WALL STREET

NEW YORK (UPI)—The threat of a nationwide rail strike cast its shadow over Wall Street today and turned a nervous stock market lower.

Besides the rail strike threat, the financial community also was adopting a cautious attitude over the march on Washington Wednesday. Brokers said they do not expect much to happen in the market until both of these have been resolved.

WALL STREET CHATTER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investment adviser James Dines calls traders to "come join the feast."

However, he warns investors to delay new commitments unless the stock they're after is already depressed and would be relatively steady in a period of general market weakness.

Alexander Hamilton Institute, Inc. says that while the rising market is creating an optimistic atmosphere, good securities admittedly are selling at high levels. It sees "little to recommend at current prices and believes continued caution is advisable."

With the Dow-Jones industrial average tracing a highly favorable pattern of conservative increases, Colby & Co., Inc. looks for an irregularly higher market "and a comparatively near-term move into new highs for this year."

Spear & Staff, Inc. says it seems evident that political-economic events — such as the rail situtation and the final shape of the tax-cut measure — will probably influence the near-term course of the market. The investment advisor continues to advise a policy of moderate caution with emphasis on more conservative issues selling at reasonable price-to-earnings ratios.

Assault Trial Nears End

The trial of a 34-year-old transient charged with shooting a Chiloquin man was scheduled to go to the jury at noon today following two days of testimony.

Arthur Summers is charged with assault with a dangerous weapon stemming from the shooting of 24-year-old Lawrence W. Mose June 12 during a drinking party in a Commercial Street residence.

Witnesses testified Monday that Mose and Summers had argued before Mose was shot with the .32 caliber semi-automatic pistol. The bullet entered Mose's side and was the cause of internal bleeding.

Summers testified this morning that he pulled the pistol from his pocket because he was "scared" of Mose, who, he said, had struck him twice. Summers said he did not remember pulling the trigger of the pistol, however. Summers said he lost the gun later that night before he was arrested.

Mose was subpoenaed in Portland, but didn't show up for the trial.

The case is being heard before Circuit Court Judge Donald Piper and a jury of three men and nine women. Assistant District Attorney Robert Thomas is prosecuting and William Brandsness is defense attorney.

Power Company Warns Of Irrigation Hazzards

Irrigators are being cautioned anew this week to exercise extreme care in moving large metal pipes or sprinkler system equipment in the vicinity of electric power lines.

"Regardless of how many times the pleas for this safety precaution are repeated there has rarely been an irrigation season pass without a tragic accident that demonstrates again the need for constantly remembering to be careful when moving the metal pipes," explained Pacific Power and Light Company's local manager, Sam Ritchey.

"Irrigation system pipes should never be upended when near power lines.

"And when mobile sprinkler equipment is to be moved from one field to another the power in overhead lines crossing the fields should be turned off or the equipment dismantled so it will not brush against or be entangled in live electric service lines," he added.

Another source of hazard is the electric motor which powers the irrigation pressure pump, it was stated.

"Be certain that the motors are properly grounded, and make a check of all insulation to be certain it has not become worn off," he added.

The PP&L manager said summertime help or new ranch hands should be instructed about the location of the lines on each farm.

Competition Expected To Increase

TULELAKE—With next Friday, Aug. 30, the deadline for exhibit registration in the Tulelake-Butte Valley Fair, and many more categories open this year to Klamath County residents, Bill Whitaker, manager, reports that he expects more competition than ever before.

Over $16,000 in prizes and premiums is offered in 880 contests, plus the Rotary Club's auction of 4-H and FFA animals, which paid junior exhibitors more than $25,000 last year.

The fair will be held at Tulelake Sept. 7 - 9.

Grass Fires Extinguished

Grass fires continue to plague the fire departments with two reported Monday.

The city substation was called to 1800 Orchard Avenue at 9:05 p.m. to extinguish a minor grass fire that resulted in no damage. The substation was assisted by a rig from the main station.

The Suburban Volunteer Fire Department at 2:53 p.m. went to 3928 Bisbee Street where some sparks from burning trash ignited dry grass on the open lot.

The volunteers extinguished the fire quickly and there was no damage reported.

Switches Plea

Robert Quentin Stitch, who was charged with forging checks for $407.11, has switched his plea to guilty.

Stitch was placed on four years' probation by Circuit Court Judge Donald Piper. He had originally been scheduled to go on trial Monday, but changed his plea to guilty last week.

The "Baby Beaver," small unit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile, begins its annual tour of rural areas of Klamath County with a visit to the Gilchrist School gymnasium Tuesday, Aug. 27, from 4 to 8 p.m.

The Gilchrist PTA is sponsoring the visit. Residents of Gilchrist, Crescent and Chemult are asked to be donors at the Gilchrist headquarters.

Quota for each day's operation is 50 pints. Mrs. Winston Purvine, blood program chairman for the local chapter, urges that all donors in the rural area make a special effort to give blood when the Baby Beaver Bloodmobile visits their own community once each year.

OLIVIA KIRK

BEATTY—The death of Mrs. Olivia Kirk, 50, is mourned by the Beatty community where she had devoted much of her time to civic work. Mrs. Kirk died recently.

They were the parents of one son, Leslie Norman Kirk. Mrs. Kirk was the mother of three children by a former marriage, Geraldeen Nelson Kirk, Maxine Nelson Bluecloud and Aaron Lee Kirk.

Geraldeen Nelson married Stephen Kirk, the son of Jesse Kirk, and Mrs. Kirk was mother and mother-in-law to her daughter.

Mrs. Kirk served on the election board, as a scout den mother, as Klamath County Democratic committeewoman, contributing both time and finances to the Democratic party.

Meeting Slated

The Kingsley Field Rod and Gun Club has scheduled its regular monthly meeting at the base clubhouse Thursday, Aug. 29, at 7:30 p.m. All members and interested persons are invited to attend. An informative program has been planned.

Scott River Facilities Ready

Jones Beach parking area and Indian Scotty Campground have been recently completed and are now open for public use. Located on the Scott River, these two recreation facilities will provide a needed increase in the available camping and picnicking space on the Scott River District of the Klamath National Forest, states John Rusk, district ranger.

Indian Scotty Campground was financed under the Accelerated Public Works Program enacted by Congress in the fall of 1962. The campground contains 36 camping units and a group camping area for organizational groups. Camp units are built for small trailer house camping and for tent camping.

Facilities in the group camping area will accommodate up to 100 people. Seven large tables, four stoves, a serving table, bonfire pit, and rest room facilities make up the group use area. This group area is open at all times. It can be reserved for certain dates by making reservations with the district ranger at Fort Jones Ranger Station.

Indian Scotty Campground was constructed on land along the Scott River which was acquired from private owners through land exchange. National Forest land exchange program is for the purpose of consolidating National Forest land ownership. Stories are told that for many years a man called Indian Scotty lived in his log cabin on the site of the Indian Scotty Campground.

Labor force for the campground construction was hired through the Yreka office of the California Department of Employment. Work was performed during last winter and spring which produced difficulties such as frozen ground, snow, rain and mud. Foremen in charge of the labor force were Floyd Scull of Scott Bar and Earl Armantrout of Fort Jones. Construction was supervised by Bill Zook, fire control officer of the Scott River district.

Jones Beach parking area has been constructed and paved to accommodate 13 cars. This provides off highway parking for the many people who enjoy swimming, picnicking and the sandy beach at this favored spot on the Scott River. Plans are to rehabilitate the picnic site with new tables, stoves, and rest room. The new facilities are designed to meet the increasing need for recreational areas, one of the many uses of our national forests.
