Bo Belinsky got his lumps but Hawaii still outlasted Tacoma 8-7 in an 11-inning Pacific Coast League battle Monday night to move past the Giants in the southern division chase.

The news that Belinsky would start brought a remarkable Monday night crowd of 7,400 and their Bo did not disappoint for five innings as he pitched shutout ball and helped Hawaii's attack with his hitting.

It was 5-0 when the roof fell in and Tacoma scored four times. Bill Hain homered with two aboard in the eighth, but Hawaii tied it up when Spanky Kirkpatrick hit a two-run belt in the bottom of the eighth.

Charley Dees finally ended the contest when he doubled home Ron Samford in the 11th to hand the win to Al Thomas and the loss to Ron Herbel.

But Belinsky emerged with his 2-0 record intact and the Hawaii management can be happy that it has a real gate attraction in Belinsky.

Elsewhere around the league Monday night, San Diego's Ray Rippelmeyer put on a hitting and pitching show as San Diego blanked Spokane 4-0.

Oklahoma City stayed 2 1/2 games ahead of Dallas-Ft. Worth in the southern division chase by edging Denver 3-2 while Dallas rolled over Salt Lake City 9-1. Portland and Seattle took the night off.

Rippelmeyer (10-2) tossed a one-hitter and blasted a two-run homer at Spokane. Mike Brunley got the lone hit off the right-hander.

Dick Scott got greeted by four straight hits and gave way to Joe Moeller who almost matched Rippelmeyer's brilliance. But it was too late for the Indians by then.

Everything went wrong for Denver in the ninth inning against Oklahoma City.

It was 2-2 when Al Heist walked. Danny Murphy bunted and was safe on an error. Jim Mahoney tried to sacrifice but all hands were safe when Denver's Chi Chi Olivo broke the wrong way to field it. Then George Williams hit a bloop single to drive in what proved to be the winning run.

It was a tough loss for the workhorse Olivo, who goes both as a starter and reliever. Tom Borland came on for Dallas to get the win.

Tony Oliva, George Banks and Cesar Tovar hit homers to lead Dallas-Ft. Worth past Salt Lake City. Ted Sudowski got the victory with a six-hitter.

JURY STILL OUT — Wallace Butts is shown at left as he digs in his pocket for change to buy a newspaper at his hotel in Atlanta where he awaits the results of a jury decision in his libel suit against the Saturday Evening Post. The jury resumed deliberation today after 6 1/2 hours Monday and no decision.

Today's Sportrait: Weill Eyes Promotion Front

By JACK CUDDY
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Al Weill, perhaps the ring's most successful all-time all-around "front man" — manager, matchmaker and promoter — did two things today, at the age of 69.

He flew to Washington, D. C., to confer with the light heavyweight Bob Foster about the possibility of Bob becoming his fighter.

And he mailed a bid to Miami Beach for himself and Abe Saperstein of the basketball Globetrotters to promote boxing and wrestling at the Miami Beach Convention Hall and Auditorium.

Although Weill, a wealthy man, now lives at Miami Beach, he explained at his New York Hotel, "I was surprised when the people at the Beach notified me they were taking bids for promotion there."

"Al, known as the 'Bull' and the 'Vestkit' in his younger and pudgier days, is best remembered as the manager of four world champions: heavyweight Rocky Marciano, welterweight Marty Servo, lightweight Lou Ambers and featherweight Joey Archibald.

Talks of Foster
"What about this new man, Foster — at Washington?" A reporter asked a gray-haired and somewhat smallish Al, who has pared down from about 175 to 149 at the request of the Mayo Bros. (Doctors — not fighters).

"Foster wrote me," Weill began, "and said he would like to have me manage him. I remember I see him fight last October at the Garden. He went in as a substitute against heavyweight Doug Jones and looked awful good until he ran out of gas and got stopped in the eighth round. Bob only weighed 174 pounds against Jones' 182."

