Patterson Wants Bout By Nov. 15

HIGHLAND MILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Close friends today elaborated on former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson's announcement that he will fight again this year.

The friends said Floyd's return to the ring would be made in Europe but they would not speculate on the opponent.

When Patterson announced Friday night that he would continue to fight, instead of retiring, he added that his next bout would be staged "no later than Nov. 15."

Floyd's desire for such a quick comeback surprised many boxing men who recalled that in each of his latest two bouts he had been knocked out in the first round by big Sonny Liston, heavyweight champion.

Liston took the crown from Floyd on a 2:06 kayo at Chicago, Sept. 25, 1962, and kept the title on a 2:10 knockout at Las Vegas, Nev., last July 22.

Despite those two quickies, Floyd explained here at his training camp:

"The hundreds of letters I received from all over the world since that Las Vegas knockout last month really tipped the scales for me."

He said nearly all of the letters urged him to continue fighting and to make one last try to regain the championship.

Butts' Lawyers Sharpen Arguments For Finish

ATLANTA (UPI) — Attorneys in Wallace Butts' $10 million libel suit against the Saturday Evening Post sharpened their final arguments Saturday for the curtain ringers this week to one of college football's sharpest controversies.

The trial was in recess Saturday and Sunday following two weeks of testimony and arguments in federal court. The 12-man jury is expected to get the case late Monday after final summations are concluded and Federal Judge Lewis R. Morgan instructs them.

Butts, the round little man who once led powerful football teams from the University of Georgia to Southeastern Conference championships and into the nation's bowl games, was pictured alternately Friday as a lover of night life and a man ruined by a scandalous story.

The Post claimed in an issue last March that Butts, while athletic director at Georgia, gave away football secrets to Alabama coach Paul (Bear) Bryant prior to last fall's Alabama-Georgia football game.

Both heatedly denied the allegations and both sued for $10 million.

Butts' suit is still pending in the federal court in Birmingham where Post attorneys are trying to get it moved to another state because they claim they can't get a fair trial in the popular coach's home territory.

In the opening of final arguments in the Butts suit Friday, Butts' attorney shouted to the jury that the career of the former coach and athletic director was "ruined" and Butts was "heart broken and a shell of his former self."

"March 18 was the blackest day to Wallace Butts that could ever befall any man," the attorney, Allen Lockerman, said.

"That was the day the article hit the newstands. On that day Wallace Butts became ashamed, heartbroken, just a shell of himself."

Post attorney Welborn Cody contended that Butts "snapped" because of too much night life and had plunged to the point where his best friends said he had "lost his character."

Cody said Butts was asked to resign as coach after 22 years because of his personal conduct but was permitted to remain at the school as athletic director.

"This same night life" led to Butts' forced resignation as athletic director, Cody said.

Tells Of Notes

Speaking of the notes Atlanta insurance man George Burnett testified he made in overhearing a telephone conversation between Butts and Bryant nine days before Alabama walloped Georgia 35-0, Cody said: "These notes were made by an amateur, not a football coach."

"A lot of them don't make any sense. But there is a lot in these notes."

Cody emphasized a notation Burnett made on the final page of the notes: "Give Wally a ring Sunday."

"This call (Sunday) from Bear Bryant to Wally Butts lasted an hour and seven minutes," Cody said. "And Butts and Bryant now say they do not remember such a call."

Gilchrist Redeems Self In Game

By United Press International
Cookie Gilchrist, reputed "bad boy" of professional football, has proved again that he's just as tough on the field.

The 243-pound fullback for the Buffalo Bills, whose numerous off-the-field scrapes have done almost as much to keep him in the headlines as his bone-crunching running, helped power the Bills to a 23-8 American Football League exhibition victory over the New York Jets Friday night.

Gilchrist scored from the two-yard line and piled up 64 yards in nine carries.

A crowd of 19,142 saw the Bills chalk up 29 points in the first half and coast to victory behind Gilchrist, quarterback Jackie Kemp and Mack Yoho's kicking.

At Bethlehem, Pa., 14,000 fans turned out to see rookie Terry Nofsinger throw an 80-yard touchdown pass to Red Mack and lead the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 24-13 triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles in a National Football League pre-season contest.

In the only other NFL game Friday night, the St. Louis Cardinals edged the San Francisco Forty Niners, 24-22, on Prentice Gautt's one-yard plunge in the last minute of play.

Promoters Yell To Get Dick Tiger For Fights

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Hold that Tiger — for me!"

That's what boxing promoters on both sides of the Atlantic are yelling at Willis N. (Jersey) Jones of North Arlington, N.J.

Jersey, 64 and foreign editor of The Ring Magazine, is also co-manager of Nigerian Dick Tiger, the very popular and very able world middleweight champion.

Medium-sized Jones — a leathery, blondish man with curly hair — says: "Everybody wants the Tiger for his next defense. And to hear some of them talk, you'd think they had him. But he's not signed for anything yet."

