Shot Leads To Charges

A man was arrested for disorderly conduct Wednesday afternoon after his stepdaughter complained that he threw her to the floor of his house and fired a shot into the floor near her feet.

The man, 48-year-old William D. Shelby, 2236 Radcliffe Avenue, was booked at city jail after his stepdaughter, Shirley Emerson, 2666 Eberlein Avenue, signed a citizen's arrest. She indicated to police she may seek a complaint for assault with a dangerous weapon.

She said she had gone to the house to visit her mother and Shelby had come into the house, grabbed her by the hair and threw her to the floor. Then, she said, he took a .22-pistol and fired into the floor, all for no apparent reason. She called police.

Recreation Chief Says Projects Progressing

City recreation director Gary Woodring reported Thursday that several summer development projects are progressing very well.

He said the city street department is leveling the ice skating rink at Moore Park and when this is completed, a waterproof asphalt seal coat will be laid down. In addition, an asphalt curb surrounding the rink will be constructed.

Estimated cost of this project is $4,500, of which $1,400 comes from ice skating admission fees paid during the past two seasons.

Woodring said the improvement will extend the skating season and will provide a more economically maintained facility.

The director said Richmond, a "half-acre weed-infested eyecore at Second and McKinley streets until about one month ago," is being improved by leveling and contouring and the construction of several facilities. Among these are a 270-foot concrete retaining wall, a 32-foot-diameter sandpit, a drinking fountain, a night light and an automatic irrigation system. The automatic system is the first to be installed in the city park system.

Planting of trees and shrubs before fall is planned for Richmond. Estimated cost of the project is $4,000, including the installation of some play apparatus next year.

A $4,000 restroom at Kit Carson Park is nearing completion. This building is financed by the Klamath Falls Kiwanis Club. Also, a baseball field has been leveled at the north end of the park and installation of an underground irrigation system and planting of grass are scheduled before fall. Construction of a baseball backdrop is planned for next spring.

At Conger Park, unification of the park and the baseball field into one area is under way. Grading is completed and construction of a new baseball field is under way.

County firemen extinguished the flames before they could spread to the building and no damage was listed. The alarm was turned in at 6:24 p.m.

Firemen said flames from a nearby trash fire ignited the oil, which had spilled on the ground.

Pair Debates Test Ban Before Chamber Group

Nations without nuclear capabilities would find it more difficult to develop in the nuclear field under the regulations of the U.S.-Soviet Nuclear Test Ban Treaty, Wayne Blair told the Klamath County Chamber of Commerce during its weekly meeting at the Pelican Cafe Wednesday.

Further, the establishment of the treaty would also tend to reduce world tension, Blair commented as he pointed out the advantages of the proposed treaty while Dr. Glenn Miller remarked on the opposing view during a brief debate following the chamber's business meeting.

The debate was part of the chamber's program which also included remarks by Chamber Manager George Callison relating to the Winnemucca-to-the-Sea Highway Association and the Okanogan Cariboo Trail Association; a report by Floyd Wynne, director of the Local and State Affairs Committee, on tax referral petitions in circulation within the state, and comments by Jim Monteith, president of the chamber, on the forthcoming election of five new members to the board of directors and the resetting of the date for the chamber's annual board meeting.

In continuing his assertions, Blair said the treaty would result in eliminating the pollution of air and water with Strontium 90, which has increased in the atmosphere due to nuclear testing.

"I disapprove of the possibility that we will leave our progeny a legacy of such pollution," he said. Dr. Miller later argued that studies made of radioactivity in the atmosphere have indicated that the increase of radioactive material in the air due to fissionable explosions has been negligible.

In rebuttal, Blair cited some reports which were contrary to information presented by Dr. Miller. Blair stated that surveys had proved that some residents of Utah and others living in the Arctic had assimilated significant amounts of radioactivity.

On another point, Dr. Miller failed to perceive how the United States could profit by entering into a treaty with the Soviet Union, because "history reveals that the Soviet has not honored its treaties," he said.

He referred more specifically to the German-Russo nonaggression pact before World War II and the treaty of Versailles. "That nation's attitude toward treaties isn't changed," he pointed out.

Dr. Miller agreed with Blair that the establishment of the treaty might reduce world tension. "It would probably reduce our tension to the point of lulling us to sleep and placing us off guard," he concluded.

In other business, George Callison reported that nearly 100 members of the Okanogan Cariboo Trail Association from Fairbanks, Alaska, to Reno, Nev., and has been instrumental in campaigning to have Highway 97 designated as the official Pan American Highway linking Alaska with South America.

Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Jones, Klamath Falls; two brothers, Kenneth Jones, San Diego, Roger Jones, Klamath Falls; three sisters, Susan, Debra, Laura, Klamath Falls; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Jones, Klamath Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Woodward, Seattle.

Funeral services will be held Friday, Aug. 23, at 3 p.m. from O'Hair's Memorial Chapel with Rev. Laing Sibbet of Peace Memorial Presbyterian Church officiating. Final rites and burial will be in Klamath Memorial Park.

Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Jones, Klamath Falls; two brothers, Kenneth Jones, San Diego, Roger Jones, Klamath Falls; three sisters, Susan, Debra, Laura, Klamath Falls; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Jones, Klamath Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Woodward, Seattle.

Callison remarked that the Tourist and Convention Committee would meet soon with the Roads and Highways Committee to prepare a program for the association's preliminary meeting in this city.

The association is comprised of members of chambers of commerce, boards of trade and individual memberships from Fairbanks, Alaska, to Reno, Nev., and has been instrumental in campaigning to have Highway 97 designated as the official Pan American Highway linking Alaska with South America.

HARVEST TIME — This is typical harvest scene with harvesters biting into great fields of barley in the Klamath country. This equipment, handled by one man, cut and threshed barley in the Tulelake area, and funneled grain into a truck for delivery to the elevator. Grain harvest, including maling barley, durum wheat and oats is now under way.

Jury Here Finds Airman Guilty Of Simple Assault

A jury of seven women and five men Wednesday night convicted Charles Wesley Jones of simple assault and battery after deliberating nearly five hours.

Jones, a 19-year-old airman from McChord AFB, Wash., had originally been charged with assault and battery with force likely to produce great bodily harm. But the jury reduced this to the misdemeanor charge.

Jones was accused of beating a teen-age Klamath Falls girl during a party at a house near Kingsley Field May 19 after the girl had resisted his advances.

Circuit Court Judge Donald Piper called for an investigation into Jones' record before sentencing.

The trial began Monday morning and Asst. Dist. Atty. Bob Thomas called 18 witnesses and produced 36 exhibits before closing.
