

Two Vote Against Platinum Polish

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: A referee is needed. Will you serve? I have been told for as long as I can remember that I have very beautiful hands. My nails are long and the type that do not break. It so happens that I especially like platinum frosted nail polish. I keep my nails perfectly manicured and people are always commenting on them.

The other evening, much to my surprise, the man I've been going with for several months said, "Why don't you stop wearing that hideous nail polish? Your nails look like an eagle's talons." I was dumbfounded but made a quick recovery and told him I would choose the kind of nail polish I liked—and for the time being I like this.

Do you feel perhaps I should do as he suggests just to please him? Or should I refuse to be pushed around?—TARSUS

Dear Tarsus: I don't see any evidence that he is trying to push you around. The man simply let you know he doesn't like your nail polish.

I say stop wearing the platinum frosted stuff. If your nails and hands are as lovely as you say, any shade of polish will look well. The man will be flattered and you will have lost nothing.

(P.S. I agree with him, I don't like that platinum frosted stuff, either.)

Dear Ann Landers: We moved

Gamble On Finesse

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Take a look at the South hand. Your partner opens one no-trump. You want to be in game and have considerable slam interest provided that your partner has good spades for you, at least two aces and better than a minimum no-trump.

You also note that there is no reason to use a transfer bid because no lead can hurt you as declarer. What do you do in the Jacoby system?

You respond three spades. This tells your partner all these things and asks him to bid three no-trump with poor spades; four spades with good spades and a minimum 15-point no-trump or four of some other suit with good spades and a maximum 17-point no-trump.

Hence, North's four diamond rebid does not indicate that he wants to play diamonds, but confirms a near maximum no-trump with good spades.

This leaves South no problems at all. He uses Blackwood to check for aces and bids six spades after North shows two of those nice cards.

When South bids six spades he is not certain that the slam will be a laydown, but West knows definitely that at worst the slam will depend on a finesse and there is no reason to refuse to bid a slam under those circumstances.

into our new home only a few days ago. It is a charming place, just what we've been looking for—but I think we may have trouble with the woman next door. I'm writing to ask how to handle the problem before it starts.

When our van of furniture pulled up this neighbor hauled a lawn chair over to the edge of her property—as close to ours as she could get. She sat there the whole time the van was unloading, examining every piece of furniture as it was carried into our home.

I'm worried about a woman who has so much free time that she can spend an afternoon this way. I've never had any trouble with neighbors and I don't want any now. From her looks I can tell she is not the type I'd care to have anything to do with. How can I be cool without being cold?—STORM WARNING

Dear Storm: I know of no personally thermometer which registers degrees, but most people recognize a chilly hello when they hear it.

If you will keep your hello at about 60 degrees Fahrenheit you will have no problem.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married six years. We have passed our 70th birthdays but you would not think so if you saw us on the ballroom floor.

The problem I'm writing about is not a serious one, in fact it is not really a problem—but a question which needs an answer.

My husband was married to his first wife for 40 years. I was married to my first husband for 37 years. We have discussed our burial plans in a sensible and realistic way. We both agree that each of us should be buried beside our first mates in our respective family plots.

What I do not know, however, is which name I should be buried under. How should the headstone read? Since I will be resting next to my first husband should I be buried under his name? Thank you.—TWICE BLESSED

Dear Blessed: The name on the headstone should read: Mrs. Alice Smith (your first husband's name) Jones (your second husband's name).

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for Ann Landers booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mixed Reactions Expressed On Peace Corps' Birthday

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Peace Corps celebrates its second anniversary Sunday. How do the Peace Corps workers feel about their job. Many want to go back. Some are disillusioned. A consensus is contained in the following dispatch.

By GEORGE WEEKS
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With two years of work behind them, most Peace Corps volunteers feel the job was worth the doing.

Those who don't found the program blocked by red tape in underdeveloped nations. Some were bitter. They said they could not break through the inertia of the people they were sent to help.

Still others were disappointed with their receptions in the nations they were supposed to aid.

Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver told United Press International that the corps asked for comments and criticisms from more than 700 volunteers who have completed their tours of duty.