Since the Tiger's bloody, new, eighth-round technical knockout over ex-champ Gene Fullmer at Ibadan, Nigeria, on Aug. 10, the 160-pound ruler has become the most sought-after champion, excepting only heavyweight ruler Sonny Liston.

D. Weber Enters Tourney

Bowling's top money winner of 1963, Dick Weber of St. Louis, has signed as an entrant in the $20,500 City of Roses Open professional bowling tournament booked for 20th Century Lanes in Portland on Sept. 19-22.

Weber has cashed checks totaling $37,000 for his bowling efforts this year. He picked up a cool $15,000 for victory in the National All-Star last January and is currently in fourth place on the Professional Bowlers Association 1963 money list with $23,000 in winnings.

The 34-year-old pinblaster has won a total of eleven PBA tournaments in four years, a record unmatched by any other pro bowler.

The Weber story will have to be classified as sort of a comeback yarn. For a time in mid-1962, the one-time Indianapolis mail clerk's bowling career appeared to be in serious trouble because of a hidden cyst which developed on one of the fingers of his right hand.

It took weeks to discover and eliminate it, and then Weber had to devote another three months to recover his form. He finally started cashing checks again in the fall of 1962, finished 12th in the money in the PBA National Championship event in Philadelphia, and has been in top form ever since.

Most national bowling sages agree that Weber is now a top threat for the "Bowler of the Year" title in 1963.

Well known Oregon bowler, Champ Husted of Milwaukie, was also announced today as a City of Roses competitor along with five additional PBA members.

Husted first achieved local prominence as a member of the 1924 University of Oregon National Intercollegiate Championship team. He won the Oregon State Match Game Championships in 1959 and has carried a 200 plus league average for the past three years.

Husted is a member of the "Shivering Six"—a group of bowling proprietors co-sponsoring the City of Roses Open along with the 31 Kiwanis clubs responsible for the Mt. Hood Kiwanis Camp for Handicapped Children.

Seek Tiger-Papp Bout

For example, Championship Sports, Inc. — which promoted the last four heavyweight title fights — wants Tiger to make a defense "somewhere in the United States" on closed-circuit television against unbeaten Laszlo Papp of Hungary, champion of Europe.

Promoter Jack Solomons of London, who cooperated with the Nigerian government in staging the Tiger-Fullmer scrap at Ibadan, wants Tiger to defend against Papp at Vienna, where Solomons believes more than 70,000 would attend.

Matchmaker Teddy Brenner of Madison Square Garden is trying to get the Tiger and contender Rubin (Hurricane) Carter of Paterson, N.J., for a home-television title fight.

Meat-packer Joseph Bonaccorso of Philadelphia heads an 11-man syndicate that wants a Tiger-Joe Giardello title fight at the Philadelphia Convention Hall in November. Giardello, fighting out of Philadelphia, is now the top contender.

For each of those four proposals and for others that Jones has offered without mention, guarantees of at least $100,000 were offered the Tiger, Jersey said.

Hasn't anyone the inside track on the Tiger's next defense, a sports writer asked Jersey at his desk in The Ring Magazine headquarters.

"Well — I'd say Jack Solomons of London has the 'in' right now," Jersey reflected. "Jack did a great job with Tiger and Fullmer at Ibadan. And my friend Bobby Diamond of London, who manages Tiger in Europe, admires Solomons very much — and so do I."

How long has Jones co-managed the Tiger?

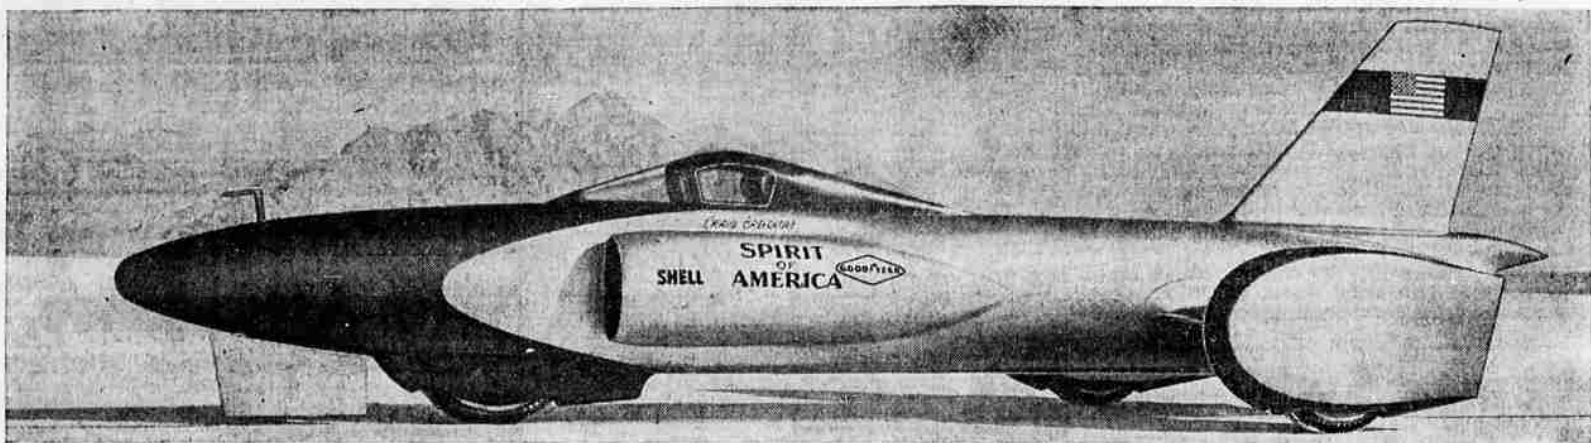

"I became associated with him in the summer of 1959," Jersey recalled. "You see I had been connected previously with featherweight champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey, Nigeria's first world champ. Because of my success with Bassey, Tiger came looking for me. I didn't look for him."

