WALL STREET

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks raced higher today spurred by the House Ways Means Committee approval of an $11 billion tax cut and what brokers termed favorable technical conditions.

Wall Street observers got their long awaited "confirmation" of the industrial average in the first hour of trading today when rail averages took to the uptrack while the remainder of the market eased. However, the other sections soon joined in the upswing and outpaced the rail gain in a short time.

WALL STREET CHATTER

NEW YORK (UPI) — International Statistical Bureau, Inc. feels investors can expect some sharp declines in the coming weeks, though the major trend continues upward.

The firm says it expects increased activity in secondary as well as some low priced speculative issues, but it does not recommend "unbridled" speculation. The firm says the need for discrimination is "greater than ever."

Roger E. Spear, president of Spear & Staff, feels that judicious investors, who stick to sound issues instead of dabbling in speculative shares, stand to benefit from the bullish business news background and the breakthrough to new high ground in the Dow-Jones industrial average.

Joint Redistricting Meeting Sought; KU Eyes Use Of Old OTI Buildings

Klamath Falls elementary and high school trustees Monday night voted to seek a joint meeting with the county school board and possibly the county court on the controversial school redistricting plan, and also considered the possibility of leasing part of the then-vacant Oregon Technical Institute campus in 1964 to relieve the pressure on Klamath Union High.

The decision to seek joint talks with the county agencies came after a letter from the county court notifying the Klamath Falls school boards of its redistricting decision was read.

The letter asked the school boards' advice on seven matters concerned with the division of the county into two school districts with Wiard Street the dividing line.

Several Klamath Falls trustees expressed concern about the effect of the county court's redistricting plan on adjustment of property. They said that property owners who have paid taxes to build up city schools might, under the plan, face the future of paying more taxes to build up a new district. A plan to equitably distribute existing school property between the two proposed districts will be discussed if a joint county-city school meeting is held.

Other than property adjustment, the county court asked the elementary and high school boards' advice on school buildings, local school committees, transportation, zone division, length of board terms and election of school trustees—all problems of the new school district plan.

The county court last month decided that the two proposed school districts would be split at Wiard Street after the two city and the one county school boards had agreed that the division should be along the same lines as the present Klamath Union High boundaries.

The matter of the possible rental of the present OTI campus came up when Superintendent Ray Hunsaker told the elementary and high school boards, meeting Monday night in joint session, that he had been contacted by a representative of the State Department of Public Instruction.

He said the representative told him that the present OTI campus will be vacant in September of 1964 when the school moves to its new campus.

He asked Hunsaker if the city schools would be interested in the old campus on Old Fort Road, which is now leased by the Department of Public Instruction from the federal government.

Hunsaker said most of the campus probably will be used for other purposes, but a bank of buildings will be available, plus another building that might easily be converted into a gymnasium.

He said the available buildings already are divided into classrooms and he suggested that it might be possible to use them for the entire Klamath Union freshman class next year. This, he said, would end the split shift at the high school.

Hunsaker told the board that he was suggesting the possibility merely for the board's information, but several trustees expressed interest in the possible rental.

Pressed for further information, Hunsaker said the Department of Instruction is preparing more figures for him. He said one factor to consider is the probable high cost of rental. He said it may run as high as $300 per pupil for the year. This is on top of the ordinary operating costs.

Furthermore, he said, there is the problem of transporting the 500-600 students to and from the campus, about three miles from downtown Klamath Falls.

The trustees will further consider the rental possibility when more information is available.

A request by the Klamath County Historical Society to rent a school bus for a trip to Lakeview was referred back to the society for further study. The trustees said they will consider renting a school bus only when it isn't practical to use commercial transportation.

Hunsaker suggested to the two boards that a policy be adopted which would allow teachers to substitute summer travel for required summer school. He said the substitution would be limited and that under his plan, the teachers would receive one and a half credits per week of travel. The plan will be considered further when it has been completed.

The board, at Hunsaker's request, gave him the authority to pay for other transportation in special cases where it isn't feasible to transport students by bus. The transportation would be paid for on a per-mile basis.

After the joint meeting, the high school and elementary boards broke up into separate meetings. The elementary trustees considered two routine business items.

High school trustees voted to rent a milkshake machine for the school's cafeteria.

The board also accepted the resignation of Lawrence Kline, who had taught science and coached at Klamath Union, and appointed James Smith to replace him.

