

GET OUT THE KETTLE — Most housewives get the urge to can and preserve when summer's luscious fruits become plentiful. This week's special is no more satisfying bit of business about homemaking than putting shining jars of jams and jellies, wild plum preserves, apple butter from your own trees and relishes and pickles and red pickled beets on the pantry shelves. We just can't help taking an occasional gleeful peek when it is about time for fall winds to rustle the leaves.

Apricot Canning Time Is Here

The fruit with a special summer glow begins its season soon. The distinctive, tangy flavor of Washington apricots makes them one of the most popular soft fruits of the summer season. Perfect for eating out of hand, for all picnic and summer outings, apricots can be easily preserved for year-around enjoyment. The delicious apricot flavor is captured and enhanced during the canning process and their lovely golden color is indeed a delight to behold.

Besides universal appetite appeal, sunny apricots have other values to offer. Chief among these is their nutritive value, for apricots provide one of nature's richest sources of Vitamin A. This is maintained at a high level even in the canned fruit.

Apricots are one of the easiest of all fruit to can, for they require no peeling, and many homemakers prefer to can them whole, with the pit in. Many tantalizing jams, jellies, and marmalades can be made from apricots and they are always pleasing when simply served chilled from the jar, in their own syrup.

CANNING APRICOTS
The canning process for apricots is simple. Much time and effort can be saved by organizing equipment and ingredients for canning, ahead of time. Be sure to have plenty of sugar, and an ample supply of jars, lids and rings on hand. Following are directions for the raw pack, boiling water bath process: Select firm, plump, well developed fruit free from bruises. Wash fruit, halve and pit, or pack apricots whole, unpitted if desired. Pre-

Summer Cooler In Peach 'N' Green

On a hot summer day, a cool, the cottage cheese gives it high protein value. Peach and Grape Emerald Salad (4-10 servings) 2 cups (1-cup each) sliced cling peaches 2 3-ounce packages lime-flavored gelatin 1 cup boiling water 1 cup peach syrup 2 cups cold water 1 red maraschino cherry 1 cup fresh grapes, seeded and halved, or 1 cup 18 "cuc." can grapes, drained Lettuce 2 cups cottage cheese Drain peaches, reserving syrup. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; blend in peach syrup and cold water. Pour one cup of gelatin mixture into mold which has been rinsed in cold water; chill until partially set. Press 12 peach slices into gelatin and place cherry in center. Dice remaining peaches; combine with grapes and mix into remaining gelatin. Pour into mold; chill until firm. Unmold on serving plate and surround with lettuce cups filled with cottage cheese.

This salad is ideal for "help-yourself" serving and adds a bright note to the buffet dinner table. It also goes well as a luncheon fruit salad; it is refreshing and light for lunch, but.
