WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee moved today to upset the controversial Defense Department order urging base commanders to act against off-base segregation of Negro servicemen.

Death Takes Ex-Resident

Dorothy T. Post, 75, former jail matron in Klamath Falls for 17 years, died Sept. 14 in Redwood City. She had lived in Klamath Falls from about 1932 until she left to make her home in California in August, 1962.

"Old at 40, 50, 60?"
Man, Get Wise! Pep Up Thousands are peppy at 70! So, if you feel weak, low in energy, "old" at 40, 50 or 60, quit blaming it on age. If you want to feel younger, try Oxy-Tonic Tablets at once. Also for debility due to run-down body, lack of iron, the "blue-par" feelings you may call "being old." Put pep in both sexes. Try Oxy-Tonic—feel peppy, younger, 8-day "re-energized" size costs little. All druggists.

Vinson drafted a bill that would make it a court-martial offense for any military man to carry out the Defense Department directive.

In announcing his action, Vinson said that the armed forces have kept themselves free from political affairs "and I intend to do what I can to keep it that way."

However, Vinson's bill seemed unlikely to pass. Some of his own committee members have taken to the floor to defend the order. Civil rights backers generally are sure to oppose it.

Other Congressional news: Discrimination: A majority of the Senate manpower subcommittee gave quick approval Monday to a bill permitting the government to uncover and stop racial discrimination in jobs. Chairman Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said the absence of four senators held up formal, and perhaps unanimous, recommendation of the strong equal employment opportunities bill. Under the bill, a Labor Department administrator would be set up who could start investigation and take action to ferret out discrimination by employers, unions and the government.

For purposes of local government, Puerto Rico is divided into 70 areas called municipalities.

British Hail Royal News

LONDON (UPI) — Britain today rejoiced at the news that Queen Elizabeth II, its beloved 37-year-old monarch, will give birth to a fourth child sometime "in the new year."

The Buckingham Palace announcement Monday was not specific about the arrival date of the baby, who will be third in line for the throne if a boy, and fourth in line if a girl.

The queen and her husband, Prince Philip, have two boys and a girl — Prince Charles, 14, Princess Anne, 13, and Prince Andrew, 3.

The queen cancelled her public engagements from now until after the birth. A palace spokesman said the term new year "does not mean that the baby is expected on New Year's Day or the first week of January."

There was speculation the birth would come in February or March, since previous royal announcements had been made five to six months ahead of time.

London newspapers greeted the news as a welcome relief from the scandal headlines that had dominated their pages for months, and the reaction of the man in the pub and the girl in the shop was similar.

Only the Communist Daily worker dismissed the news with one paragraph.

Report Read On Scandal

LONDON (UPI) — Labor Party Leader Harold Wilson, sitting alone in a private room, today read the explosive report on the Profumo scandal that could vault him into the prime ministership.

The 50,000-60,000-word "Denning Report," compiled by the eminent jurist Lord Denning from scores of interviews with politicians, playboys and prostitutes, was presented to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan Monday night.

Macmillan sat up late to read the report, then asked Wilson, as leader of the parliamentary opposition, to come to Admiralty House today to take a look at it.

Wilson refused all comment as he left Admiralty House after two hours alone with the report—the result of Denning's investigation into the security affairs of former War Minister John Profumo's affair with call-girl Christine Keeler.

"The less I say about the report the better," Wilson told reporters.

Persistent rumors have said some other cabinet ministers may be mentioned in the report for involvement in improper situations. Wilson and Macmillan were to meet later in the week—probably Thursday—to discuss publication and whether any deletions should be made. Wilson has said security should be the sole grounds for censorship.

California Protests Colorado River Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — California Monday asked the Supreme Court to take another look at its decision cutting back the state's claims to Colorado water.

In a brief filed by Northcutt Ely, special assistant attorney general for California, the state petitioned the high court for a rehearing of its June 3 decision in the Arizona-California case.

The court's ruling, not yet final, was considered a victory for Arizona in its long and bitter dispute with California over the Division of Colorado River waters.

The court held that California could use 4.4 million acre feet of mainstream water each year. It fixed Arizona's share at 2.8 million acre feet and Nevada's at 900,000 acre feet.

California's brief said the court had erred in holding that the Boulder Canyon Project Act had dictated how the mainstream water should be divided whether states agreed or not. It also said the court was wrong in saying it was up to the interior secretary to decide how the water should be allocated in dry years.

Udall Seeks Accord
Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall, who says he does not want the task of allocating shortages, has tried to get the states to agree on a plan for dividing water when less than 7.5 million acre feet is available.

The brief said the court had reached a wrong decision by basing it on two mistaken assumptions.

First, it said, the Court had ruled that Arizona would not have water from the Gila River charged against its share of Colorado-River water in the mistaken belief its flow was "insignificant" and of little use to California.

Second, the brief said, the court had failed to see the distinction between the amount of water diverted from the river and the amount actually used. The court's ruling was based on "consumptive use," or the amount actually used.

But the California brief said, in effect, that it was not possible to make "consumptive use" of a total of 7.5 million acre feet when the Lower Colorado Basin was assured of a river flow of only 7.5 million acre feet.

Arizona viewed the decision as opening the way for construction of the $1.1 billion Central Arizona Project (CAP), which has been held up for more than a decade pending settlement of the Arizona-California dispute.

After the court ruling, the Arizona congressional delegation renewed its demands that the project be authorized.

Alternate Plan
However, the Interior Department meanwhile came up with the Pacific Southwest water plan under which the CAP would be built as part of a five-state master project. The plan contemplates meeting water shortages in Southern California by increasing diversions from Northern California and through construction of salt water conversion plants.

The state was joined by the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California, the cities of Los Angeles and San Diego, San Diego County, the Coachella Valley County Water District, and the Palo Verde Irrigation Dis-

House Hears Shelter Plea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., pleaded with House members today not to "play God" by rejecting a bill to start a multi-million-dollar national fallout shelter building program.

He warned that if a nuclear attack ever came, drifting clouds of deadly radioactive fallout, and not the blast, would be the major danger to most of the country. He said that without the shelters tens of millions would die.

Hebert, who is chairman of a House armed services subcommittee which heard 108 witnesses on the administration proposal, made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery on the House floor.

His appeal was designed to offset expected strong opposition to the bill as the House opened debate on the measure. The program eventually could cost the taxpayers more than $2 billion.

Opponents say it would be a waste of money. They planned to offer an amendment which would strike out all federal aid to communities to help build shelter spaces in schools, hospitals and other public and non-profit buildings.

College officials reported that 394 students registered for class for the fall term, compared to 280 students last year.

The largest increase was noted in the enrollment of women, as 112 registered this year, an increase of 19 over last year's 93.

The number of men increased from 187 in 1962 to 192 this year. The junior college's student body is made up of 237 freshmen and 67 sophomores.

Eligible Voters Total 810,000

SALEM (UPI) — More than 810,000 Oregonians will be eligible to vote in the Oct. 15 tax referendum, Elections Supervisor Jack Thompson predicted today.

Deadline for registering was Sept. 14.
