

Herald and News

Price Ten Cents—20 Pages

KLAMATH FALLS, OREGON, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1963

Telephone TU 4-8111 No. 7579

In The Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS

Mishmash in the news:
The little town of Dodgeville, in Wisconsin, has a mysterious benefactor. He sends money anonymously through the mail to various persons, many of them aged, who in his opinion have a REAL NEED FOR MONEY.
How does he pick his beneficiaries?
Nobody knows. The money just arrives in a plain envelope, which carries the local postmark. The amounts vary from a few dollars to a few hundred dollars.

The word is getting out, and Editor John Miller of the Dodgeville Chronicle says he is getting letters from all over the country asking how the writers can get on the list. They ask him to pass on their names and addresses to the "mysterious fairy."

Editor Miller says he wishes he knew the address, and adds that if he did he'd make a try for some of the money on his own account.

It's turning out to be a weird business, the Dodgeville editor says.

Some people are using the method to MAKE DONATIONS TO CHARITABLE CAUSES WITHOUT GETTING ON A MAILING LIST.

Which is to say:
These people sincerely want to help good causes, but they don't want the word to get out—fearing that they will be swamped with requests for money from all over the country.

Many Dodgeville people, Editor Miller reports, are being asked to pay old debts—either long forgotten, or NEVER INCURRED. In other words, racketeers are getting into the game, hoping that people silly enough to be giving money away would be silly enough to fall for the alleged debt racket.

Then there's the case of Kiki, the missing poodle down in the Bay Area. Kiki had been left by her owner, a 45-year-old blonde divorcee, in the car. When her mistress came back there was no Kiki.

The shock sent Kiki's owner into a tizzy, and she wound up in a psychiatric hospital—confused, disturbed and unsure of just about everything except that she missed her dog.

Her sad case got into the newspapers—which, as everybody knows, are public benefactors, ever anxious to help those in distress—and also (especially in our big metropolitan cities) ever anxious for a good story that when played under big headlines will sell a lot of papers.

As a result, Kiki was found and restored to her owner, whose doctors agree that the return of her dog "may help her greatly to regain her grip on reality."

In conclusion—
At a meeting in Portland the other day, I sat next to a distinguished citizen of Oregon who has retired to Southern California. I asked him how all was going in his new location.

He replied, in substance:
"Well, when I left to come back up here for a few days our neighborhood was in something of an uproar. Our next door neighbor was having troubles of her own. Her dog was off its feed and was acting in a strange manner."

"So she was having her psychiatrist in every other day to see what might be done to bring the dog back its normal self."

What a world!

Weather

Klamath Falls, Tulelake and Lakeview
—Mostly fair through Thursday. Lows tonight 33 to 45 with spotty light frost in the Lower Klamath Basin. Highs Thursday near 70. Variable winds, veering to 12 miles per hour.
High yesterday 62
Low this morning 44
High year ago 77
Low year ago 47
Precip. last 24 hours trace
Since Jan. 1 4.74
Same period year ago 8.39

Weather

AGRICULTURAL FORECAST
Haying and field work outlook is mostly fair next few days with light showers indicated late Friday and Sunday. Spotty light frost tonight, but hard frost appears unlikely next four days. Eight-inch soil temperature 59 degrees.

Financial Crisis Tops UN Agenda

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Carlos Sosa Rodriguez of Venezuela, new president of the U.N. General Assembly, said today he hoped the 18th U.N. session would provide a harmonious atmosphere for further cold war agreements.

Sosa noted that the recent Moscow treaty banning nuclear tests in the air, in outer space and under water had its beginnings in the assembly's political committee. He said perhaps further steps toward including underground tests will be made at this U.N. session.

In regard to the role the United Nations can play in any East-West detente, Sosa said the world parliament provides a forum for public opinion on such crucial issues as nuclear tests.

"I expect the future to be the same as the past in that respect," he told his first news conference since being elected Tuesday.

The assembly, whose opening meeting Tuesday was marred by an anti-Castro demonstration, got down to the business of its new session today. The 21-nation steering committee was examining the 82 items proposed for the agenda to see which of the standing committees would take each item for preliminary debate.

Sosa told newsmen this morning that the financial crisis is a top item before the assembly. He said the organization cannot carry on its functions if members do not provide sufficient funds.

In answer to a question, he said application of article 19 of the charter will not come up at least until after Dec. 31. This article states that a member will lose its vote if it falls two years behind in payment of its assessments.