Hurls No-Hitter

PORTLAND (UPI) — Jackie Rice pitched a no-hit, no-run game Friday night to lead the 3-0 Lind Florists of Portland to a victory over the Port Angeles Blue Angels in the opening round of the Northwest Women's Invitational Softball Tournament here.

The Salem Shamrocks defeated the Yakima, Wash., Webb Cats, 4-0 earlier Friday.

Salem and the Florists will meet at 9:30 p.m. today and Yakima and Port Angeles will play the preliminary game.

NEW LAND SPEED RECORD! 407 M.P.H. ON GOODYEAR TIRES

Monday, August 5th Craig Breedlove, with a wingless jet, Goodyear tires and 170 pounds of heart, hope and guts brought the land speed record back to America.

7:15 a.m. The silence of the Bonneville Salt Flats was shattered by the whine of a 35 foot long jet racer. That whine became a roar as Craig Breedlove in his Spirit of America thundered into the record books.*

His speed: 388.49 mph one way, the other way . . . 428.37 mph! For an average of 407.45 miles an hour! Smashing the record held by England's John Cobb of 394.2 mph. A 1947 record that many experts thought could never be topped.

One of the most important problems that Breedlove faced when he first decided to give the land speed record a try was summed up in a statement that appeared in a leading automotive magazine:

"... there is no point in thinking of a land speed record car if there are no tires that will stand up to the required speed."

Goodyear engineers accepted the unique . . . almost impossible challenge . . . and . . .

A TIRE IS BORN

In his initial talk with Goodyear engineers, Breedlove said,

"I need a tire that can take it. One that's practically indestructible. I'm going to go 400 to 500 miles an hour. That's two to three times as fast as they drive at Daytona or Indianapolis. This has got to be more than just a racing tire. When I get to top speed, the tires will have about 100 tons of centrifugal force trying to pull them to pieces. That's why I came to Goodyear because you people have the know-how."

Goodyear engineers began to design, produce, and test the land speed tires. Most of the tire was cord . . . for strength. The cord was treated with Goodyear's exclusive 3-T triple-tempering, triple-toughening process . . . the same 3-T processing that goes into all Goodyear auto tires.

Each tire was tested on Goodyear's multi-stage dynamometer at speeds in excess of 600 miles per hour. Not one failed!

Craig Breedlove — first American to hold the Land Speed Record in 35 years. Breedlove built the "Spirit" in his garage. His estimate of a $10,000 car was exceeded ten-fold, before the car even left for the Salt.

TIRE OF THE FUTURE

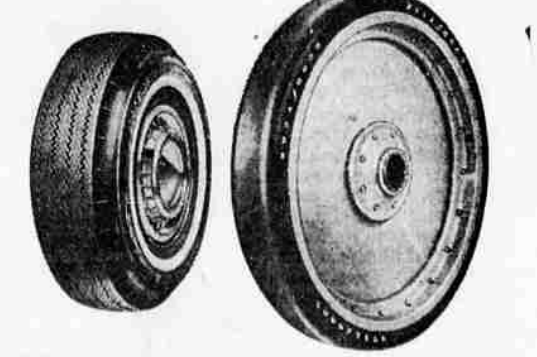

In the making of Breedlove's record breaking tires, Goodyear scientists and engineers came up with developments and discoveries that will affect the tires you drive for many years to come.

Goodyear engineers say that the tire of the future may well be built around a key design feature of these land speed record tires.

When Craig Breedlove and his Spirit of America started at the far end of the 10-mile black stripe that marks the Bonneville course, he knew he was riding on the finest tires in the world. With that worry off his mind . . . he sped to the record speed of 407.45 mph . . . and became the fastest man on earth.

Goodyear engineer checks 4-foot high tires. Special Goodyear high-speed dynamometer test simulated the 12,110 pounds of centrifugal force that is exerted at the tread surface at speeds of more than 600 mph.

Today you can get the benefit of Goodyear's superior high-speed developments in great, new Tulsyn tires. Built only by Goodyear, Tulsyn tires deliver up to 25% more durability, giving far more mileage. You can buy these Goodyear tires in all sizes for all cars from your Goodyear Dealer or Store . . . today.

*Breedlove's speed — as an official world record — is subject to confirmation by the Federation Internationale Motocycliste, since this event was held under their International Sporting Code.
