

$16,000 In Awards Await Tulelake Exhibitors

TULELAKE—Gates will swing open officially on Saturday, Sept. 7, on the Tulelake-Butte Valley Fair at Tulelake.

Exhibitors in the 10-A Fair District of Northern California and a few from Klamath County will compete for more than $16,000 in awards and premiums on nearly 900 classifications.

In a pre-fair prediction, Secretary-Manager William C. Whitaker said Thursday that "Northern California's finest little fair will be finer than ever."

Attendance is expected to exceed last year, 23,500.

This year's fair theme, "Around the World in Three Fair Days," won a $50 savings bond for the Paul Christy Family from the fair board. A prize is also being given for best use of theme in parade floats.

On Friday night, Sept. 6, before the official opening, the fair board will present Jo Ann Castle, ragtime pianist and accordionist of the popular Lawrence Welk television show, and the equally popular Journal Juniors of Portland in a grandstand show on the fairgrounds.

Jo Ann Castle has attracted an almost solid advance ticket audience but a few seats are expected to be available at the gate.

The Journal Juniors, a troupe of 33 ultra-talented juvenile performers, will occupy the stage by themselves on Saturday night.

Additional building space has been provided for floriculture exhibits this year, a category open to Klamath Falls exhibitors. Improved facilities for serving meals on the grounds and other improvements will assure fair-goers of better services and conveniences this year.

Livestock entries in beef, swine, lambs and in breeding stock are expected to exceed past years and booth space has been taken.

The big Saturday noon parade will include this year's queen and her court. The new queen will be chosen at the Queen's Ball Labor Day night at the fairgrounds. Candidates are Pam Brown, Rita Hundley, Tulelake, Ann Reames, Mount Hebron, and Ardith Christy of Tennant, Calif.

Last year's queen, Linda Holbrook, will crown the new monarch.

Music will be by Baldy Evans' Band. The fair queen is chosen on poise, appearance, talent and popularity. Each person buying a ticket at the Queen's Ball receives one vote. There is no pre-ticket sale.

Two horse shows at 1 and 7:30 p.m. are scheduled for Sunday. A community worship service is planned for 6 p.m.

A "world championship" irrigation siphon setting contest will be held at 1 p.m. Monday in addition to other features.

The big Rotary barbecue at 4:30 p.m., Sept. 9, the presentation of awards at 5:30 in the grandstand and the annual 4-H and FFA Junior Livestock Sale will climax the fair.

Ross Every of Redmond, Ore., will cry the sale.

LOVELY LASS AND HER LUGGAGE—A contestant in a beauty contest needs many changes of clothes. And D'Ann Fullerton, Miss Oregon, has a fair wardrobe as indicated by the luggage which surrounded her while she waited for departure at the Portland International Airport for Atlantic City, N.J., and the Miss America contest. —UPI Telephoto

Scouts Select Medicine Lake

MALIN—Medicine Lake was the site selected for a camp-out attended by 17 Malin Cub Scouts last weekend.

Members from dens one, two and three participated, accompanied by Don London, Kenny London and Curtis Brown. Swimming, hiking, scout practice and camp cookery were the highlights of the two-day event.

Den mothers for the group are Mrs. Don London, Mrs. Marion Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Paul McCulley, with Mrs. Lincoln Elzner and Mrs. Carl Rajnus as assistants.

SNAPPY STEED—This is Roy Wright, 13, who rides with the Tulelake 4-H Capers drilled by Milly Spomer and Winnie Heiney. Roy is up on Yo Yo, 3-year-old black star gelding, who will perform Sunday, Sept. 8, during the annual horse show at Tulelake-Butte Valley Fair in Tulelake. Shows are scheduled for 1 and 7:30 p.m. Roy has been riding long enough that he is at ease in the saddle.

This 'Devoted' Church Worker Is A Tramp?