Article 19 is of major importance to diplomats here because Russia, which has refused to pay its Congo assessments, will become liable to the article's provisions on Jan. 1.

Sosa began his term Tuesday with an appeal for "understanding, harmony, and mutual respect" among the 111 U.N. members.

But there were three instances of disharmony on the first day. Albania demanded that Nationalist China be expelled from the U. N. and Communist China admitted in its place. Indonesia objected to the presence of Malaysia. And Cuban exiles in battle dress leaped from the public gallery, dashing into the delegates' section with shouts of "Long live free Cuba."

No real dispute was expected on the demands by Albania, Communist China's European satellite. The United States, confident the move would be defeated in a direct vote in the assembly as easily as last year when it went down 56-42, planned no objection to putting the issue on the agenda.

with an appeal for "understanding, harmony, and mutual respect" among the 111 U.N. members.

But there were three instances of disharmony on the first day. Albania demanded that Nationalist China be expelled from the U. N. and Communist China admitted in its place. Indonesia objected to the presence of Malaysia. And Cuban exiles in battle dress leaped from the public gallery, dashing into the delegates' section with shouts of "Long live free Cuba."

No real dispute was expected on the demands by Albania, Communist China's European satellite. The United States, confident the move would be defeated in a direct vote in the assembly as easily as last year when it went down 56-42, planned no objection to putting the issue on the agenda.

The delta-winged ASSET rode into the sky at 2:59 a.m. PDT, atop a modified Thor rocket.

Six minutes later, the Air Force said, the unique little craft, shaped like a slightly rounded arrowhead, was "on trajectory" on a planned course taking it 40 miles into space and more than 1,000 miles over the Atlantic Ocean in a test of durability.

Recovery ships were poised downrange to retrieve it and its load of instruments after it had glided to a watery landing.

The Air Force said radar information indicated the ASSET vehicle landed in its target area, 1,100 miles east-southeast of the Cape, on schedule 20 minutes after blastoff. Another source said the shot was "right in the center of the target."

But three hours later recovery ships still were searching for the vehicle, equipped with a balloon to keep it afloat. The Air Force said none of the vessels had picked up beacon signals that were supposed to announce a normal landing.

The launching was the first of six in the $34 million ASSET (short for aerothermodynamic-elastic structural systems environment tests) program, which could have two major bearings—a mounting to near "breakthroughs"—on the future of manned flight into space.

—As a source for a wealth of structural information for the building of winged space gliders that will enable astronauts to select landing sites, thus eliminating the expensive ocean-spanning recovery forces needed for the present man-into-space flights.

On the other side of the Capitol, a freshman congressman from Atlanta, Ga., said Southern moderates, including himself, must share the blame for the bombing. "We have stood by, leaving the field to reckless and violent men," said Rep. Charles L. Wellner, D-Ga.

In his speech the fiery Humphrey said the entire nation "ought to be wearing ashes and sack-

Kennedy Vows No Extra Spending

SHEEP FOR SCOUTS—Members of the Klamath Basin Sheep Producers Association are donating feeder lambs to the Modoc Area Council of the Boy Scouts. The lambs will be fattened and then sold, with the profits going into the council's funds. This is the first time this has been done locally. The lambs, some of which are shown here, are being fed at the Bryant Williams ranch near Spring

Lake. Williams (in rear, right) is secretary of the association. Also shown are Arnold Brandt, president of the association and Boy Scouts (left to right) Gary Scott, Dick Lamb, Brian Beane and Jay Turner. Ranchers and firms who have donated lambs to the Boy Scouts so far are Jerry Ahern, O'Conner Livestock, William O'Keefe, Williams, Mack and Brandt, and Harold Williams.

Pledge Made To Halt Opposition To Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy, seeking to head off Republican opposition to his proposed $11 billion tax cut, pledged himself today to forego extra anti-recession spending by the government.

Kennedy made his commitment in a letter to Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways & Means Committee, which has recommended the cut. Kennedy praised Mills' call for rejection of the spending route and said flatly, "I subscribe to it."

Mills read the letter to the House Rules Committee and asked, "What further assurance do we need?" That the tax cut will be accompanied by strict avoidance of government programs useful only for the dollars they pour into the national economy.

Mills, seeking Rules Committee clearance for House debate on the bill starting next Tuesday, sought to demolish arguments of opponents that it is folly to cut taxes while the government runs in the red.

Cites "Straitjacket"
He said his best judgment is that the best way to get government income up, and to shoot for a balanced federal budget, is to remove the "straitjacket" which he said present high war-time taxes impose on business.