Thieves Ransack Moose Lodge Here

The Moose Lodge was ransacked Sunday night or Monday morning by thieves who poured $30 worth of liquor into the cash register, scattered papers throughout the office and stole about $220 in cash.

The break-in was discovered Monday noon by William C. Hooper, lodge caretaker.

Police said entry was gained by breaking a screen, a bar and a board from a basement window. The burglars then climbed to the first floor and broke into the lodge's lounge.

The liquor, along with some tobacco, was poured through the mechanism of the register, damaging it seriously, and evidence was found that the thieves drank some liquor.

The juke box was broken open and about $5 in quarters taken. Four dollars in dimes was taken from the bowling machine, also broken open.

Police said the quarters all were marked with a red "M" and the dimes were marked with pink polish.

A bank bag containing $207 in cash was taken from a cupboard, along with a box containing three or four silver dollars.

The lodge office was also entered and the drawers ransacked. Papers were strewn throughout the room.

The second floor of the lodge, 1010 Pine Street, was not entered, police said.

HAYING THE HARD WAY — Merrill volunteer firemen battle a lightning-caused fire that destroyed about $600 worth of hay at the Dan Cashman ranch at Merrill Monday afternoon. A lightning storm caused another 24 forest fires in Lake and Klamath counties.

Driver Cited After Crash

One motorist was cited but no one was injured in a minor two-car collision at the intersection of Summers Lane and South Sixth Street, 3:15 p.m., yesterday, Oregon State Police have reported.

Cited for failing to yield the right of way was Warren Hollis Dabney, 70, 429 North Second Street, who negotiated a U-turn from the eastbound to the westbound lane of South Sixth Street and in doing so collided with an automobile operated by Carl James Wishart, 58, 5218 Bryant Street. Wishart had been westbound on South Sixth Street at the time of the accident.

Damage was minor to the automobiles, which were driven from the scene under their own power.

Judge Frees W. J. Easter

Judge Robert Foley of Bend granted a motion by the defense for the dismissal of charges against William J. Easter, 72, of Klamath Falls, accused of obtaining money and property by false pretenses, as the state ended its case following the one-day trial in Bend Circuit Court yesterday.

Easter had been charged with receiving $125 from an insurance company after he allegedly filed a fraudulent claim with that firm.

The defense attorney moved for the dismissal on the ground that the state had failed to prove the essential parts of its allegation.

Earlier this year, Easter was indicted by the Klamath County Grand Jury on the fraud charge and two counts of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Easter pled not guilty to the three charges and later the scene of the trials was moved from Klamath Falls to Bend when the Klamath County Circuit Court upheld a motion by the defense for a change of venue.

In a trial held earlier this summer, Easter was acquitted on one of the contributing charges. The date for the other trial will be set later this year.

Firefighters Subdue 24 Area Forest Fires

Klamath Forest Protective Association and U.S. Forest Service firefighters Monday afternoon battled 24 forest fires in Lake and Klamath counties sparked by a lightning storm.

The largest of the fires was in the Winema National Forest near Cottonwood Creek, 10 miles west of Beaver Marsh. A borate bomber from Medfrod helped firefighters subdue this blaze at a quarter-acre.

The only other fire in the Winema Forest was a spot timber blaze in the Nannie Creek area.

None of the fires which broke out Monday was uncontrolled today.

The KFPA battled nine fires Monday and the Fremont National Forest had 13.

The KFPA's fires, all spots, were located 2½ miles southwest of Keno; just north of Hogback Mountain; at Swan Lake Junction; at Bull Springs; at Manhattan Springs; just northeast of Weyerhaeuser Camp 9; at Applegate Butte; at Sun Mountain; and just north of Hildebrand.

The only other lightning-caused fire reported destroyed $600 worth of hay on the Dan Cashman ranch at Merrill. The fire was put out by Merrill volunteer firemen. The hay was not insured.

High Speed Chase Ends With Arrest Of Driver

Two state police patrol cars pursued a speeding motorist at speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour during a wild chase through the South Suburban area about 2:30 a.m. today.

The pursuit ended at Homedale Road as Larry Arlen Egeland, 27, 1410 Mitchell Street, stopped his car and surrendered to police after running three red lights and leading police on a chase in the vicinity of South Sixth Street.

Arrested for reckless driving attempting to elude an officer, and attempting to elude an officer, Egeland was lodged at the county jail pending his arraignment in district court later today.

At the time of his arrest, Egeland said that when he realized police were pursuing him, he decided "to punch it out."