Al emphasized that Jones of New York is now the world's second ranking heavyweight, just under Cassius Clay. Meanwhile, Foster informs Al he is growing and will be a heavyweight soon.

"Maybe Foster and I can do business," said Al optimistically. "I think he's lost only that one fight in his 13 or 14 starts."

None Others
Has Al any other fighters now? "No," he explained, "I don't take boys now unless I think they've got a lotta ability and are willling to work hard. I may go up to Toronto soon to look over some young Canadian amateur prospects that Sammy Luftspring likes."

Luftspring, former welterweight and middleweight, was one of Weill's favorites — among the 320 fighters he managed. Sammy now owns a night club in Toronto.

Has Weill managed any good boys since Marciano retired in 1956 as the only perfect-record heavyweight champion?

"Nobody of any importance," he said. "Heavyweight Dave Rent of England looked good for a while. But he suffered an eye injury and retired."

Blonde School Teacher Eyes Ladies' Golf Title

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (UPI) — Defending champion Jo Anne Gunderson, a Sunday golfer with a pro-like drive, went into the second round at the 63rd USGA Women's Amateur tournament today bent on outdoing Mrs. Anne Quast Wells.

Both girls staged sparkling subpar performances Monday to earn second round berths at the Taconic Golf Club in this scenic Berkshire Hills community.

Miss Gunderson, a 23-year-old blonde school teacher from Providence, R. I., who is seeking her fourth title in seven years, ousted Mrs. William Warren of Rochester, N. Y., 6 and 5, with a front nine one-under-par 33.

Mrs. Wells of Mt. Vernon, Wash., chasing her third title since 1938, also carded a 35 going out and similarly defeated her opponent, Mrs. John Pennington of Buffalo, N. Y., 6 and 5.

Former champions Barbara McIntire of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Mrs. Grace Lenzyk Cronin of Hartford, Conn., were not as lucky on the par-72, 6,105-yard course.

Elizabeth Fleitas of Greenville, Del., current champion of that state, posted a one-up lead on the 15th hole and halved the last three to defeat Mrs. McIntire.

Former Vermont and New England champion Mae Murray Jones, a Montpelier, Vt., housewife, pulled an upset victory when she paired the second extra hole as Mrs. Cronin bogied.

Janis Ferraris of San Francisco, USGA girls' junior amateur champ, and Peggy Conley of Spokane, Wash., girls' junior runner-up, were top victors among the younger contenders.

Miss Conley, 16, beat this year's eastern champion, Phyllis Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla., 3 and 2, while Miss Ferraris, also 16, ousted Jean Bryant of Hindsdale, Mass., one up.

Mary Lou Daniel, 1962 girls' junior amateur champion from Louisville, Ky., jumped to a quick four-hole lead to swamp Mrs. Arthur Flash of Harrison, N. Y., 8 and 6.

Five-time Curtis Cup team member Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., squeezed out a one-up victory over Diana Hoke of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Two rounds will be played Wednesday and one Thursday, with the semifinals Friday followed by Saturday's 36-hole final.

Federal Jury Resumes Further Deliberation On Wally Butts' Libel Suit Against Post

ATLANTA (UPI) — Wallace Butts won a multi-million dollar libel suit against the Saturday Evening Post today. A federal jury awarded him $3,000,000.

ATLANTA (UPI) — A federal jury today resumed deliberations on whether Wallace Butts is a traitor to Georgia football or an innocent man ruined by a magazine's "sophisticated muckraking."

The 12-man jury deliberated 6 hours and 30 minutes Monday night before retiring at 10:45 p.m., EDT, without reaching a decision in Butts' $10 million libel suit against the Saturday Evening Post. The panel of businessmen was scheduled to resume its deliberations at 10 a.m., EDT today.

Monday night the jurors apparently took at least one ballot — and failed to agree — before retiring.

The jury is trying to decide if the Post told the truth or libeled the former Georgia athletic director in a March article called "The Story of a College Football Fix."

