

Fires, Race And Parade Spark Fair

ALTURAS — Thrills and excitement highlighted the last day of the Modoc County Fair in Cedarville Sunday.

The street parade through Cedarville was nearing an end at noon when the call of fire went out and the fire trucks pulled out of the parade to fight a grass fire blazing behind the fairgrounds.

The fire was controlled before the rodeo at 1:30 p.m. when young Kelle Sigler of Alturas gave a challenge to veteran barrel racers June Hemstead, Darryl Levitt and Sis Holloway, Kelle, who was a princess in the court of Queen Mary Lou Mapes, raced her first race to a time of 18.3.

The veterans downed the newcomer, however, with Hemstead riding in 17 seconds flat; Holloway, 17.3; and Levitt, 17.8, but the young newcomer still made fourth place for her novice performance.

Injury took over during the bull riding contest near the end of the rodeo as Dave Haas of Fallon, Nev., was bucked off of his bull and kicked in the chest. Dave had ridden his bull to third place money and took the fall after the eight-second whistle. He was hospitalized at the Modoc Medical Center with critical injuries of a punctured lung and broken ribs.

As the rodeo ended, and everyone was headed home, smoke again billowed up behind the fairgrounds and the fire-fighters were called to duty. More than an acre of grassland adjacent to the fairgrounds blazed out of control for some time as an old barn, out-buildings and a house burned to the ground.

Cedarville firemen were able to maintain the blaze and keep it from spreading to the fairgrounds and a densely populated area nearby. The last fire was believed to have been started by little boys and matches.

50 Compete In Annual Rodeo Event

ALTURAS — The Dick Hemstead rodeo brought to the Modoc fair two days of wild and wooly western entertainment.

More than 50 cowboys competed in the rodeo events, bareback riding, bull riding, saddle bronc riding, bulldogging, and bull riding. Some 45 team ropers paired off to head and heel the fast running steers in roping events.

At the end of the two days of activities, the results were:

Bareback riding: Bob Kennedy, Salinas, first; Paul Templeton, San Jose, and Gene Spencer, Montague, split second and third. Saddle bronc: First go-round, Kenny Holloway, Lakeview, first; Bob Hardt, Beatty, second; Paul Templeton, San Jose, third.

Second go-round: Paul Templeton, San Jose, first; Bob Hardt, Beatty, second; Kenny Holloway, Lakeview, third.

The saddle bronc finals were won by Bob Hardt of Beatty.

Bull riding: Bob Kennedy, Salinas, first; Tom Myers, Bellavista, second; Melvin Hoy, Anderson, third.

Barrel racing: First go-round, June Hemstead, Anderson, 18.1; Darryl Jean Levitt, Lakeview, 18.4; Casey Brines, Susanville, 18.9.

Second go-round: June Hemstead, Anderson, 17; Sis Holloway, Lakeview, 17.3; Darryl Jean Levitt, Lakeview, 17.8.

Second go-round: Dick Hemstead, Anderson, Bob Jones, Cottonwood, Jim Snipes, Anderson.

Calf roping: First go-round, Sandy Miller, Chilquin, 15.7; Bob Woolery, Cottonwood, 15.9; Cecil Nichols, Cottonwood, 21.5.

Second go-round: Lloyd Harness, Cottonwood, Cecil Nichols, Cottonwood, Sandy Miller, Chilquin.

Team roping: Redge Camerillo and Don Johnston, Klamath Falls, 10.3; Tom Johnston and Tom McClelland, Susanville, 10.4; Tom McClelland and Kenny Wimple, Susanville, 13.2.

Second go-round: Hal McClelland and Bud Price, Susanville, 8.3; Phillip Olsen and John McMullan, Lakely, 12.9; Sandy Miller and Orin Miller, Chilquin, 15.3.

Airmen Win Extra Leave

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Four airmen third class, including two from Oregon, who volunteered to spend 43 days in a space cabin simulator will get an extra treat — an 11-day leave during which they all plan to go home.

The four emerged from their locked up chamber Monday and were pronounced in excellent physical condition.

tend unemployment benefits, the Legislative Interim Committee on Technological Employment was told here today.

"Give people a skill to sell to employers," Ray Ziegler of the State Bureau of Labor told committee members.

The interim group has launched a study of the impact of automation on Oregon's labor force, and will make recommendations to the 1965 legislature.

Labor Commissioner Norman Nilsen said his department was "facing a challenge to help the work force to adopt to the change which is sweeping Oregon and the entire nation."

Ziegler, who on his own time began a series of evening counseling programs to aid unemployed workers, said most displaced persons don't know how to look for jobs, and don't know their skills or shortcomings.

Executives Have Problem

He said displaced executives have the toughest problem getting a new job, while those who work with their hands are more easily retrained.

He said persons under 20 and over 40 face the most difficulty in finding jobs.

Nilsen said it was the labor commission's job to get the work force to recognize the skills it had to offer, and the department of employment's job to get the potential employee together with a prospective employer.

It was pointed out that the Oregon work force was above the national average in intelligence, and had one of the lowest rates of illiteracy.

Nilsen said this was a great advantage because the labor force was better able to adjust to technological advances.

It was pointed out that the state civil service recently listed 206 job openings, and more than one-third of them were open to out-of-state residents. This was because there was a shortage of people in Oregon to fill the position, which required a high degree of technical skill.
