

Towel-Buying Time, Again

By KAY SHERWOOD

Late summer sales of household linens are a good excuse to give more than passing thought to bathroom supplies. Frayed towels might better be retired to "swimming pool only" duty and a new bath ensemble selected.

Not all the handsome new patterns in bath towelings will be on sale. But, my theory is to economize on simple-but-sturdy towels for the children and our everyday use. Then I like to have one or two really pretty, luxurious sets waiting for special occasions, not only for company but for the family, too.

The surprise today is the variety of patterns and colors on tap for the bathroom. Besides towels, there are accessories which have great freshness and imagination. I'm thinking of the saucy Italian holders that turn the old toothbrush into a brightly colored pierced cup with matching flower-shaped containers for cologne and soap.

Brass and wrought iron accessories also shine. The Spanish influence is there and so is the French look of ornate chic. It might take a curlicue or two to handle some of the new prints in bathroom towels.

One of the most interesting towels—and elegant—is a new, detailed, screen-print Provence toile pattern printed on good old, thick, lint-free terry cloth. New manufacturing techniques are responsible for the velvety textures you will find.

With these elegant new towels, washability is still a prime factor. Wash them as you would any towel but don't let them get overly soiled, thus requiring heavy bleaching. I add a fabric-softener about every two or three launderings.

MARRIED IN SOUTH — Rev. and Mrs. Joel Pearson Easterling will make their home in Meadville, Miss., where he pastors two churches. Mrs. Easterling is the former Joyce Marie Askins, whose family lived in Klamath Falls at one time.

Former Klamath Girl Weds In South Carolina

The marriage of Joyce Marie Askins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Askins of Hartsville, S.C., formerly of Klamath Falls, to Rev. Joel Pearson Easterling, son of Mrs. Willie McKay Brewer of Bennettsville, S.C., and Mr. Pearson M. Easterling of Hartsville, was solemnized on Aug. 3, 1963, at 6:30 p.m. at Emmanuel Baptist Church, Hartsville, Mo., and Hartsville.

Rev. Milton Frazier performed the double ring ceremony. A pre-wedding program of music was presented by Mrs. Milton Frazier, church organist. Elizabeth Rolfe sang "Because" and "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee." Mrs. Frazier played "Through the Years." At the end of the "The Lord's Prayer." The traditional wedding marches were used.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown designed and made by herself and a friend, Mrs. Laverne Huggins. The fitted bodice was of French imported silk-nylon lace with sleeves that came to a point. The vee neckline of the gown was edged with scallops. The full gathered skirt was of white satin with a chapel train of lace which ended in scallops at the floor. Completing the back interest was a white satin cabbage rose encircled by scalloped lace, attached at the waist. Her elbow-length veil of nylon illusion fell from a forward crown of clustered silk organza miniature carnations studded with seed pearls on silk organza leaves. She carried a cascade of white orchids and pink roses.

Burney Bristow of Hartsville, maid of honor, wore a sleeveless street length dress of rose raw silk over light pink taffeta fashioned with a round neckline and gathered skirt which had a straight front panel. A tailored bow clasped the belt in the front. Her headpiece was a circular veil of light pink tulle topped by pink fabric flowers. Her accessories were white elbow-length gloves and a single-strand necklace of aurora crystals. The slippers were dyed to match her dress. She carried a single white rose. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Judy Easterling of Hartsville, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Sudie Easterling of Rowland, N.C., sister of the bridegroom; Cecelia Enns of Hartsville and Mary-Ann Swindell of Cary, N.C., cousin of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids wore identical to that of the maid of honor.

Kathy Murphy of Hartsville was flower girl. She wore a floor-length dress of rose silk over light pink taffeta, fashioned and gathered skirt. Her headpiece was a veil of light pink tulle attached to a bandeau of light pink fabric flowers. She carried a basket of rose petals. Ringbearer was Allen Rolfe of Hartsville.

James Easterling served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Dan G. Askins Jr., Howard Gaine, both of Hartsville, and cousins of the bride; George Pittman of Rowland, N.C., half-brother of the groom and Terry Thompson of Hartsville.

The mother of the bride wore a sheath dress of creamy yellow lace over cream taffeta and silk organza. The mother of the bridegroom chose a taffeta brocade taffeta dress with an overskirt of green chiffon. Their corsages were white mums.

Mrs. C. B. Askins, I. Hartsville, and Mrs. D. W. Nelson of Klamath Falls, grandmothers of the bride, were presented with corsages of white mums as were Mrs. Bill Hirshey, Mrs. Ben Runnels, and Mrs. Walter White, all of Klamath Falls, aunts of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Norwood of Darlington, S.C., greeted the guests on the side porch. Mrs. Dan G. Askins Jr. of Hartsville presided at the registry. At the refreshment table were Mrs. Marcus Dudley, Mrs. Laverne Huggins, Mrs. Andrew Hursey and Mrs. Al Rolfe, all of Hartsville. Elizabeth Rolfe Green of Covington, Ga., and Sue Swindell of Cary, N.C., assisted in serving. In charge of the gifts were Sandra Huggins and Gayle Murphy, both of Hartsville.

Leaving the reception for a wedding trip, the bride wore an aqua skimmer of whipped-cream crepe, with white accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid from her bouquet.

The bride is a 1960 graduate of Hartsville High School and attended Coker College. She was formerly employed as secretary.

A 1954 graduate of Hartsville High School, Rev. Easterling attended Eastern Carolina College, Greenville, N.C., and graduated from Presbyterian College, Clinton, S.C., class of '58. He served as assistant to the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Alexandria, La., during 1960-61. A 1962 alumnus of Columbia Seminary, Decatur, Ga., with a B.D. degree, he is now serving the Meadville and Oldenburg Presbyterian Churches, Meadville, Miss.