Mills recalled that in his statement Monday he had said the choice now is whether to spur the economy by cutting taxes or further boosting government spending.

Kennedy was expected to amplify this assurance in a nationally televised and broadcast address at 4 p.m. PDT today. He also was expected to argue, as Mills did in his Rules Committee testimony today, that the best way to bring the budget into balance is to spur economic growth by cutting burdensome taxes.

But it appeared that his appeal was doomed to failure beforehand as far as the House's GOP membership is concerned.

House Republicans have been called to a conference, scheduled at mid-afternoon, to adopt a party position of opposition to the passage, expected next week, of a tax-cutting bill in its present form.

The rank-and-file, by a top-heavy margin, were expected to endorse the recommendations of their leaders that Republicans vote against the bill unless it is revamped to include the deficit spending curbs.

Ask May "Equal Time"
House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana told the GOP Policy Committee Tuesday that Republican leaders may ask the nation's television and radio networks for "equal time" to answer Kennedy, depending upon what the President says.

In advance of the GOP conference, the House Rules Committee arranged to begin public hearings on a request by Democratic leaders that the bill be scheduled for floor action under a procedure limiting the minority party to one amendment, or substitute, bill.

The present bill would provide two separate tax cuts. Income taxes on individuals and corporations would be reduced by $7 billion on 1964 incomes, with an additional $4 billion in tax relief scheduled to take effect Jan. 1, 1965. Both cuts would provide permanent relief.

Cancel Second Cut
The House Republican Policy Committee agreed Tuesday to recommend that Republicans support an amendment that would automatically cancel the second tax cut unless the President cut back spending this fiscal year to $97 billion and held to $93 billion the budget for the new fiscal year, to be sent to Congress in January.

The budget Kennedy submitted last January estimated spending at $98.8 billion.

House Rules Committee and asked, "What further assurance do we need?" That the tax cut will be accompanied by strict avoidance of government programs useful only for the dollars they pour into the national economy.

Mills, seeking Rules Committee clearance for House debate on the bill starting next Tuesday, sought to demolish arguments of opponents that it is folly to cut taxes while the government runs in the red.

Cites "Straitjacket"
He said his best judgment is that the best way to get government income up, and to shoot for a balanced federal budget, is to remove the "straitjacket" which he said present high war-time taxes impose on business.

Mills recalled that in his statement Monday he had said the choice now is whether to spur the economy by cutting taxes or further boosting government spending.

Kennedy was expected to amplify this assurance in a nationally televised and broadcast address at 4 p.m. PDT today. He also was expected to argue, as Mills did in his Rules Committee testimony today, that the best way to bring the budget into balance is to spur economic growth by cutting burdensome taxes.

But it appeared that his appeal was doomed to failure beforehand as far as the House's GOP membership is concerned.

House Republicans have been called to a conference, scheduled at mid-afternoon, to adopt a party position of opposition to the passage, expected next week, of a tax-cutting bill in its present form.

The rank-and-file, by a top-heavy margin, were expected to endorse the recommendations of their leaders that Republicans vote against the bill unless it is revamped to include the deficit spending curbs.

Ask May "Equal Time"
House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana told the GOP Policy Committee Tuesday that Republican leaders may ask the nation's television and radio networks for "equal time" to answer Kennedy, depending upon what the President says.

In advance of the GOP conference, the House Rules Committee arranged to begin public hearings on a request by Democratic leaders that the bill be scheduled for floor action under a procedure limiting the minority party to one amendment, or substitute, bill.

The present bill would provide two separate tax cuts. Income taxes on individuals and corporations would be reduced by $7 billion on 1964 incomes, with an additional $4 billion in tax relief scheduled to take effect Jan. 1, 1965. Both cuts would provide permanent relief.

Cancel Second Cut
The House Republican Policy Committee agreed Tuesday to recommend that Republicans support an amendment that would automatically cancel the second tax cut unless the President cut back spending this fiscal year to $97 billion and held to $93 billion the budget for the new fiscal year, to be sent to Congress in January.

The budget Kennedy submitted last January estimated spending at $98.8 billion.

The policy committee agreed that Republicans should oppose the measure on final passage unless the amendment is adopted.

A bloc of Southern Democrats whose votes could determine the outcome agreed at a separate strategy session Tuesday that any tax cut should be accompanied by restraints on deficit spending.

