FILES FOR DIVORCE
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former child star Barbara Luna, who appeared in the original cast of "South Pacific," filed for divorce Tuesday from actor Doug McClure on the ground of mental cruelty. The McClures were married Dec. 17, 1961.

Henley High Notes

By KATHY DE GRANDE
Class officers were elected last Tuesday at Henley High School during special meetings. They are as follows:

Seniors—John Riggs, president; Elton Schiro, vice president; Oma Lea Whipple, secretary; Janis Curry, treasurer; and Peg Baldwin, student council representative.

Juniors—John Antle, president; Kim Hale, vice president; Vicki Soha, secretary; Mary Tacchini, treasurer; and Lyle Bergstrom, student council representative.

Freshmen—Sharry Breithaupt, president; Steve Buhig, vice president; Linda Holzhausen, secretary; Linda Pickett, treasurer; and John Elliott, student council representative.

Eighth Grade—Luther Horsley, president; Noni Dinger, vice president; Dianne Croft, secretary; Hal Sturgeon, treasurer; and Danny Albritton, student council representative.

Several new teachers have joined the teaching staff at Henley High School this year.

Marilyn Alter, a graduate of the University of New Mexico, comes to Henley to instruct eighth and ninth graders in English.

Jack Henry, another new member of the staff, instructs several classes of American history and modern problems.

After studying a year at the University of North Dakota, Harlan Heyden returns to Henley to teach general science and biology. Coming to Henley from California, Dale King is teaching the eighth and ninth graders the fundamentals of math. He also instructs boys' P.E.

James Morley comes to Henley from Bonanza High School to teach commercial courses—short-hand, typing, and bookkeeping. Cleora Rice joins Henley after teaching for two years in Mountain Home, Idaho. She teaches 10th and 11th grade English.

Bird Watching Proves Less Thrilling Than Bed

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The alarm clock begins clanging precisely at 6:30 a.m. For a moment, groping my way through the fog of slumber, I am under the impression that there has been a prison break somewhere.

Then I remember. I have set the alarm because I have to get up early. I have committed myself to go to Boonsboro, Md., with a party of bird watchers to see the hawks fly over Monument Knob.

The invitation to witness this ornithological spectacle was extended by a friend of mine who is a member of the Audubon society. At the time, over a second round of squeezings from the fruit of the juniper bush, it seemed like a swell idea.

Abrupt Transformation
But at 6:30 a.m., the environment has undergone an abrupt transformation. I resolve never to touch the fruit of the juniper bush again.

I make my way into the kitchen, pack a lunch consisting of a cold meat loaf sandwich and head for the rendezvous point — a Howard Johnson's restaurant. We meet in the parking lot, check directions with our leader, make certain our bird watchers' manuals are at the ready, and the safari's underway.

It is cold up there on Monument Knob. Along with about a dozen Audubon members, I am perched on top of the Washington Monument. Not the Washington Monument. The Boonsboro Washington Monument.

The Boonsboro Washington Monument was erected in 1827, before the Washington Washington Monument was even started. It took almost an entire day to build it.

Top Of Mountain
Moreover, it is 1,000 feet higher than the Washington Washington Monument. That is because the Boonsboro Washington Monument was built on top of a 1,600-foot mountain.

The hawks are supposed to fly over the monument on their southward migration and we are scanning the sky with our binoculars.

"There's one!" I shout as a large winged creature flashes across my line of vision.

"That's a gnat, you idiot," my friend exclaims.

It is difficult to adjust your vision to binoculars, but finally I score. While the others are diverted by a rufous-sided towhee, I sight nine hawks winging down the valley.

It takes stamina to win your spurs as a bird watcher, but once you make it you are on top of the world. Or at least on top of the Boonsboro Washington Monument.

The only thing more thrilling is staying at home in bed.
