Puzzle Still Unsolved; $2,500 Awaits Winner

EXPLANATIONS ACROSS

1. A bet that is DOUBTED may never have been made and therefore would have no winner. A bet that is DOUBLED would probably have a winner.

7. Some MULLETS or fish must depend upon rainfall where streams are drying up. All MILLETS or grass seed depends upon rainfall.

8. A LOGGER or machine for hauling and loading logs might be left behind in the woods for the next day's work. Someone would probably wait for a LAG-

GER or one who follows slowly or he would finally get out of the woods by himself.

9. Most of us would rather not have to SUE miserable or unhappy people. We might want to SEE such people if we loved or cared about them.

10. N.C. is the abbreviation for North Carolina.

12. A fine wooden TRAY should last for many years with proper care. Regardless of care, a fine wooden DRAY or wagon could wear out in a few years under heavy use.

14. A foolish RAFT could upset and drown one or both boys and thus terminate their friendship. A foolish RIFT could be slight and soon forgotten.

17. Some people need a small DRUM before they are really awake. They couldn't swallow a small DRAM of anything before they were really awake.

20. A small boy soon learns something about his country's CIVICS or duties of citizenship. He might know something about a few CITIES but certainly not all of them.

21. A smart LION knows when to duck and get away. Any LOON or fish-eating bird knows when to duck and dive without being smart.

22. No gentleman would indulge in an unfair SHUFFLE while playing cards since it would be dishonest. He might be forced to indulge in an unfair SCUFFLE with someone much bigger than himself.

11. The right sort of CAUTION in writing and photography will improve a moving picture. The right sort of CAUTION may improve the sale of the picture but not the picture itself.

13. Attempting to mend her broken doll, a child might find it was useless to CRY although the doll had been able to cry before. The child might find it was not useless to TRY since all other damage might be repaired.

15. F.C. is an abbreviation for Fire Controlman, U.S. Navy.

16. Fast bowling balls may damage a pin boy's PINS or legs if he were not careful. They are not likely to harm protected PITS where the ball drops.

18. Intelligent women do not need the RAFF or collar that occasionally surrounds them but they could find it decorative even today. In an executive position they might need the RAFF or raffish whom they employ for manual tasks.

19. Someone might be moved to another location by a serious little MIME or actor even if he were a dwarf. A serious little MITE or child would probably lack the ability to move someone to a new location.

Stock Fraud Lawsuit Filed

PORTLAND (UPI)—A telephone company employee from Creswell who claims he was the victim of fraudulent misrepresentation in the sale of out-of-state mining stock has filed suit in U.S. District Court here.

LeRoy McAchey demanded $17,500 in damages from Lou Purigraski, a Phoenix, Ariz., mining stock speculator, and Henry Kelly, a tractor mechanic from Las Vegas, Nev.

McAchey asserted in the complaint that the defendants misrepresented themselves, saying they were owners and operators of certain mining claims of great value. He charged the defendants with "planning and concerting" to take his money.

He asked return of $21,500 which he said he paid to the defendants, plus $15,000 punitive damages and $1,000 for time lost and legal fees.

Services Held For G. Howe

LAKEVIEW — George William Howe, 65, a resident of this area for about 30 years, died here Aug. 21. He was born at Pike View, Colo., July 31, 1896.

Funeral services were held Saturday, Aug. 24, at the Oakes-Osterman Chapel with the Rev. A. R. Miller officiating. Burial was in the 100th Cemetery.

Typewritten Notes Not Out Of Order

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter for my parents. They don't know the difference between a party-goer and a party-crasher.

Last night I gave a palama party for eight girls. About 9:30 p.m. five fellows dropped over to say "hi." We knew all the boys and they are respectable and decent fellows. My parents knew them, too. They have all been over to the house at some time or another.

The boys stayed for about half an hour and my folks were very cordial to them, but as soon as they left we got a blistering parental sermon on party-crashers.

Please tell my uninformed parents that party-crashers are kids who come to a party uninvited and try to wreck the place. These fellows were very well-behaved and we were happy they came over. Thank you a whole lot.

TERRY AND HER FRIENDS:
Sorry, but a party-crasher is one who shows up at a party uninvited. Whether the person intends to wreck the place or behave properly is beside the point. He is still a party-crasher.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I bought a new home two blocks from my parents. Jim had to go out of town on business just as we were moving into the new house, so my father, who is very handy, hung all the pictures and mirrors and did a lot of the odd jobs for me.

When Jim came home I thought he'd be thrilled to see everything set up. But instead he was very disappointed. He said he had wanted to do those things himself and that I should have waited for him.

Jim has always resented my closeness to my family and I feel he is acting like a spoiled child. Of course he found fault with the way the pictures were hung. He pointed out that the curtain rods were crooked and so on.

I love my family and I love Jim, too. Please tell me if you think Jim is being too possessive or if you feel I was wrong—WOE IS ME.

Dear Woe: There is a strong competitive spirit between your husband and your father. This is natural but you should attempt to reduce the competition — not encourage it.

When a girl marries, her husband should replace her father as the Number One man in her life. You should have checked with Jim to learn if he wanted to hang the pictures. Now he feels slighted, and with pretty good reason.

Dear Ann Landers: My handwriting is simply terrible. I have been ashamed of it ever since I was in high school. I have tried to improve it but I'm just a lousy writer and that's all there is to it. So I type all my personal letters and notes.

A friend of mine recently called me down about this. My brother passed away several days ago and I acknowledged flowers and cards with personal typewritten notes on my own stationery. I believe this is a cut above those printed and engraved cards where you fill in your name. May I have your opinion?—ILLEGIBLE ILKA

Dear Ilka: I believe it is far better to send a personally signed typewritten note of thanks than a handwritten one which cannot be read.

I agree with you that the engraved or commercially printed cards are cold and impersonal, and that your method is better.

Add Tricks By Thinking

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Good defense is far rougher than good dummy play. Some how or other it is much harder to visualize the division of cards between your partner and the declarer than for declarer to visualize the division between his opponents.

West opened the six of hearts and East's king lost to declarer's ace. South led a diamond to dummy's jack, then tried the club finesse.

At this point most defenders would simply lead the jack of hearts in order to establish some heart tricks. West was not the ordinary defender. He took time out to think. What bid declarer held for his opening bid? The ace and queen of hearts made 6 points. The king of diamonds made nine and the ace of clubs 13.

Could East hold either the king of diamonds or the ace of clubs? No! If he had one of them he would have played it when he had the chance.

How about the ace of spades? If South held it he would have held 17 points and opened one no-trump. Hence, East is marked with the ace of spades and a spade shift is clearly indicated.

West shifts to a spade, but if he wants to beat the hand he must lead the king. He continues with the deuce whereupon East takes his ace and leads back the suit to give West two more tricks.