19,469 Join Voter Ranks

Registered voters in Klamath County now total 19,469 according to tabulations made since last Saturday night, which was the deadline for those required to register in order to vote on the tax referendum, Oct. 15. County Clerk Charles DeLap said today.

Last Saturday, 216 county residents registered at the county clerk's office, swelling the number of voters in the county to the current figure. The total was some 1,100 less than the 20,569 voters who had registered for the general election in November, 1962.

The number of registered voters has not yet been broken down into political parties, but this should be accomplished sometime within the next few days, the clerk's office reported.

The breakdown before the last election was Democrats, 12,010; Republicans, 8,113, and nonpartisans, 446.

U.S. Sends Flying Lab Into Space

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The United States today successfully fired a 1,100-pound "flying laboratory" on an up-and-down flight into space in the first of a six-shot peek at the shape of things to come in manned space.

The delta-winged ASSET rode into the sky at 2:59 a.m. PDT, atop a modified Thor rocket.

Six minutes later, the Air Force said, the unique little craft, shaped like a slightly rounded arrowhead, was "on trajectory" on a planned course taking it 40 miles into space and more than 1,000 miles over the Atlantic Ocean in a test of durability.

Recovery ships were poised downrange to retrieve it and its load of instruments after it had glided to a watery landing.

The Air Force said radar information indicated the ASSET vehicle landed in its target area, 1,100 miles east-southeast of the Cape, on schedule 20 minutes after blastoff. Another source said the shot was "right in the center of the target."

But three hours later recovery ships still were searching for the vehicle, equipped with a balloon to keep it afloat. The Air Force said none of the vessels had picked up beacon signals that were supposed to announce a normal landing.

The launching was the first of six in the $34 million ASSET (short for aerothermodynamic-elastic structural systems environment tests) program, which could have two major bearings—a mounting to near "breakthroughs"—on the future of manned flight into space.

—As a source for a wealth of structural information for the building of winged space gliders that will enable astronauts to select landing sites, thus eliminating the expensive ocean-spanning recovery forces needed for the present man-into-space flights.

On the other side of the Capitol, a freshman congressman from Atlanta, Ga., said Southern moderates, including himself, must share the blame for the bombing. "We have stood by, leaving the field to reckless and violent men," said Rep. Charles L. Wellner, D-Ga.

In his speech the fiery Humphrey said the entire nation "ought to be wearing ashes and sack-

National Day Of Mourning Urged For Bombing Victims

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A group of Republican and Democratic senators have appealed for a nationwide day of mourning and protest for the four children killed in the Birmingham, Ala., church bombing.

Senate Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota led the group in asking President Kennedy to proclaim next Sunday as a day of national mourning for the young girls killed last Sunday.

At the same time, sponsors of the Aug. 28 civil rights march on Washington made plans for silent protest marches in scores of cities throughout the nation, perhaps on Sunday, with a possible assembly by one group near the White House.

Humphrey lashed out at Southern business and professional leaders who he said have encouraged racial violence for economic profit. His was the first of a torrent of Senate speeches on the Birmingham bombing.

Southern Shares Blame
On the other side of the Capitol, a freshman congressman from Atlanta, Ga., said Southern moderates, including himself, must share the blame for the bombing. "We have stood by, leaving the field to reckless and violent men," said Rep. Charles L. Wellner, D-Ga.

In his speech the fiery Humphrey said the entire nation "ought to be wearing ashes and sackcloth" after the latest Birmingham violence.

"We should never again attempt to lecture any other nation until we have cleaned this blot of racial injustice from our shield," he said.

Humphrey concentrated his fire on what he called the "Southern establishment... those who control banks, factories, news media, and who contribute heavily to politicians."

"I know the power of these men," he said. "And I also know that much of their power is linked with, and subservient to, the economic power of the Northern and Eastern banks, insurance companies and other corporations."

"And so—for profit, for money—the whirlwind of racial hatred and violence has been encouraged—not permitted—but encouraged, invited, yes, incited."

"These are strong words," Humphrey said. "I feel them strongly."

Specifically, Humphrey criticized those who, he said, keep Negroes uneducated and untrained to hold down wages in the South, those who fight the growth of labor unions by "setting white worker against Negro," those who make political careers out of "Negro-baiting," and those who play up Negro crime in newspapers.

The Minnesota Democrat said the blame for the Southern racial situation must be shared by Northern leaders who "have at the very least acquiesced in the policies of racial degradation and humiliation."

Final Rites For Girls Held Today

By United Press International
Funeral services for three of the four Negro girls killed in a church bombing Sunday at Birmingham, Ala., were to be held today with Negro leader Martin Luther King Jr. delivering the main eulogy.