It claimed Butts gave Alabama coach Paul (Bear) Bryant secrets of the Georgia team one week before the 1962 Georgia-Alabama game. Alabama, favored by 17 points, trounced Georgia 35-0 in the game.

Denies Fix Charge
Butts denied — once in tears — that he gave away secrets, and demands $10 million in damages from the Curtis Publishing Co.

The 12 jurors, none of whom played college football, received the case at 4:02 p.m., EDT, Monday. Federal District Judge Lewis R. Morgan told them the story was libelous on its face, and in order to win its case the Post had to prove it was true.

Morgan, in his 38-minute charge to the jury, said the jurors had to bring in a verdict in favor of either Butts or the publishing firm. In the event of a verdict for Butts, who wants $5 million in general damages and $5 million more in punitive damages, he said the jury must determine the amount of the damages.

"You are the supreme judges of the facts and none may invade that province," the judge said. He noted that there was "sharp conflict" in the testimony.

He said the jury, if it found that the Post partially established the truth of its article, could mitigate the damages.

William Schroeder, Butts' attorney, summed up his case for the jury by charging that the magazine "does not care about anybody or anyone's reputation and it's up to you to stop them."

"Killing a man's reputation is worse than death to me," he said. "Can you imagine anything worse than to be still alive and attend the funeral of your own reputation?"

Schroeder, who got so excited in his summation to the jury that the judge had to ask him to calm down, was an honor graduate of the 1938 University of Georgia Law School class and played football at Notre Dame during his undergraduate days.

Post attorney Welborn Cody said "this case boils down to one fact alone — that information was passed that affected the outcome of that game." If Butts "tampered" with the game in advance, said Cody, "then he is corrupt."

Lane Calls Ortiz Bluff

SAGINAW, Mich. (UPI) — Southpaw Kenny Lane of Muskegon, Mich., charging that Carlos Ortiz "is a champion by manipulation," said today he is ready to fight Ortiz "the sooner the better" for the world lightweight championship after winning the Michigan version of the crown.

Lane, 31, who has spent most of his career trying to get the champions in the ring with him, battered Paule Armstead of Los Angeles to win a unanimous 15-round decision and the Michigan version of the lightweight title Monday night.

But the World Boxing Association did a turnaround Sunday and recognized Ortiz of New York as the world champ after stripping him of his title last June for failing to defend it.

The WBA ordered Ortiz to sign for a fight with Monday night's winner for the title within 60 days "unless the conditions imposed on the champ are unfair."

Armstead was bitter about the verdict, claiming it was a "home-town decision." He added, "Boxing should be banned in Michigan."

Referee Lou Jallios gave it to Lane, 148-143, while Judge Don Dille had it 147-141 and Judge Wes Tebeau 146-138.

Lane weighed in at 134 1/4 pounds, and Armstead at 133.

U.S. Victory Rocks Japan

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese swimming experts and fans were thoroughly disgusted today with Japan's one-sided defeat in the three-day dual meet with the United States.

There was mounting criticism of the training program of the Japan Swimming Federation, and the Japanese Education Ministry was requested to permit competitive swimming among grade school children in an effort to develop swimmers.

The Japanese people, long swimming enthusiasts, were shocked by the 63-22 victory scored by the 17-man American team, averaging 18 years in age, in the meet which ended Monday at the 50-meter outdoor Meiji pool.

Hal Weston Leads Meet

PORTLAND (UPI) — C. H. (Hal) Weston of Portland fired a four-under-par 68 at Waverly Country Club Monday to take the first day lead in qualifying for the Oregon Junior - Seniors Golf Association tournament.

Weston's 34-34 left him five strokes ahead of Sid Milligan of Eugene, who turned in a 37-36-75.

George Beechler, Prineville, former Oregon Golf Association match play champion, was another stroke behind at 38-36-74. Tied at 75 were Fran Brinkman, Orchard Hills; Sandy Wollin, Tualatin, and DeWitt Jones of Portland's Riverside Golf Club.