Here is a sampling of what they found:

James Welcome, Bloomington, Ill., said "for actual accomplishments we may have been a failure, but maybe some of the ideas we tried to give them will take hold."

Doug Darling, of Tulsa, Okla., said his work in the Philippines convinced him the Peace Corps was a "wonderful vehicle for winning new friends, and keeping the friends we already have."

In Tanganyika, Jerry Parsons of Albany, N.Y., said he was so well liked that he was offered a wife and a farm if he would stay on the job.

Attempts To Discourage
But in Ethiopia, one volunteer said the government tried to discourage the Peace Corps workers "because they are afraid we will acquaint the common masses with a better way of life."

Susan Johnson of Sausalito, Calif., reported that in the Philippines the people "were very dubious at having the great white Americans descend upon them."

Soviets Report Border Crossings

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet newspaper reported today that an undisclosed number of persons have fled into the Soviet Union to escape persecution.

This was the first public acknowledgment here that there have been border crossings between Sinkiang Province in north-west China and Soviet central Asia since the Chinese alleged that Russia forced "tens of thousands" of Chinese into Soviet territory in the spring of 1962. The Chinese charges were made Sept. 6.

The report in Komsomolskaya Pravda appeared to be an indirect answer to these charges although thus far there has been no formal Soviet government reply.

The young Communist League organ did not disclose when the refugees came over the border into Kirghizia, one of the 15

S.U.S.S.R. republics. Four refugees, two Soviet citizens and two Chinese citizens,

Crash Kills 6 Teenagers

LOWELL, Ind. (UPI) — Six teenagers, including the son of the Lowell, Ind., police chief, were killed late Friday night in a grinding head-on collision of two cars near here.

Authorities said three of the youths died en route to Methodist Hospital in Gary. The others were killed outright.

Gerald Griesmer, 15, son of Police Chief Robert Griesmer, was among the three killed outright in the crash at the intersection of Indiana 2 and 55 three miles east of here.

The Lake County sheriff's office said Griesmer and four companions had just left a farm near here where they attended a post-football game party when their car rammed into another.

Also killed were Gwen Slack, 16, Cedar Lake; Leonard Ausgen, 16; Robert Felder, 17, and Lewis Belshaw, 17, all of Lowell, and Carole Jean Wilson, 18, Behron, the lone occupant of the other car.

Trainees Must Ride Bicycles

PORTLAND (UPI) — Peace Corps trainees at Portland State College have received 41 bikes to use while in Portland. The trainees are not permitted to have cars.

They are training for duties in Turkey.

There was no hostility... But we could never overcome their underlying doubts about our mission.

On Sunday, the Peace Corps will be two years old. It has 6,634 volunteers assigned to, or training for, 49 countries.

The Philippines has the greatest number of workers in the Far East. In Africa, there were about 2,208 volunteers either training for African assignments or already on duty.

Shriver said it is the goal of the corps to someday have the entire program managed by experienced volunteers. He said they have seen its shortcomings and successes, and that their help will be invaluable for a "flexible, dynamic Peace Corps."

Exchange Student From Southern Rhodesia To Get First Taste Of Wintry Blasts In KF

By RUTH KING

Nicholas Michael Holman has traded interesting Southern Rhodesia and his home city of Gwelo, for equally interesting Oregon and Klamath Falls, for this school year.

He will make his home with Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Kellstrom and their three sons, Lon, Scott and Todd. He left behind his parents, both teachers, and a brother Peter, 13.

He exchanged summer from December to April for winter during most of that time in this country. He will be introduced, when the nights get cold, to the first electric blanket he has ever seen and come fortified with numerous handsome, hand-knitted garments made by his mother to protect him from wintry blasts. They just don't have snow and ice nor biting winds in Southern Rhodesia. Altitude of the two countries is about the same. The minimum temperature is 55 degrees.

Michael came to Klamath Falls under the American Field Service program which permits youth of nations around the world to live with families of other countries, share family responsibilities, exchange ideas and understand that all nationalities have much the same problems, regardless of hemisphere.

