King Lead Tough Move

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

East won the club opening with the king and led his singleton trump. South studied the hand a long while because there was no clear cut line of play. Eventually he played two more rounds of trumps, led a heart and played dummy's nine.

East won with the queen, but there was no way for him to beat the hand since the only additional trick he could make would be the ace of hearts.

A diamond opening by West would have surely set the hand. East thought that a heart lead might have also set it. East was wrong there. South could make the hand against a heart opening if he played it exactly right.

However, East could have made a play at trick two that would have beaten the contract. All he had to do was to lead any one of his three diamonds.

Then he would lead another diamond when he got in with the first heart and would have established a diamond trick before declarer could set up the hearts.

Strangely enough, if East had held queen-jack-ten of diamonds instead of king-jack-ten he would have thought of the play. It really is tough to lead away from a king up to the ace-queen in dummy.

Man Makes Dream Real

MOUNT SHASTA — Winford Berg is a medium-sized man, middle-aged, blue-eyed, and a veteran of both world wars. But he is a man who can dream and hold that vision to his heart.

It was in 1924 that Berg climbed down out of a boxcar in Mount Shasta. In his pocket a total of $2.87 skittered about while his gaze rolled around the nearby hills. But what he saw pleased him. He tossed his anchor overboard and since that time he has been right at home here.

Within a few weeks a subdivision called Christmas Meadows Estates will begin to take shape here as 64 lots of two and a half acres each will give a look of substance to the slope of Mt. Shasta that runs down to the Mount Shasta High School.

It was this traveler with a bankroll of $2.87 who found Christmas Meadows Estate, corralled it, and many times refused to sell it to people he thought could not do with that tract what should be done.

But the O'Hair Construction Company, Berg feels, can bring that tract into fruition. He has some other "rainbow ends" he is keeping watch over. All of which are fragments of that original $2.87.