The other victim, Carol Robertson, 14, was buried Tuesday in a tearful ceremony attended by more than 1,500 persons. At least 25 white ministers and priests and a white city councilman were present.

"Their deaths have not been in vain," said the Rev. John H. Cross, pastor of the bombed 16th Street Baptist Church. "May we not seek revenge by perpetrating evil but may we seek to find the God she sought."

Authorities said after the funeral that murder charges had been filed against two 18-year-old white boys in the fatal shooting of a Negro youth following the bombing.

Police in Selma, Ala., Tuesday arrested at least 12 Negroes during an anti-segregation demonstration in the tightly segregated city. Nine of the group were charged with marching without a permit and three were charged with disorderly conduct.

About 200 Negro children marched from their school to a church in a protest against segregation at Williamston, N. C. Police said the march was so orderly that "we hardly considered it a demonstration."

British Embassy Hit By Mob In Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI)—A howling mob of 10,000 rioters, protesting the formation of the new nation of Malaysia, sacked and burned the British Embassy today.

The embassy staff fled to safety under police protection. Some embassy employees were injured in the rioting.

The rioters staged their attack in retaliation for a demonstration against the Indonesian Embassy in the Malaysian capital of Kuala Lumpur Tuesday.

Indonesian authorities made no attempt to put out the fire in the embassy.

told Indonesian Ambassador B.M. Diah in a heated five-minute session that "proper means should be taken by the Indonesian government to protect the British ambassador and British lives and property."

Pick Out Targets
The British were singled out for attack because they have strongly backed the new nation, which is a federation of Singapore, Malaya and two British territories on the island of Borneo, part of which is shared by Indonesia. The new federation is opposed by Indonesia and the Philippines, with both of whom Malaysia severed diplomatic relations Tuesday.

The fires started by today's mob burned out the inside of most of the embassy building and destroyed eight embassy cars. The flames burned into the late afternoon.

British Ambassador Andrew Gilchrist and his staff, who had faced another riot only two days ago, were reported to have reached safety with police help.

TRAGIC AFTERMATH—As truck-bus lies mangled in the foreground after being hit by a train near Chualar, Calif., late Tuesday, rescue workers help injured and carry away dead. A total of 28 Mexican laborers were killed and 32 were injured, many seriously.—UPI Telephoto

28 Mexicans Killed In California Crash

CHUALAR, Calif. (UPI)—A Southern Pacific freight train ripped through a makeshift bus at 65 miles an hour Tuesday, killing 28 of 60 Mexican farm workers crowded into the converted vehicle.

The California Highway Patrol said 22 of the victims were killed outright and six died later while being treated at hospitals in Salinas, 10 miles to the north.

Many of the 32 men who survived the tragedy were so badly injured that Monterey County Coroner Chris Hill said he feared the death toll might rise. The identities of the victims were expected to be announced later today.

The Highway Patrol described the tragedy as "the biggest single fatal vehicle accident of any kind in the history of California."

called salad bowl of the nation. The braceros, Mexican nationalists working under arrangements between the U.S. and Mexican governments, had finished their work in a celery field just eight minutes before.

The freight engine, pulling 71 open-top cars of sugar beets, ploughed broadside into the converted truck, which was fitted with an aluminum canopy and parallel benches for use as a bus by the farm laborers.

"Bodies just flew all over the place," said Tony Vasquez, 29, a field supervisor who witnessed the tragedy from a nearby lettuce field.

The train traveled a mile before engineer R. E. Crype, San Luis Obispo, Calif., could bring it to a stop. The roof of the bus, embedded with bits of clothing, Mexican straw hats and shoes, still was attached to the front of the engine.

Skunk 'Blows' Into Theater

EAST GREENWICH, R.I. (UPI)—A skunk waddled into The Kent Theater Tuesday night and cleared the house five minutes after the start of the feature movie, "Come Blow Your Horn."

The skunk was seen by a patron who called the manager. The animal was taken to a nearby field and released.

The skunk was seen by a patron who called the manager. The animal was taken to a nearby field and released.

This hunter turned to the Want Ads to find a new home for his Brittany spaniel... which did the trick in two days.

Take advantage of the Herald and News Sports Equipment Want Ad week—now through Monday—when you get 6 days for the price of 3 to buy, sell or trade sports equipment. Just dial TU 4-8111 or stop in at 1301 Esplanade. A Want Ad writer will be glad to help you word your ad.