This trip to America is the realization of a dream for Michael, one he has held since he was a small boy. He is now 17. He anticipates a "tremendous year ahead," he says, and hopes to add much to his already creditable store of information on life in America.

Michael is a 12th grade student. He wants to specialize in English literature and lecture at the university level, not teach. There are already two teachers in his family, his father in high school, his mother in a nursery school.

He plays field hockey and squash on school and town teams and likes scouting.

Michael has not lived all his lifetime in Southern Rhodesia. He was born in Cornwall, England, was taken to South Africa about 1947 and four years later his family moved to their present home.

While he as yet has no heavy responsibilities in financing upkeep of a home, he has compared living costs here and in Africa, where they are lower, except for "petrol" which is $1 per gallon. Most of the car models there are much smaller than in the U.S. and get around 30 miles per gallon.

Local papers in his home town are published once a week. The Bulawayo Chronicle, printed elsewhere, has a circulation of 60,000.

He is fitting into high school schedules like any boy raised under the Stars and Stripes. His not aware, and Michael didn't for speaking engagements before parents have expressed appreciation for American generosity that, until not too long before he took delighted with his British accent.

Next summer, perhaps with reluctance, he will leave Klamath Falls to return to the country founded by Cecil John Rhodes and colonized by the British South African Company.

Mrs. Lemler Leads Local Bridge Play

Mrs. L. C. Lemler posted the best record among local duplicate bridge players last week when she registered two wins and placed second and third in four bridge tournaments held locally since a week ago Saturday.

Mrs. Lemler teamed up with John Lake that day to finish first among a field of 10 teams at the Klamath Bridge Club. The following day she repeated this trick at the Unit Committee monthly masterpoint playing opposite Leona Robertson. In the other two events, she placed second with Pauline Offield in the early bird tournament at the Lakeshore Bridge Club Tuesday and was third with Pat Cunningham at the same club Thursday.

Complete results last week: Unit Committee Masterpoint: NS, 1, Mrs. L. Lemler-Leona Robertson; 2, Dorothy Rogers-Anne Briggs; 3, Capt. Jeff Neal-L. C. Haberstick. EW, 1, Dolores Reeves-Mrs. V. Moore; 2, Lois Serruys-Kathleen Thompson; 3, Helen Mueller-Polly Merrill.

Lakeshore BC (Thursday): NW, 1-2 (tie), Mrs. William Grove-Lena Smith and Pauline Offield-Ethel Davis; 3, Mrs. L. Lemler-Pat Cunningham, EW, 1, Dr. and Mrs. Seth Kerron; 2, Katie Lake-Jean Underwood; 3, Bonnie Vandenberg-Mrs. Oscar Shive.

Klamath BC (Saturday, Sept. 14): 1, Mrs. L. C. Lemler - John Lake; 2, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Laylor; 3, Mr. and Mrs. Art Beddoe.

Lakeshore BC (Tuesday): NS, 1, Dolores Reeves - Mary Ramo; 2, Mrs. L. C. Lemler-Pauline Offield; 3, Capt. Jeff Neal-Grace Kresse. EW, 1-2 (tie), Elizabeth Hyde-Peg Chilcote and Mrs. J. L. Calhoun-Mrs. James Stilwell; 3, Mrs. L. S. Barry-Mrs. John Retterath.

All bucks must also be tagged and validated at the nearest inspection station before being transported home. Validation stations include any forest service office; county, city or state police; U.S. post office; fish and game wardens, and any quarantine station.

This year's season runs through Oct. 13.

Modoc Hunt Prospects Look Better

ALTURAS — Hunting prospects in Modoc County brightened last week with the sustained stormy condition throughout the county. The disturbance which brought light snows to the high mountains is expected to bring the deer down from the hills and into the hunting areas.

Fish and game spokesmen in Alturas stated that the pre-season estimate for deer kill was light due to the short season and new three-point or better law which went into effect this year.

Fish and game officials warned that a legal kill must be a three-point or better buck, and that the high guards or bony projections on the lower one-third of the antler do not count as a point.
