

Bell Tolls For Corduroy

By HELEN JENNESSY
NEW YORK (NEA) — When the school bell rings in September, corduroy will dutifully march back to the classroom.

But with the aid of such designers as Seansi, Bill Blass, Sophie and Bill Atkinson, who have created children's collections for fall, it has been propelled into the front ranks as a dress-up fabric as well.

One of the reasons for this is that "shape" is most important in children's clothes this year, and corduroy supplies the body required. "The Shape" is almost anything that doesn't have a nipped in, clearly defined waistline. In dresses, this means A-lines, H-lines, skimmies and shifts, the Empire look and hightouching overblouses.

This time around, children will be dressed to look their age rather than miniatures of their elders. There is much simple elegance in their fashions, and as more and more top designers go into children's wear, fine touches are replacing gaudy gimmicks.

For dressy wear, pinwale comes in for its share of the limelight in crisp berry reds and handsome pastels which have the feeling of Victorian elegance.

The sportive look is represented, too, for the school set and is especially good in wide wale corduroy. And riding in on the crest of the sportive wave for youngsters are flat shoes with grown-up styling instead of the classic Mary Janes and hats that are styled to go farther afield than church on Sundays.

When boiling meat on the stove, keep at least one-fourth cup of water in the pan. It will prevent the meat from burning and smoking.

ENGAGEMENT TOLD — Of interest to many local residents is the news of the engagement of Judith Jensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Harold Jensen, Edmonds, Wash. In October she will wed Frederick T. Harris, son of Mrs. Mary Groff Harris and Dr. Milo T. Harris, Spokane. The future bride has made many friends in Klamath Falls during summer visits with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence L. Shaw. Both young people attend the University of Washington and will be 1964 graduates. She is affiliated with Alpha Gamma Delta and her fiancé with Delta Kappa Epsilon.

ANNOUNCED — The engagement of Peggy Jo Buck and Steven Ray Schmeck was announced Sunday, Aug. 11, at an open house given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kern Buck. Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Schmeck, also of this city, are parents of the future bridegroom. Both young people are graduates of Klamath Union High School. The bride-to-be attends San Francisco State College and is a display designer for Penney's in the Bay City. Her fiancé is studying engineering at San Jose State College. No date has been set for the wedding.

BID FAREWELL — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hale, left, and Mr. and Mrs. Al Samples were honored guests at a party July 30 in Chiloquin. Both men leave Chiloquin for other assignments in the county school system this fall.

Principals Are Honored

CHILOQUIN — On July 30, a farewell party for the Frank Hale and Al Samples families was hosted by the community of Chiloquin at the Masonic Hall in Chiloquin. Approximately 150 people turned out to wish the two principals of the grade and high schools, respectively, good luck in their new positions at Peterson Grade School in Klamath Falls and Malin High School where they have been assigned for the coming school year.

Presiding as emcee was Lefty Wilder with community singing by those present being led by Lindy Rogers, music teacher for Chiloquin High School. Mrs. Lindy Rogers assisted at the piano. A humorous skit illustrating the new principals' reception at their new posts was presented by Mrs.

Rosalee Hoback, Kathy Peters, Sherrie Lough, Rose Molling and Donna Kircher. After the skit they were entertained by Mrs. Thayne Manning who sang three numbers, "Over The Rainbow," "Summer Time," and "Our Best to You," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Darlene Wolff.

MEANINGFUL MYTH — Myth or no, the stories about the Southern belle who dodged the sun are worth considering. She maintained her peaches and cream complexion while her less fortunate cousins saw their skin become rough and leathery after years of exposure to the sun.

Baby Shower

BLY — Mrs. Robert Bellini was honored at a baby shower held at the home of Mrs. Jack Dillavou on Aug. 6.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Jack Dillavou and Mrs. Jerold Dillavou.

A lovely floral arrangement within a tiny baby crib was used for the centerpiece between two white tapers.

Games were played and the prizes went to Mrs. Jim Buchanan and Mrs. Herbert Hadley.

Guests were Pam Elder, Lake-
