

The House earlier, in a surprise move, narrowly voted down a two-year extension of the bracero program. An attempt to keep the program alive beyond this year was riding on what the Senate did.

Senate opposition had been led by Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J.

Western farmers, especially in Texas and California, have traditionally contended that they need the supply of Mexican labor to harvest their crops. Several church organizations and labor unions have denounced the program as damaging to U.S. domestic workers.

The move in the Senate came when Sen. Claiborne P. D-RI, ruled that the bill was not properly before the body after consulting with assistant Senate parliamentarian Floyd R. Sparks.

Pell's ruling was made over the protests of Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Agriculture Committee. Sen. Gerald A. Stenholm, D-Okla., also protested.

Pell ruled the bill was still in the custody of the Agriculture Committee, which had reported it out without hearings over the objections of Proxmire and three other members.

Bonanza Old-Timers' Picnic Draws Over 1,000 Persons

BONANZA — The first annual Bonanza Community Old-Timers' Picnic, one of the largest and oldest in the town's long history, drew former residents from all points of Oregon and California.

More than 1,000 people gathered in the Bonanza Big Springs Park to renew old acquaintances and swap stories of life in the "early days" of Bonanza.

The picnic luncheon and program were planned by a committee of local people who worked for months to organize the elaborate homecoming. Mrs. Esther Brown, president of the Bonanza Historical Society, served as the picnic chairman, with Mrs. Alice Drew as secretary.

Several categories were set up to award prizes to "special" people attending the festivities. Recognition was given to the oldest person, the longest resident, the person who has lived in Bonanza the longest, and the person who has lived in Bonanza the longest.

The prize for the most generous person was won by Mrs. Esther Brown, who donated a large sum of money to the Bonanza Historical Society.

Pre-Teen Years Prove Difficult For Parents

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

The pre-teen years often are considered quite difficult. This probably is most true for parents than for the youngsters.

Some typical reactions of pre-teen children:

—The mother of John, 11, suggested that they go to the movies together on Saturday. She was upset when he said he planned to go swimming with friends.

—Fred, 12, told his father he wanted to go hiking with his Boy Scout troop instead of on a fishing trip with the family. His father was surprised since they always had so much fun on these trips.

—Ten-year-old Ann's room was messy and she didn't seem to care about her books. She pre-ferred wearing dangerous clothes and dresses. Her parents were distressed that she was becoming a tomboy.

Difficult To Accept

These actions and attitudes are difficult for parents to accept. But the children want to be with their peers. They seem to rebel against the family. They appear to intentionally reject authority just to prove it can be done.

Up to this point the child at least has been obedient. He is now only minor signs of independence. Now the change seems to be quite dramatic.

The natural reaction of many parents is to block this development.

Parents should realize that this is part of growing up. They too went through this stage of development, and should accept the child for what he is. This doesn't mean to drop all standards. It does mean to administer authority with understanding.

Allow Experiments

Allow the child to experiment. He can learn a great deal by trial and error. His curiosity, restlessness, bold behavior, and daring should be guided into safe and satisfying activities. He wants to join clubs and organizations. He may even organize a two-man club. He is seeking status and recognition.

The pre-teen years surely are trying times for parents. The best approach is to recognize that this of this behavior is normal. Although the child seems to reject the family, they appear to be as much as ever. There is no need to permit him to become disrespectful or extremely demanding. He should have time and opportunity to pursue his private activities. If this is arranged, he is more likely to show cooperation with the family.

Proper guidance at this time can avoid serious trouble in the future.

STAR GAZER

By CLAY R. POLLAN

Your Daily Activity Guide According to the Stars

To develop message for Friday, read words corresponding to numbers of your Zodiac birth sign.

DATE	1st	2nd	3rd	4th	5th	6th	7th	8th	9th	10th	11th	12th
APR 21	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
MAY 21	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
JUN 21	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
JUL 21	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
AUG 21	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
SEP 21	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
OCT 21	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
NOV 21	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
DEC 21	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12

Emerson

MODEL 1840 — 14" TRUE LIGHTWEIGHT PORTABLE WITH ALL THESE DELUXE FEATURES:

- Full Power Super Dynamic Chassis
- Automatic Amplified Gain Control for steady picture
- Scratch-proof bonded glass safety lens 16" picture tube
- Top front-projected FM sound
- One-knob control for volume, tone, and contrast
- Cabinet high-impact molded front and back. Any way you look at it, Emerson is America's best buy in true lightweight portable TV.

* 125 lbs. in. viewable area

Shaffer ELECTRIC

Convenient TERMS, TOO!

Suburban DRUG

Open 365 days a year... 366 on leap years. Open 9 till 10... 9 to 9 on Sundays & Holidays.

Druggist On Duty At All Times

Current charge customers may charge anything except Camera Dept. Mds., in the Suburban Drug Bldg. at the prescription counter.

HOUSE OF DISCOUNT

NOW WESTERN THRIFT, INC.

DREWS Manstore

TVA Seeks Snake Cure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted Wednesday to restore $75 million of a $100 million cut in funds for the Alliance for Progress.

TVA workers got rid of all the birds' nests and spiders' nests at the substation, but the chicken snakes kept coming. A few engineers have speculated that development loans by requiring a minimum 2 per cent interest rate and a maximum 30-year repayment period.

Both the alliance fund slash and the loan limits actions were strongly opposed by the administration.

Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said he hoped the committee could complete action on the bill Friday.

The reconsideration left total cuts voted so far by the Senate committee at $72 million.

President Kennedy originally requested $4.5 billion.

Meanwhile the House Foreign Relations Committee was expected to complete action on a four-point bill cutting Kennedy's request by $424 million. The new proceeds will be used to complete the tennis courts.

POLLY'S POINTERS

A Seam-Y Trick

When planning a company dinner, I write the menu on a recipe card. It is easy to see what, if any, additional groceries are needed. The card is put in a handy place and about 10 minutes before dining, I check the card for the last time to see if any little thing (such as a garnish, etc.) has been forgotten. I then write the guest list on the back of the card and stick it in the back of my recipe file. When entertaining again you can check and not run the chance of serving the same menu again to the same people. — POLLY

Share your favorite homemaking ideas... send them to Polly in care of Herald and News. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your ideas in Polly's Pointers.

Man Attends Credit Class

MADISON, Wis. — Harvey E. Bingham Jr., 2535 Garden Avenue, Klamath Falls, is among the more than 200 students from seven countries who have been attending the 1963 annual CUNA School for Credit Union Personnel on the campus of the University of Wisconsin here. Bingham is treasurer, S.P. Klamath Federal Credit Union.

The school, sponsored by the Credit Union National Association (CUNA) in cooperation with the University of Wisconsin, offers college-level training to professional credit union workers. The school is one of the more than 100 short courses, clinics, and institutes held throughout the year on the Wisconsin campus here as educational public services for all citizens.

Subjects covered during the three-year school are sociology, psychology, economics, consumer credit, management principles, financial analysis, and member counseling. Students spend two weeks each summer at Wisconsin's State University as part of the course.

James J. Lechy, director of the school, said that each student can have his work skills evaluated by expert counselors on the staff of the university's Guidance Center.

The CUNA School is designed to help supply trained career credit union workers for the world's more than 20,000 credit unions. It has more than 600 alumni all over the world. Countries represented by students enrolled in the school this year are the West Indies, Puerto Rico, Venezuela, Mexico, Ecuador, Canada, and the United States.

President William Howard Taft was the first U.S. president to open the baseball season (1910) by pitching the first ball for the Washington club.