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Several months ago I was having dinner alone when I noticed a stunning girl who was also alone. I asked her to join me. She accepted, making it clear it was the first time she'd ever done such a thing.

Here is the straight goods and I want you to tell me what you think: She is a secretary for a magazine executive but she won't tell me which magazine or where her office is. She lives with her mother who is high-strung and can't stand to hear a telephone ring. So she calls me—I can't call her; I have never been to her apartment or met her mother in the five months I've been taking her out. She can't see me on Saturday or Sunday because she is a devoted church worker and those days belong to her church. I loaned her $350 which she will repay in September when she gets her bonus.

She is beautiful, wonderful company and the most fascinating woman I've ever met. She will marry me if I'm willing to take her as she is and not ask any questions. What shall I say to the lady?—MAC

Dear Mac: Say "good-bye." The lady is a tramp.

Dear Ann Landers: My entire future depends on your advice. Please help. I am 36 and my wife is 45. We have three teenagers. I am considering divorcing my wife, taking the children, and hiring a housekeeper. The reason? My wife is so tied up with her mother she is driving me crazy. Neither one can leave her home without telephoning the other to report where she is going and when she will be back.

The kids can never use the phone because my wife and her mother are talking constantly. (They live three minutes apart.) If a neighbor drops in, my wife has to call her mother and repeat every word that was said. Both my wife and her mother are in and out of doctors' offices constantly. They imagine they have every disease known to man, although the doctor says they are both in good physical condition. The medical and drug bills are keeping me broke.

What would you advise me to do?—B.A. OF SMYRNA, GA.

Dear R.A.: Divorce is not the answer. It would only add to your problems—emotionally and financially.

Your wife needs psychiatric help. If she will not accept it, get a second phone, plan your life around this sick woman and try to be both mother and dad to those kids.

LSW Members Consider Boost

SPOKANE (UPI)—Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union members in Eastern Washington will vote next month on a 30-cent wage increase offered Wednesday and Thursday by Boise Cascade Corp. at three plants.

William Ramsbottom, business representative for the North Idaho - Eastern Washington District Council of the LSW, said the agreement fits the pattern worked out by the Western Council of negotiating sessions in Western Oregon and Washington.

Talks were held at Lincoln and Inchelium Wednesday and Thursday.

Plane Used To Seek Forest Fires

A two-man team of the Klamath Forest Protective Association was in an aircraft patrolling the King's Cabin, Pole Butte and Bear Flat areas early this morning, seeking fires which may have started from a lightning storm that blew into the northern part of the county last night, George Wardell, KFFA supervisor, has disclosed.

Meanwhile, KFFA fire-fighters from Pole Butte and the Silver Lake District in the Fremont National Forest were dispatched to a fire which started in a juniper tree, two miles south of Sycan Butte, as a result of the same storm.

The latest fire brought the total for the year in the KFFA district to 61, including 26 caused by man and 35 started by lightning. Only the man-caused fires resulted in damage to forest lands; the lightning fires were contained soon after they had broken out and burned in very small areas, Wardell remarked.

The 26 man-caused fires destroyed some 638 acres of timber and brush, of which 537 acres were razed in the Tucker's Cabin fire, near Keno, early last month. Fire suppression costs for this year have amounted to about $10,000, Wardell said.

There was no respite in view for fire-fighters this weekend.

Wardell stated that there was an 80 per cent chance of lightning for today and tomorrow with those odds diminishing slightly on Sunday.

Boy Spotted Setting Fire

Pete Green drove up to his home at 2335 Wantland Avenue Thursday afternoon for lunch and spotted a young boy trying to set fire to his workshop.

Green later told police he chased the youngster down an alley, but lost him. He returned to his property and doused the small blaze.

Green said he had left a rag, which had been soaked with cleaning fluid, to dry on a stack of lumber next to his workshop. He said he surprised the boy as he was putting a makeshift torch to the inflammable rag.

He said the boy was 10-12 years old and was wearing tan clothes.
